BORAH FIRST IN LUCAS POLL FOR '36 CANDIDATE

Lowden 5th, Hoover in Sixth Place.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—With increasing evidence that the popularity of President Roosevelt is receding in many parts of the country, interest in the Republican nomination for President next year surged to the fore today.

The challenge to the President to define his attitude toward the constitution issued by Herbert Hoover in Chicago yesterday caused no end of speculation on the question whether this move represents a bid for renomination by the former Republican President.

At the same time Senator William E. Borah of Idaho suddenly found himself in the limelight as the outstanding potential Republican nominee, by virtue of the poll of Republican county committeemen conducted by Robert Lucas, who was executive director of the Republican national committee toward the end of the Hoover régime.

Hoover Runs in Sixth Place.

In this poll Senator Borah ran first, Frank Knox of Illinois second, Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas third, and Senator Arthur H. Vanderberg of Michigan fourth. Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois was fifth, and Mr. Hoover sixth.

Because he is 74 years old and would be 76 on taking office, if he were nominated and elected, there is not much chance of the consideration of Mr. Lowden despite his mental and physical vigor and the politically invigorating keynote speech he made at the Grass Roots convention. It falls out, therefore, that on the basis of this poll and the consideration that the party undoubtedly will look to the west for its nominee, the leading Republican presidential possibilities at this writing, in addition to Mr. Hoover, are Borah, Knox, Landon and Vandenberg. There are any number of dark horses, east and west, but probably this quartet will continue to lead the field for some time to come.

Borah Withholds Comment.

Senator Borah was the object of much attention today in and out of the senate as the result of the thrusting of his name to the fore. He lightly and self-depreciatingly turned aside all attempts to draw him into comment on the position in which he finds himself and on the possibility of his nomination, but it was apparent that the evidence of his popularity in the party was not unmusical to his ears.

As a matter of fact, the results of the poll were not exactly news to the senator. He has been receiving bushels of letters from all over the country, suggesting, urging, and imploring that he toss his hat into the ring and pledging him all kinds of mass support. The number of letters and telegrams urging his candidacy increased enormously following his defense of the constitution in reply to the President's famous Friday press conference proposals of a change in the form of government.

Would Be 72 Years Old.

The consideration of age has been raised against Senator Borah, who has just turned 70 and would be 72 on taking office, if nominated and elected. There is a congenital indisposition in political parties to nominate a candidate over 65. Only one man, William Henry Harrison, ever attained the presidency after 70 and he died a month after his inauguration. Then there is the tradition against nominating a candidate in a small state which does not count for much in the number of electoral votes the candidate could deliver. Idaho has only 4.

One after another these party traditions are thrown into the discard, however, as circumstances alter cases. Prior to 1928 it was commonly held that neither major party would go west of the Mississippi for a candidate. Then the Republicans went to California for Mr. Hoover.

Age Might Go Same Way.

Inasmuch as Mr. Borah is physically vigorous and mentally is more than a match for those who essay to break lances with him, the age consideration would be likely to go the same way as the geographical tradition. Of much greater importance

PARIS-ARGENTINE AIR LINE TO BEGIN NEXT JANUARY

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 12.—Air France plans to inaugurate passenger service from Paris to Buenos Aires in January, according to an announcement here today by the French company's famous flyer, Jean Mermoz.

Mermoz recently flew the British made plane, the Comet, from Paris to Dakar, Senegal, Africa, in a test flight, then made his eleventh crossing of the South Atlantic in command of the Santos Dumont. He continued on here for an inspection trip. He announced that the air mail time between Paris and Buenos Aires would be cut to 40 hours in January. Mail and passenger services will be operated independently.

Passengers will cross the South Atlantic in giant flying boats of the Lieut. de Vaisseau type, with a carrying capacity of 60 passengers. The company is installing landing fields at Porto Puria in the Cape Verde Islands and on Fernando de Noronza Islands off the Brazilian coast. Mermoz says the distance between these new landing fields can be covered in seven hours, which would be the longest stretch over the ocean.

State Fixes Pay in Beauty Shops Amid Protests

A minimum wage of $16.50 and a 45 hour week for women beauty operators in Illinois were announced last night by a special board operating under a law passed by the general assembly in 1933.

The announcement, made at a public hearing in the Engineering building on Wacker drive, caused an outburst of protests. "It's the old NRA and it's unconstitutional," shouted some of the beauty shop owners who were interested spectators of the proceedings. "You will drive us out of business," said others.

After the wages, hours, and other regulations have been completed in final form they will be imposed on the beauty industry through an order issued by Martin Durkin, state director of labor, who appointed the special board under the provisions of the state minimum wage law for women and minors. A similar "code" was put into effect for the macaroni industry in February and one for the laundry industry two weeks ago. The imposition of codes for other industries will follow.

Employers Face Penalties.

Discrimination against any employé or his unlawful discharge is punishable under the act by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $100. Failure to supply to the state department of labor the records called for in the statute would subject a proprietor to a fine of not less than $25 nor more than $100.

The wages and hours were announced by the chairman of the special board, Helen Fisher Hohman, lecturer on economics at Northwestern university and the University of Chicago.

Supporting her against the verbal thrusts of the shop owners were Kate O'Connor, chief of the state's minimum wage division, and Daniel D. Carmell, assistant attorney general.

Strong Words Over Prices.

"We might as well give the shop to the operators," asserted William Rott, owner of a beauty shop at 5115 West 25th street, Cicero. "What recourse does an owner have in a neighborhood where many people are on relief?"

"The employer," retorted Carmell, "should not go down to the level of the people on relief."

"People working in the factories can't afford to pay a dollar for a finger wave as they do in the loop," stormed Rott.

Owners attacked a rule that an operator be allowed to go to lunch in five hours after starting work.

The board will hold further hearings this afternoon at Peoria and Wednesday at East St. Louis.

M'CUTCHEON IN RIO

Cartoonist Overcome by Beauty of City; Can't Even Say 'Gosh.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 12.—When I first saw Venice all I could say was "Gosh!" When I saw Rio de Janeiro in today's sunlight I could not even say that in the face of such incomparable loveliness.

All advance notices fall short. It's like using "nice" or "pretty" about the Grand Canyon. Rio is a combination of gay, colorful beauty and sensational grandeur with unbelievable peaks leaping skyward.

Sydney, Naples, and San Francisco harbors are beautiful, but they are amateurs in the beauty contest compared with Rio. My wonder is why the original discoverer stopped at the River of January when he might have named it Divine Haven of Breathless Beauty.

We came from Sao Paulo in a twelve hour night ride on a train, reputedly South America's best, which serves free coffee, rolls, and marmalade. One of our party took tea, slightly disturbing the serenity of the world's coffee center.

Approaching Rio de Janeiro we passed through a rich valley supporting Brazil's claim as potentially the richest nation of the world.

We were informed that the Graf Zeppelin will arrive Friday and leave the same afternoon at 5 o'clock to avoid the probability of the morning fog on Saturday. A full complement of twenty passengers will go to Zeppelin field, thirty miles out, by special train at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

'ICICLE' DOCTOR GIVEN QUACKERY SENTENCE IN 1933

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The proposal of "Dr." Ralph S. Willard of Hollywood to freeze a human being, then revive him, received a setback today when it was revealed that Willard had been sentenced in 1933 for unlicensed practice, and in Kansas City had once been exposed after posing as a Russian prince.

The state board of medical examiners' records disclosed that on July 27, 1933, Dr. Willard was given a choice of a $300 fine or 150 days in jail on the unlicensed practice charge, which grew out of allegations that he severely burned a woman's back with a salve he had prescribed.

In the face of opposition from city health authorities, Stephen Simkhovitch, who had agreed to submit to the freeze-and-revive experiment, announced that he would do nothing illegal.

Earlier he had remained deaf to pleas of his mother, Mrs. Mary Simkhovitch, New York social worker, who telephoned from Maine asking him not to undergo the experiment.

EMPEROR TELLS WORLD: ETHIOPIA READY FOR WAR

Appeals to Nations Again for Help.

BY WILL BARBER.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Aug. 12.—In mild but precise words, spoken from his divan-like throne to ministers and notables standing in front of him, Emperor Haile Selassie I. today warned the world once more that Ethiopia never will accept any sort of mandate or any reduction of its sovereignty or territory. Instead, Ethiopians, if they must, he said, will go to their mountains and deserts and fight "to the last drop of blood" to save themselves from Italy.

The meeting was hastily convoked so the emperor could define Ethiopia's position before Great Britain, France, and Italy open negotiations Friday in Paris on a basis of their treaty of 1906 splitting the African empire into three spheres of influence.

Appeals for World Sympathy.

The emperor appealed to the peoples of the various nations to persuade their governments to change their unsympathetic attitude toward Ethiopia. He implored the British and French particularly to force the Italians to abandon their warlike intentions.

American public opinion was not overlooked. Suddenly the words, "The American President Roosevelt," sounded quaintly in the red draped throne room as the emperor thanked the President for his attitude toward the crisis.

Rainy Season Near End.

A single sentence of the speech fixed the situation in all its gravity as it stands today—"The end of the rainy season draws near." That is the time the Ethiopians believe Italy will begin the war.

"And while divers means of finding a peaceful solution are sought, Italy continues unceasingly to send troops and war materials into two adjacent colonies. The danger of war grows graver day by day."

The emperor assured the world that Ethiopia intends to progress as rapidly as possible in all directions, but he pointed out that the great powers themselves had to move slowly to advance in civilization.

States Ethiopian Position.

The "king of kings" stated Ethiopia's position in these words:

"Ethiopia is anxious to safeguard order and peace in the interior of the country and never will accept anything that might harm its independence, lessen its sovereignty or hurt the prestige of its emperor, people, and army.

"Ethiopia renews its faith in the impartiality of the league of nations, and renews its faith in the help of all nations which will bring their collaboration to the maintenance of peace.

"If, however, the nations' efforts and our own remain in vain and if a diabolic force gets the upper hand to bring war that sows sorrow, shame and misery on human beings, the Ethiopian people will rise up with their emperor at their head and, confident in divine aid, will defend themselves against the invader to the last drop of blood by protecting themselves in their natural fortresses, the mountains and the deserts, which the Lord has granted unto them."

Ethiopian Attitude on Parley.

The Ethiopian attitude toward the forthcoming tripower negotiations, it was learned today, is as follows:

Ethiopia finds satisfaction in the efforts of the powers to find a peaceful solution of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute, but formulates the same reserves that Emperor Menelik formulated toward the 1906 treaty—since Ethiopia is not a party to the treaty it cannot be bound by its provisions.

Ethiopia will not accept any limit over its sovereignty, political independence or integrity. Ethiopia will welcome the economic and social aid of the league of nations, but no mandate or other arrangements outside the covenant of the league. It will not accept spheres of influence. It will grant economic concessions but will insist on fixing its own conditions.

As regards the British offer to cede the port of Zeila, in British Somaliland, and a corridor to the Red sea in exchange for the cession of part of Ogaden to Italy, Ethiopia is still ready to agree, but will not make territorial concessions in exchange simply for economic advantages.

A Dying Man Leaves Police Real Mystery

On the floor of the dining room in his basement flat Miles Kramer lay dead—a bullet in his heart. About the body of the 38 year old amateur inventor and day dreamer stood the police and Kramer's tearful widow, Helen, 35 years old.

Urged by the police, the widow told her story again, wearily. She had worked all day Saturday in an Irving Park boulevard department store where she is a clerk. In the early evening her husband telephoned her to say he had collected $100 in "back wages." She was amazed, having believed him to be unemployed. Nevertheless the news was a happy surprise and when her day's work ended at 8 p. m. she hurried home.

She reached the basement apartment, 4243 North Keeler avenue, at about 8:45 p. m. and found her husband's body, just as it lay when the police called.

No Gun at Scene.

"And you found no gun?" The policeman had asked the question many times and he listened skeptically as she replied again:

"No. There was no gun."

The policeman told Mrs. Kramer she was under arrest; then he took her away, leaving members of his squad to search the house for a .38 caliber pistol. They found none.

The widow was questioned further, the interrogation always coming back to the same point—the gun.

At the inquest yesterday she told something of her late husband's character and habits. He was a moody fellow who spent most of his time mooning over mystery and detective stories, she said. Also he puttered around over inventions. He often told his wife fanciful tales of lucrative employment. His last phone call to her was an example of his imaginative stories, she added. The "$100 back pay" was not in his pockets.

An interested listener at this recital was Capt. Joseph Goldberg of the Albany Park police. Could it have been, he asked himself, that this erratic character was carried away by the idea of dramatically staging his own murder?

"Find That Gun!"

Capt. Goldberg called Lieut. John McGloon and Patrolman James Fogarty and sent them back to the Kramer apartment. His order was:

"Find that gun!"

One of the first things the investigators noticed when they reached the suite of rooms was a door in the dining room that led into a passageway about 10 feet long. This, they found, opened into the building's boiler room. Besides the boilers, there were built-in tubs for laundry work and a stove. There was nothing unusual about the room, however, and McGloon and Fogarty were about to turn away when something that was lying across a burner of the stove caught their attention.

A Strange Find.

It was an 8 inch length of ⅝ inch pipe. It was plugged at one end and the open end pointed toward the passage that led to the Kramer dining room. McGloon and Fogarty removed the plug and pulled out a discharged .38 caliber cartridge. It was the end of the mystery.

Kramer, the police are convinced, swathed the cartridge with packing so it would fit snugly into the larger diameter of the pipe. Then he jammed it in and attached the metal cap. He lighted a burner and fastened the pipe to the stove so the loaded end of the pipe was over the flame. This done, Kramer stood in front of the bizarre weapon and waited until the heat exploded the fulminate in the priming cap. Mortally wounded though he was, Kramer managed to reach his dining room before dying.

The stove burner, police believe, was turned off later by a janitor or a tenant who used the laundry.

PROTEST FLOOD BRINGS SWITCH IN SENATE BODY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The senate finance committee, terrified over the week-end by the wails and lamentations of the radicals against soaking the "poor man," today went from relief workers to millionaires in two jumps and reported out a soak the rich tax bill estimated to yield 289 million dollars a year.

By a vote of 8 to 7 the committee ditched the La Follette amendment, adopted Saturday without a record vote, and thereby swept away some 175 million dollars of prospective revenue. This amendment, now in the discard, would have started surtax increases at $3,000 instead of $50,000, as proposed by the house bill, and lower personal exemptions from $2,500 to $2,000 for married persons and from $1,000 to $800 for single persons.

Still jittery under the tidal wave of protests against hitting the smaller brackets, the committee thereupon adopted an amendment proposed by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], its chairman, starting surtax increases at 1 million dollars, as suggested by President Roosevelt, instead of $50,000, as provided by the house.

Estimates on Yield.

The bill which the committee voted to report, however, contains new provisions to compensate for those eliminated from the house bill and the estimated revenue is only $1,000,000 less. This is divided in the senate bill as follows:

Graduated corporation income tax	$ 60,000,000
Corporation excess profits and capital stock taxes	65,000,000
Intercorporate dividend taxes	39,000,000
Increased estate taxes with related gift taxes	100,000,000
Increased surtaxes on incomes in excess of $1,000,000	5,000,000
Total	$289,000,000

The bill thus more closely follows the demands of President Roosevelt than the house measure, with the exception of inheritance taxes, which the senate committee eliminated. Even this action was offset by the increase in the existing estate and gift tax rates, expected to bring in 100 million dollars.

Estate taxes, now having a maximum of 60 per cent, are increased all the way up in the senate bill, beginning at 2 per cent on estates below $10,000 and reaching a maximum of 70 per cent on all above 50 million. Gift taxes, approximating 75 per cent of the estate taxes, are increased proportionately. The present $50,000 exemption on net estates was reduced to $40,000.

Corporation Tax Broadened.

The senate committee also broadened the range of the graduated corporation tax, demanded by the President. The house had levied an income tax of 13¾ per cent on corporate incomes up to $15,000 and 14¼ per cent above $15,000, against a range of 10¾ to 16¾ per cent, proposed by Mr. Roosevelt. The senate committee bill provides for rates graduated as follows: Below $15,000, 12½ per cent; $15,000 to $40,000, 14 per cent; $40,000 to $100,000, 15 per cent; above $100,000, 15½ per cent. The present flat rate is 13¾ per cent.

The intercorporate dividend tax proposed by the senate committee was one of the two long range suggestions of President Roosevelt, the other being a tax on "unnecessary and unwieldy" surpluses. The committee bill exempts intercorporate dividends up to 85 per cent, and taxes the other 15 per cent according to the income tax that would be paid under the corresponding bracket. Thus, 15 per cent of the dividends paid by an operating company would be taxed anywhere from 12½ per cent to 15½ per cent for each succeeding holding company through which they passed.

Inspired by Antagonism.

This proposal was inspired by President Roosevelt's antagonism to holding companies, while the graduated corporation tax was inspired by his antagonism to "bigness."

The senate bill imposes an excess profits tax of 6 per cent on profits above 10 per cent and 12 per cent on net returns above 15 per cent. The house had levied a graduated excess profits tax ranging from 5 to 20 per cent on profits above 84 per cent.

The existing rate is 5 per cent on profits above 12½ per cent.

The house made no change in the existing capital stock tax, which is $1 per thousand, but the senate committee increased it to $1.50.

The committee adopted a new schedule of surtax rates on individual incomes in excess of $1,000,000. They are:

1 million to 1½ million	60 per cent.
1½ million to 2 million	62 per cent.
2 million to 3 million	65 per cent.
3 million to 5 million	68 per cent.
5 million to 7 million	71 per cent.
7 million to 10 million	74 per cent.
Above 10 million	75 per cent.

Yield About 5 Million.

These surtax rates, of course, are in addition to the 4 per cent normal tax. The house bill provided for surtaxes of 73 per cent above 1 million, 74 per cent above 2 million and 75 per cent above 5 million. The present maximum surtax rate is 59 per cent on income in excess of 1 million dollars, and President Roosevelt had deemed it inconsistent to tax a man receiving 1 million the same rate as a man receiving 5 million. These increases in the brackets above 1 million will yield only an estimated $5,000,000 in increased revenue.

Under a unanimous consent agreement obtained by Senator Harrison, the report of the committee, to be printed overnight, may be filed up until noon tomorrow and debate on the tax bill may begin immediately. Otherwise it would have to lie over one day under a senate rule. Leaders are confident of passing it this week, whereas, with the drastic increases proposed by the finance committee Saturday, there would have been no telling how long the debate might last.

Borah Sees Defeat.

Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], one of the most vociferous objectors to the La Follette amendment broadening the base and starting surtaxes at $3,000, said today that such a provision would never get anywhere in the senate.

"I have talked to almost everybody in the senate, and the sentiment is overwhelmingly against this proposal," he declared. "Senator Robinson, the majority leader, certainly will vote against it."

Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.], who was absent when the committee adopted the La Follette amendment Saturday, being on a yachting trip with President Roosevelt, made the motion to reconsider today. It first resulted in an 8 to 8 tie, but then carried, 9 to 7. Senator La Follette announced that he was keeping a roll call on the vote to strike out his amendment, and several senators were heard to exclaim: "That makes a lot of difference."

Senators voting to strike out the amendment were Harrison [Dem., Miss.], Barkley [Dem., Ky.], Connally [Dem., Tex.], Bailey [Dem., N. C.], Lonergan [Dem., Conn.], Guffey [Dem., Pa.], Metcalf [Rep., R. I.], and Capper [Rep., Kas.]. Senators voting for it were La Follette [Rad., Wis.], King [Dem., Utah], George [Dem., Ga.], Clark [Dem., Mo.], Byrd [Dem., Va.], and Gerry [Dem., R. I.].

Tell How to Save.

How to save the taxpayer one and one-half billions during the coming fiscal year instead of adding to the present tax load was described to the senate committee today by United States Chamber of Commerce representatives.

Some of the proposed steps were: A saving of 250 millions in regular expenditures; a saving of 18 millions in interest charges on excessive funds placed to the credit of disbursing officers and agencies; the recovery of 322 millions in unneeded assets of government owned corporations and agencies, and a reduction of one billion one hundred million in emergency relief expenditures.

In estimating a possible saving of more than a billion in relief and public works expenditures, the chamber's committee on federal finance explained that it made no allowance whatever for expanding business activity, with a resulting increase in employment, and corresponding lessening of justification for recovery and relief expenditures.

Other Economies Suggested.

The chamber's committee also suggested that by the maintenance of a more active central control over expenditures and avoiding unnecessary duplication of government stafs in Washington and throughout the country other economies might be effected.

"One method of narrowing the gap between receipts and expenditures this year would be realization on unneeded assets of corporations and agencies which have been created by the government," the statement read.

"The excess of assets over liabilities and reserves of agencies wholly financed by federal funds on June 30, 1935, amounted to 3 million 322 million dollars. It is reasonable to expect that by next June there could be realized at least one-tenth of this excess and that such realization would not cause hardship to any persons or enterprises that have received assistance."

BOY KILLED RUNNING WITH CONE.

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—James Jerome Davis Jr., 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Davis, was killed at noon today when struck by a car driven by William Shemronnek. The child was running across the street with an ice cream cone. Shemronnek, held under $1,000 bond, was returning home from a fishing trip.

CRUSADERS' HEAD SPEAKS AGAINST SOAK RICH PLAN

Shows Object Unattainable by Taxation.

Mentor, O., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—A plea to stop the destruction of business and individual incentive caused by the "soak the rich" tax program was made here tonight by Fred O. Clark, national commander of the Crusaders.

From the Crusaders' office in Mentor, Clark's home town, the commander spoke on "The Brass Tacks on Taxes."

"It is beyond understanding," he said, "why reasonable people should believe that we can all become rich by soaking the able to the point where they are no longer able to produce, whereas if we took all they made now it would not give the rest of us one Corona cigar per day.

Only 40 Per Cent Earners.

"How much do you think you can gain by redistribution of wealth through higher taxes? In the first place, only a little more than 40 per cent of the total population of the country's 125 million people actually earn money. The rest are women, children and other dependents.

"In 1933, had we taken from those who earned more than $3,930 every dollar more than this amount and distributed it among men who work or are capable of earning money, each man would have received less than $5 a month. This would scarcely have made us rich and comfortable."

Mr. Clark declared that congress' "soak the rich" scheme is neither a share the weath nor a revenue plan, but an income elimination plan. If it is made effective, he said, men are going to stop producing and risking their money to earn an income that will be taken from them by the government.

Puts Million on Dole.

"Every time a billion five hundred dollars is scared into hiding," the commander said, "we put one million men on the bread lines or on the dole. And every time we encourage that same sum into commercial activity we instantly create jobs for a million men. With ten million idle the problem in this country is to encourage business activity, not to discourage or kill it entirely.

"The objective of this tax measure is the socialization of American industry, for excessive taxation can bring about communism or socialism a hundred times more rapidly than any other means that may be conceived by an utopian or communistic leader.

"It is about time we began to have a thought for the millions of people who want to go back into productive enterprise and become self-sustaining members of organized society. We are making this plea for 125 million people, every one of whom is suffering now because of excessive taxation."

Kicks His Goat to Death and Gets 21 Days in Jail

Oscar Gurley, 35 years old, was sentenced to jail for twenty-one days yesterday by Judge Lamber Ochsenschlager in Aurora, on a charge of kicking his goat to death. His wife told the judge that Gurley became angry at her during a dispute and kicked the goat to spite her.

Despondent over ill health, Joseph Hanso, 30 years old, 2407 South Spaulding avenue, hanged himself last night in the basement of his home.

REP. HOOK DEFENDS FACT 4 RELATIVES ARE ON RELIEF ROLL

Ironwood, Mich., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Representative Frank E. Hook [Dem., Mich.], declared today that if any one tries to use the fact that his father and three of his brothers have received government relief "as a club over my head, I'll just fight all the harder."

Representative Hook said his relatives had been obliged to apply for relief before he ran for congress and declared, "I'm not a bit ashamed of it."

"I had nothing to do with getting them on relief, and I have nothing to do with keeping them on," he said. "I wish I could support all my relatives."

Relief rolls here show that Michael Hook, father of the representative, and Herman Hook, a brother, are receiving work relief, and that George and Lawrence Hook were employed through May on work relief projects. Representative Hook said he believed they had been transferred to the Works Progress administration rolls.

In Lansing, Dr. William Haber, state emergency relief administrator, confirmed Hook's assertion that no inquiry was planned into relief extended the Hook family.

"There was nothing irregular about it," Dr. Haber said.

BYRNS PREDICTS CONGRESS WILL QUIT BY SEPT. 1

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Adjournment of congress next week was predicted today by Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], majority leader of the senate, although Speaker Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] again stated that he believed the session would stretch out to Sept. 1.

The conflicting predictions were made at the White House after the two congressional leaders had emerged from separate conferences with President Roosevelt.

Fears to Set a Date.

Senator Robinson, after saying that adjournment next week was possible, refused to set a definite date lest "some one shoot at it." Speaker Byrns earlier had said that he saw no reason for changing his original guess that congress would be here until Sept. 1.

Senator Robinson called to report to the President the changes made in the tax bill by the senate finance committee. He said that outside of the tax bill there were only the Guffey coal control bill and the ship subsidy bill to pass the senate, and that neither would materially delay adjournment. He made no mention of bills tied up in conference.

Discusses Status of Bills.

The speaker said he had discussed with the President the general legislative situation and the status of pending bills in the house.

He expressed the opinion that some agreement could be reached on the utility holding company bill, now in conference, that would satisfy the stand of the house for the elimination of the "death sentence." Speaker Byrns declared that no one knows what will happen to the Guffey coal stabilization bill once it reaches the debate and vote stage.

KILLED WITH BASEBALL BAT.

Wallace Smith, 28 years old, colored, was beaten to death with a baseball bat during a quarrel yesterday at 3221 South State street. His assailant fled.

BLACK 30 HOUR WEEK BILL LOSES IN SENATE VOTE

Substitute Affects Only Government Sellers.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Shouldering aside the Black 30-hour week bill, the senate today voted to impose NRA code wages and hours on industries dealing with the government.

Amid cries of "discrimination," the Black bill, which would have clamped a 30-hour week on all industries engaging in interstate commerce, went down 61 to 23. The Walsh bill soon after was sped on its way to the house sponsored in principle by the administration.

But first an amendment by Senator Clark [Dem., Mo.] was accepted limiting the measure's operation to two years instead of three as originally provided.

Plead Black Bill in Vain.

Vainly a trio of Democrats pleaded for acceptance of the 30-hour week bill after Clark offered it as a substitute for the Walsh bill.

"If you put the administration's feet to the fire, they won't dare defeat this bill," shouted Senator Long [Dem., La.].

He denounced the Walsh measure, declaring it was like the "Fascisti system" in permitting the President to exempt certain industries or individuals from its provisions.

"The same arguments were advanced against the eight-hour day act for railroads that are used against the Black bill," Clark said.

Senator Black [Dem., Ala.] spoke only briefly in defense of the bill he had sponsored through several sessions of congress.

"Smacks of Embargo."

Senator Austin [Rep., Vt.] opened the attack on the 30-hour week measure, declaring it smacked of "boycott and embargo" in its plan of denying entry of interstate commerce to any commodity produced in violation of the five-day week, six-hour day schedule.

The measure, he said, would put labor in a "straitjacket" by "denying it the right to sell its services for more than thirty hours a week."

Long's assertion that labor considered the 30-hour week bill its most important goal was met by Senator Walsh [Dem., Mass.], author of the government contract bill, with a telegram from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, expressing the "sincere hope" that "no substitute, meritorious as it may seem" should be allowed to block passage of the Walsh bill.

Guffey Coal Bill Scrapes By House Committee, 12 to 11

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Yielding reluctantly to the demands of President Roosevelt to report favorably on the Guffey coal bill despite doubts as to its constitutionality, the house ways and means committee today approved the measure by a 12 to 11 vote.

The bill sets up a national commission to enforce wage, hour, fair trade practice, and price fixing regulations for the soft coal industry. A 15 per cent tax will be levied against operators to insure compliance, 9 per cent of the tax being rebated to those complying. The immediate result of the bill, according to all observers, would be an increase in the price of soft coal to the consumer, particularly in the Illinois area.

Five Democrats Dissent.

Eleven Democrats and one Republican voted for the bill. Six Republicans and five Democrats joined against it, Represenative Chester Thompson, Illinois Democrat, being among the dissenting five. Two Democrats, John W. MacCormack of Massachusetts and Wesley E. Disney of Oklahoma, were allowed to "save face" by voting "present."

The committee acted only after extreme pressure had been exerted by the White House. President Roosevelt twice has promised labor leaders that the bill would be passed at this session. It now has both houses to go through and its fate is still doubtful.

"Nobody knows what the house will do to the bill," commented Speaker Byrns. "There is pretty serious opposition to it."

Gag Rule Foreseen.

The rules committee probably will be asked to announce one of its famous "gags" on the measure. With this aid the Democratic majority may be able to whip the bill through.

The bill was amended in a number of places after President Roosevelt advised the committee to approve it despite fears as to its constitutionality, "however reasonable."

The amended bill is no more constitutional than the original, its opponents assert.

The committee, for example, reduced the penalty tax from 25 to 15 per cent of the value of coal at the mouth of the mine and reduced the rebate from 99 to 90 per cent. But no producer, it was said, could afford to remain outside of the code in the face of the penalties.

PARTY ENMITIES FADE AS JUNKET DAYS DRAW NIGH

Congressional Leaders to Visit Orient.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—As congress battles into what it hopes is the home stretch, squabbling over affairs large and small, there are moments these sultry days when the leaders of both parties, forgetting momentarily their partisan enmities, gaze across the ailes and exchange dreamy smiles of good will and happy understanding. They are looking ahead to happy times after adjournment. Junketing time is near.

Particularly full of joyful anticipation in regard to a certain junket are such figures as Vice President Garner, Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson, Minority Leader Charles L. McNary, and a group of leading Republican and Democratic senators. In the house Speaker Joseph W. Byrns sometimes winks at Minority Leader Bertrand Snell for the same reason.

They're Going to Orient.

All these men, partisan foes on Capitol hill, are slated to mingle in gay companionship on a merry expedition, with all expenses paid, to Hawaii, the Philippines, and Japan. Some fifty senators and representatives, with their wives, will depart from Seattle Oct. 17, and if there is one certain bet in Washington it is that congress will quit in time for all to be on hand for the embarkation.

It is a sad fact that the big names do not often get such an opportunity. The Vice President, the speaker, the majority and minority leaders must refrain from the ordinary junket. They watch wistfully while congressmen of lesser note march off to Alaska, Florida, California and the national parks to investigate various matters for the sake of good government.

But the purpose of the Philippines junket is to witness the inauguration of Manuel Quezon as first president of the Philippine commonwealth. That impressive ceremony takes place next Nov. 15 and the presence of congressional party leaders is considered a virtual necessity. Moreover, the Philippine government has appropriated $50,000 for the trip and it would be a pity, according to congressional reasoning, not to spend the money.

Vacation Par Excellence.

Others who will be in the expedition will be Chairman Key Pittmann of the senate foreign relations committee, Chairman Samuel McReynolds of the house foreign affairs committee, Senator Ernest Gibson, Vermont Republican, and other members of the territories committees of the two houses.

Conversations with some of those taking the trip indicated that, while the solemn purpose of the visit will be kept in mind, the possibilities of the junket as a vacation trip will not be forgotten. Almost all will take wives and other members of their families.

ENDS LIFE WITH GAS.

Neal Scharnak, 57 years old, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling gas in the basement of his home at 9337 Eberhardt avenue.

SANITARY BOARD TO OFFER ROAD TO COOK COUNTY

The Chicago sanitary district, it was learned yesterday, plans to ask Cook county to take over McCormick road, the four mile highway along the north shore channel from Devon avenue in Chicago to Railroad avenue in Evanston. Samuel E. Weinshenker, attorney for the district, said yesterday that the cost of maintaining and policing the highway rightfully belongs to county officials. The action will be taken in accordance with a recent act of the general assembly, which permits the district to convey its highways to state or political subdivisions.

STABBED TO DEATH NEAR HOME.

Eugene Harrison, 30 years old, colored, 4421 Indiana avenue, died in the Provident hospital yesterday a few hours after he had been stabbed by an unidentified colored man near his home.

WORKERS REFUSE TO WALK OUT ON NEW YORK JOBS

Prefer Security Wages to Loss of Relief.

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The strike of skilled laborers on Works Progress administration projects appeared to have collapsed today. Figures announced at Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's office, although disputed by union leaders, showed that there were only 656 men out, 461 fewer than last Friday. Unionists had forecast a walkout of 10,000.

Thomas Murray, head of the executive committee directing the strike, reached working agreements with several white collar and other unions outside of the American Federation of Labor for extension of the strike. On the Astor low cost housing project a sufficient number of strikers who had walked out returned to permit work to be resumed.

Strike Spirit Broken.

Among the membership of the striking unions the "work or go off relief" order of President Roosevelt was described as having broken the strike spirit before it spread widely, leaving the union leaders in a position of having taken a position the members were loath to support.

George Meany, president of the state federation of labor, said, however, fifty-six locals had voted to strike rather than accept the $93.50 a month "security wage" offered in place of the prevailing union scale.

A committee of union delegates made a tour of some of the PWA projects today in an attempt to pull off the union men. They met with indifferent success. Men returned to work on projects all over the city during the day. At 9 a. m. tabulation in Johnson's office showed 514 men out. The returning men cut this down to 356 at noon. At the close of the day, after the business agents had been in action for four hours, the number had risen again to 656. At the close of work Friday 1,117 men had been estimated out.

Cut Off Pay Rolls.

All men on strike at the close of the day were cut off the pay rolls.

None of the striking men, as far as could be learned, have made application at the home relief bureau. Mayor F. H. La Guardia remained silent on the question of whether they would be eligible for relief, and other officials took the attitude that the question would not be raised until an application was made.

Unions are banking on relief funds to finance the strike. The unions, Meany said, "take the position that a striker is just as much entitled to relief as any other citizen in need. We confidently expect them to get it."

An additional $18,000,000 was alloted to WPA projects here by President Roosevelt during the day. It is a part of the $261,000,000 requested in submitted projects, of which more than $80,000,000 had previously been approved by the President.

Undermines U. S. Standard.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Formal protest was filed today by a group of Monroe county relief workers against the proposed WPA wage scale, declaring it undermines the American standard of living. Fred Struble, secretary of the workers' organization, wrote District WPA Director Robert B. Hoffmann that the establishment of a $35 monthly wage for unskilled workers is little better than making the government a "full fledged sweat shop employer."

2,287 at Work in Ohio.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Although the building trades council advised union men to decline to work for PWA wages, 2,287 men today began work on 39 WPA projects here, Waldo Walker, diserict workrs progress administration director, announced.

District officials in Columbus, Akron, and Youngstown, where union members had given notice they would refuse employment unless prevailing union wages were paid, also went ahead with their projects. The Youngstown building trades council said no union builders would accept WPA work and predicted the revolt would tie up completion of building projects in that city.

Ask for Governor's Aid.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Berating conditions which "make it nearly impossible to exist," a delegation representing the unemployed today demanded Gov. Floyd B. Olson's influence in WPA adjustments on threat of bringing on a strike. Mrs. Mabel Koropov, executive secretary of the St. Paul unemployed council, headed the group. She is planning with the St. Paul building trades council to organize relief workers for an effective demand for union wages.

325 Return to Jobs.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Norman Blumberg, secretary of the building trades council, declared today that the strike called at the navy yard Friday still is on despite announcement of navy yard officials that nearly all of their approximately 325 WPA project workers have returned to their jobs.

Urges Transfer to PWA.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 12.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor executive council recommended tonight that all federal works progress administration projects be transferred to the Public Works administration to forestall further work relief strikes throughout the nation.

In a statement the council declared:

"We are reliably informed that as WPA work relief projects are launched in all the different cities throughout the country that the building trades workers will take the same action in these cities that was taken in New York, New Jersey, and Philadelphia.

"For this reason, the executive council recommends that all WPA building and construction projects be transferred to the PWA, which follows the rule of paying the prevailing rate of wages for all work coming under its supervision and administration."

PERMITS RELIEF CLIENTS TO TURN DOWN WPA JOBS

IERC Allows Choice if Dole Exceeds Wages.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission will permit a worker to reject a Works Progress administration job if the "security wages" offered under President Roosevelt's WPA plan fail to equal the budget which the IERC has been allowing to the worker's family, according to an announcement last night by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the IERC.

On Friday, the commission is to transfer 3,000 men throughout the state to the new works pay roll and assign them to 26 WPA projects toward which the national government will contribute $1,605,000. Most of these projects were started under the IERC work relief program. It was the commission's policy to parcel out jobs to heads of the largest families.

Try to Match $55 Against $100.

Under the new WPA setup, the lowest wage in Illinois is $40 a month for common labor in communities of less than 5,000 population. In Cook county, the common labor minimum is to be $55 a month.

IERC records show that large families hitherto have had budgets amounting to as much as $100 a month because with each additional child there was an increase in the allowance for food, clothing, rent, light, fuel and health.

"We can't force a man to take a WPA job if his budgetary need is more than the pay," Reynolds asserted last night. "It is up to his relief station to decide what the budget should be."

Carry Workers s While.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon in Reynolds' office, it was decided to carry the new WPA workers on relief until they receive their first checks from the government. Although they are to go on the pay roll on Friday, the men will not get their checks until two weeks later.

Present at yesterday's conference were John Martin, IERC chairman; Russell Peters, chief auditor for the commission; Charles S. Bond, controler; Leo M. Lyons, Cook county relief administrator; and A. R. Lord, assistant state WPA administrator.

Vet Steals Socks and Gets Judge to Send Him to Jail

Judge Frank M. Padden acceded yesterday to the request of Joseph Marott, 36 years old, an ex-soldier who lost his leg in the world war, and sent him to the Bridewell until Jan. 3 on a larceny charge. Marott explained to Judge Padden in the South State street court that he stole four pairs of socks from a loop store last Friday in order to be arrested. "I get $39 a month from the government," Marott said, "and had saved up $80, but this was stolen from me. Since I have no money I figured that if I got about six months in jail I could save up $234 in that time."

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The Rev. Msgr. Aloysius J. Muench, rector of the seminary of St. Francis de Sales here, today was elevated and appointed bishop of Fargo, N. D., by Pope Pius. The Most Rev. Fr. Muench, who was born here, will succeed the late Bishop James O. Reilly at Fargo.

Wiley Post and Will Rogers Reach Fairbanks, Alaska

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Wiley Post and Will Rogers arrived here unexpectedly today from Aklavik, Y. T., in Post's pontoon equipped monoplane, which he brought down on the Chena river. Word of their arrival spread quickly, and hundreds of persons flocked to the river to greet them.

TRIES TO ESCAPE; FELON SLAIN.

Angleton, Tex., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Tom Larry, 24 year old convict, was shot to death today on the Retrieve prison farm, six miles from here, in an attempted break by three convicts from a wood cutting squad.

WEST SIDE BOOKIES RAIDED BY ALLMAN'S GAMBLING SQUADRON

Acting independently of district police captains, raiders led by Sergt. Frank O'Sullivan, head of the gambling detail which operates under direct orders from Commissioner Allman, yesterday afternoon invaded an elaborate handbook on the second floor of 2542 West North avenue.

This book, which was reported to be owned by Marty Guilfoyle, notorious gambler, was in the West North avenue district commanded by Capt. Frank Matchett. Four men were arrested and nearly 500 patrons were ordered out. The usual paraphernalia of wall sheets and other betting equipment was confiscated.

Leaving this spot, the raiders entered the second floor of a lodge hall at 2840 North Central Park avenue, which is in the Shakespeare avenue police district, arrested five men, and ejected 250 betters. All those arrested were charged with violating both state and city laws. Capt. Patrick Gallery was placed in command of the district on July 30 after Commissioner Allman suspended Lieut. Peter Tomchek, as acting captain. The removal was supposedly concerned with the anti-gambling drive. Lieut. Tomchek was reinstated as a lieutenant on Aug. 3, it was learned yesterday, and now is on sick leave. He will not be restored to command of the station, said Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed force.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ASKED TO SAVE LIFE OF A DOG

Peekskill, N. Y., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was asked tonight to save a dog from a court sentence of death.

King, a 4 year old German shepherd, was sentenced to be killed as a vicious dog by Police Justice Wiley Travis Jr., and a Supreme court justice affirmed the decree.

A neighbor charged the dog had bitten him.

Mrs. Marie van der Wee, owner of King, sent a letter by airmail to Mrs. Roosevelt pleading for her intercession.

Court to Hear Teacher's Retirement Suit Today

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday set this afternoon for hearing on a motion for a temporary injunction restraining the Chicago board of education from putting into effect its compulsory retirement order affecting 242 teachers and principals who are more than 65 years old. The suit was brought by John E. Groves, 68 years old, an attorney and mathematics teachers at Crane Technical High school.

ZENGE TO ENTER NOT GUILTY PLEA IN COURT TODAY

Indictment Returned on Murder Charge.

Mandeville W. Zenge will be arraigned this morning in the Criminal court before Acting Chief Justice John C. Lewe on an indictment charging him with the murder by mutilation of his successful love rival, Walter J. Bauer, Kirksville, Mo., chemistry professor.

The true bill, voted last Friday by the grand jury, was returned yesterday in Judge Lewe's court. It recommended that Zenge continue to be held in the county jail without bail.

State Ready for Trial.

Attorney Joseph E. Green, counsel for the 26 year old Missouri farmer-carpenter, said he would enter a plea of not guilty for his client and then would ask for the customary 30 day continuance to complete his plans for the defense. Assistant State's Attorneys Charles S. Dougherty and Mal Coghlan asserted they were ready to proceed to trial immediately, but would not object to the continuance.

With the return of the indictment, the prosecutors revealed that new evidence has been uncovered which, they say, links Zenge more completely with the savage penknife mutilation of Dr. Bauer. Only a little more investigation is needed, they declared, to make the state's case "ironclad" despite Zenge's calm denial of the crime.

Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad returned yesterday from a motor trip along U. S. highway 12 between Ann Arbor and Chicago. He announced the discovery of several important new witnesses who will testify that they saw Zenge with Dr. Bauer the night of July 30. The names of the witnesses were not made public.

Identified as Bauer's Captor.

Before his death early in the morning of July 31, Bauer told policemen of being abducted from Ann Arbor, where he was studying at the University of Michigan summer school, and of being forced to drive to the south side of Chicago where the mutilation operation was performed.

Lieut. Erlanson said several of his newly discovered witnesses identified pictures of Zenge as Bauer's captor the night of the kidnaping, when they stopped at gasoline stations and roadside sandwich stands. Other witnesses have been found, Lieut. Erlanson said, who complete the tracing of Zenge's movements after he fled and until his capture Aug. 2.

Investigators Roy Arnold and Burt Gray also returned yesterday from their investigation at Kirksville. There Louise Schaffer was night superintendent of nurses at a hospital while she was being courted by both Zenge, her childhood sweetheart, and Bauer, a member of the faculty of the College of Osteopathy and Surgery. She jilted Zenge on the eve of their intended marriage and became Bauer's bride on July 14.

Calls Widow "Above Reproach."

"Mrs. Bauer enjoyed an excellent reputation there and in her home town of La Grange, Mo.," said Mr Coghlan. "She was a woman above reproach."

Mrs. Bauer has remained voluntarily in the city at the expense of the state so that she will be available for the trial. Her family told investigators at La Grange that they intended to aid the prosecution as much as possible. Arnold and Gray informed Mr. Coghlan they had also found witnesses who will tell of Zenge making threats against his rival's life before he left his home in Canton, Mo.

LEGAL POINT DELAYS PWA GRANT TO U. OF I. FOR MEDICAL BUILDING

Legal questions alone are delaying approval of the application of the University of Illinois for a grant of Public Works administration funds with which to build the second $1,400,000 unit of its Chicago medical center, it was learned yesterday.

Under an act of the legislature last spring, the university is allowed to borrow money from federal agencies for the construction of buildings and to repay such loans at the rates of $100,000 a year for a period of not more than 30 years. The annual payments, under the law, are to be obtained from university revenues other than taxes.

Under the PWA agreements, the university would borrow $770,000 from the government, the PWA making an outright grant of the balance. No Illinois governmental unit, however, may, under state law, borrow more than $250,000 without a referendum. The question puzzling attorneys for the university and PWA is whether the entire sum of $770,000 must be considered as an obligation of the university or the $30,000 which would come due annually.

GALLI-CURCI "ALL READY TO LEARN TO SING AGAIN"

Recovering speedily from the throat operation that she underwent on Saturday, Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, former coloratura soprano for the Chicago and New York Metropolitan opera companies, posed for photographers yesterday in her room at the Henrotin hospital and said that she is ready to learn to sing all over again.

Mme. Galli-Curci revealed for the first time that on her last concert tour, a year ago, that the pressure of the goiter, which was removed Saturday, caused her considerable suffering. She sang "more with the head than the voice" the singer explained.

Although the vocal chords have not been affected by the operation, her physician, Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, former health commissioner, said, the changed volume and acoustics of her throat will require new training.

ARRESTED FOR DRINKING; DIES.

William McDonald, 54 years old, a casual arrested Saturday night for drunkeness, was found dead in his cell in the Desplaines street station yesterday morning.

TREASURER GILL OUSTS 3 FRIENDS OF BOB SWEITZER

All Are Carryovers from County Clerk's Office.

County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill discharged three friends of Robert M. Sweitzer from the county treasurer's staf on Aug. 1, according to disclosures yesterday. The men were in Sweitzer's office when he was county clerk and he took them with him when he became county treasurer. From this post, Sweitzer was ousted on a charge of withholding $414,129 of funds of the county clerk's office, and Gill was named to succeed him.

Those dismissed are Paul Gallagher, who had been cashier in the clerk's office and was chief of the tax warant division in the treasurer's office; John Toomey, private secretary to Sweitzer in both offices, and James A. Walsh, another secretary and Sweitzer's confidential man. He is a brother-in-law of Toomey.

Delays Replacements.

Mr. Gill explained that while there is a need for men to replace the three, no appointments will be made until he has had an opportunity to make a survey of the duties and has determined upon men to fill the positions.

Judge John C. Lewe of the Criminal court yesterday allowed attorneys for Sweitzer until Sept. 3 to file preliminary motions concerning the indictment against Sweitzer. It is expected that at that time Attorney I. Harvey Levinson, who represents Sweitzer, will file a motion to quash the indictment which charges him with having withheld the money from Michael J. Flynn, his successor in the county clerk's office.

Denies Loss of Time.

Neither Sweitzer nor Attorney Levinson was in court yesterday, but Milton J. Zacksman, from Levinson's office, said Mr. Levinson was out of the city and asked for additional time.

Although Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney protested against a continuance, Judge Lewe pointed out that little time would be lost since the case would not be assigned for trial until Judge D. J. Normoyle, the new chief justice, assumed his duties on Sept. 3.

Law Obviates Bond Increase.

Because a law passed by the general assembly requires collectors of public moneys to turn over their funds monthly to county treasurers, Circuit Court Judge Walter J. La Buy yesterday said that he would rescind an order requiring County Clerk Michael J. Flynn to increase his bond from $100,000 to $250,000. Judge La Buy issued the increase order after the Sweitzer incident.

OLD BALTIMORE BANK SHORT $226,228 BY THEFT; CASHIER HELD

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—A shortage of $226,228 in the funds of the National Central bank, one of the city's oldest financial institutions, was disclosed here tonight following an examination by federal bank examiners. Misappropriations of the funds were charged.

Harry H. Hahn, who was cashier and vice president until ten days ago, was named by W. E. Ketenkamp, president, as the man responsible for the embezzlement. United States District Attorney Bernard J. Flynn tonight began an inquiry.

Hahn, for many years a trusted officer of the bank, tonight was under guard of detectives at his home. The loss is covered by surety bonds. Hahn, federal officials said tonight, will be taken into custody tomorrow.

PLAN TO MERGE METHODISTS IS NEARLY READY

Meetings Here This Week to Settle Details.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Plans for the merger of the Methodist Episcopal church [northern], the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant churches, probably will be completed this week at a series of meetings beginning today in the North Shore hotel, Evanston, according to Bishop W. N. Ainsworth of Macon, Ga., chairman of the college of bishops of the southern Methodist church.

Bishop Ainsworth arrived last night for meetings of the joint commissions of the three churches. These meetings are held by many to be historic in American Protestantism. The meeting today will be that of a special committee of 15 members, which is to prepare for meetings of the entire joint commission of about 50 members beginning tomorrow. If plans developed here are accepted by the three branches, the largest Protestant communion in America, with at least 7,000,000 members, will come into being, Bishop Ainsworth said.

New Jurisdictional Conferences.

The key to the plans, which will come to virtual completion this week, hinge on the development of a new administrative unit in the reunited churches, Bishop Ainsworth said. This unit, of a regional nature, he added, will be called a "jurisdictional conference." There will be six of these conferences in the country, he explained, each with some powers now held only by general conferences, the highest legislative and administrative bodies in the merging churches.

Bishop Ainsworth asserted one function of the proposed jurisdictional conference would be the regional election of bishops. The northern and southern Methodist bishops are now elected only by general conference. The Methodist Protestant church has no bishops, having withdrawn from the Methodist Episcopal church in 1828 because it objected to having bishops.

The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, withdrew from the parent body in 1844 over the slavery issue.

How Nation Is Divided.

The proposed jurisdictional conferences, Bishop Ainsworth said, have been named in the plan as the "northeast conference," covering the north Atlantic states down approximately to the Mason and Dixon line; the "southeast conference" covering the south Atlantic states; the "north central," bounded by the Mississippi river on the west and, generally, the Mason and Dixon line on the south; the "south central," embracing practically the whole of the "old south," excepting the Atlantic states, and the "western," including the Pacific coast, Rocky mountain, and great plains states. The sixth jurisdiction, known as the "central jurisdictional conference," would include all the colored work of the three churches throughout the country.

Bishop Ainsworth explained Methodist constitutional procedure upon which the merger is contingent. With the three bodies voting favorably, he said, the reunion could not be completed before 1939.

The plan must be accepted by the three general conferences by two-third majority vote; the northern church and the Methodist Protestant church at their regular general meetings in 1936, and by the general conference of the southern church in 1938. Then, he added, the annual conferences of all three churches must approve by majorities which aggregate three-fourths of all votes cast in the three conferences.

U.S. COURT ORDERS TWO EX-BANKERS BACK TO POLAND

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 12.—(AP)—In a decision involving nationals of five countries, the Ninth United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed an order to deport Julius Maximilian Blumen, alias Busch, and his brother, Leopold, alias Ludwig Busch, to Poland.

The brothers were charged with grand larceny for embezzlement of $200,000 from the former Bank of Italy here between April, 1924, and October, 1925. They had been officials of the bank and absconded.

Located in England, they underwent extradition proceedings and were ordered returned here for trial in August, 1926. On their plea of guilty to the charges, they were sentenced to terms in San Quentin prison.

Released in 1932, they were confronted with a deportation order, directing they be sent to Rumania. Records showed they were born in Wycnitz, Austria, but Rumanian officials declined to accept them. If Poland declines, officials here are uncertain of the next step.

HELD IN FATAL SHOOTING.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 12.—(AP)—A coroner's jury ordered today that Brinkley Collier of Bemis, Tenn., colored, be held for the grand jury in the fatal shooting of Constable Earl Dixon, also colored, at Mounds.

CIVIL CRAFT BARRED FROM FLYING OVER ARMY, NAVY BASES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Civil aircraft were forbidden today by President Roosevelt to fly over twenty-four military and naval reservations throughout the country.

The executive order "set aside for governmental purposes air space reservations within which civil aircraft, for reasons of public safety, are forbidden to be operated except by special permission.

The White House said the action was taken on recommendation of the secretaries of war, navy, and commerce.

Among reservations designated was the ordinance depot at Savannah, Ill.

President Roosevelt today signed the Wilcox bill authorizing a chain of military aviation bases.

Alice Brady Hurts Vocal Cords on "Carmen" Aria

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 12.—(AP)—In a movie scene today Alice Brady was singing an aria from "Carmen" with Lawrence Tibbett. Approaching the climax of the song, her voice cracked. Dr. Raoul Renard examined her and said she had strained her vocal cords.

FINDS ITALY HAS LITTLE USE FOR PRESENT LANDS

Figures Indicate Nation Is Poor Colonizer.

BY WILL BARBER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, July 21.—[By mail.] Il Duce has been thumping his tomtom and his servile press has been emitting war whoops so many months now that most Europeans are convinced that Italy has been shabbily treated in the past and must be permitted to have its own way today against Ethiopia.

"Italy needs colonies," has been advanced as justification for a war of conquest. The world is asked to bewail Italy's lack of land, minerals, and raw materials and to condone her militarism or else to be afraid of it.

Points to Overlook.

In so sympathizing, the world is asked to overlook Mussolini's strange policy of demanding more and more children to people a land which in the next breath he calls overpopulated. It is expected to disregard the question whether Italy's peculiar brand of despotism is any better than the despotism that rules Ethiopia.

And, most important of all, the world is expected to overlook figures which indicate the Italians are not good colonizers and have made small use of the lands they have. Even when it is recognized that most of Italy's lands abroad are not much better than the arid plains and mountains of southern Italy, it is rather surprising to discover that there is only one inhabitant to the square kilometer in all Italy's African possessions.

The present article is an attempt to see what Italy has done with her present colonies in the hope of discovering what the Italians might do with Ethiopia if they got it.

Much Sand for Italy.

Any book of statistics will reveal that little use has been made of the colonies.

It must be recognized, of course, that when Italy, having scarcely achieved national unity, set about getting a place in the sun of Africa she got a great deal of space and far too much sun. But not all is sun-whipped sand, for the hinterland of Eritrea is mountainous, green, and fertile, and there Italians can find almost the same conditions that exist on the slopes of the Tuscan hills or of the Alps.

Libya, too, contains a large amount of sand, but there are good lakes and oases where the soil is fertile. Even Somaliland, which is chiefly waterless desert, has arable lands along the Shebeli river and in the valley of the Juba, which England, fulfilling tardily her promise in the sharp treaty of 1915 that brought Italy into the world war, turned over to Italy in 1925.

In Eritrea, a land of 45,754 square miles, there is a population of 621,776, of which only 4,565 are Italians. The capital, Asmara, lying 7,765 feet above sea level where the weather is dry nine months of the year and the plateaux are fertile, contains 21,601 persons, of whom 3,101 are Europeans, chiefly Italians but also including numerous Greeks.

Somaliland, 194,000 square miles in area, contains 1,010,815 persons and all but 1,658 are Somali tribesmen, living their age old nomadic lives. The white population includes 1,630 Italians and 28 other Europeans.

Of course, most of Somaliland is only fit for goats or Somali tribesmen. Mogadiscio is the capital, with 4,154 inhabitants, of whom 675 are Europeans. Most of the Europeans are Italians, but some are Greeks.

21,000 Whites in Tripoli.

Libya lies close to Italy and contains good lakes and oases, where farming could be carried on. In the Tripoli part, which the Italians got from the Turks after the war of 1912, there are 543,647 inhabitants in a territory of 900,000 square kilometers. There are 30,866 whites, almost all Italians, and 21,000 live in the capital, Tripoli. In the Cirenaica section, also Italian since 1912, 738,000 square kilometers are inhabited by 160,176 people, of which only 18,471 are Italians. Bengazi is the capital, with a population of 42,000, of which 8,000 are Italians.

Asmara has 3,101 Italians; Massawa, 654; Mogadiscio, 675; Tripoli, 21,000, and Bengazi, 8,000. Those figures reveal that the Italians who do go to their colonies prefer to cluster in cities, where they carry on small businesses rather than undertake the rude job of pioneer farming, as Mussolini says they will in Ethiopia. They prefer to leave farming to the natives. It is less difficult and less dangerous that way. They are not adventurous, as the English have been.

Matter of Prestige?

Such statistics permit the question: Are Italy's colonies merely a matter of prestige?

It may be, of course, that Mussolini has converted the Italians into colonizers and has sold them risky lives among the hostile peoples of Ethiopia.

Without counting the millions that Mussolini has tossed with two fists into his Ethiopian adventure, it can be noted that neither Eritrea nor Somaliland is an economic asset. Using the 1931 figures when the depression had not turned the tide of colonists back toward Europe, the exports from Italian Somaliland were 78,823,060 lire and the imports were 128,789,227 lire. If most exports to Somaliland were Italian, Italy had a good balance of trade but the colony's position was unsound, as shown by the fact that the Italian home government had to make a special contribution of 42,900,000 lire to the colony's finances, or 60 per cent of the total. [The lire is now worth about 8¾ cents.]

Eritrea in 1931 exported 69,063,359 lire worth of goods by sea and 36,284,668 lire by land, importing by sea 186,825,100 lire worth of goods and by land 28,217,293 lire worth, chiefly by caravan from Ethiopia. The home government had to contribute 23,000,000 lire to the colony's finances, or 46 per cent of the total revenue. Thus what the Italian exporter gained the Italian taxpayer lost.

WARNS AFRICAN WAR MAY TOUCH OFF RACE STRIFE

Gen. Smuts Sees General Black-White Conflict.

DURBAN, Union of South Africa, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The veteran south African general, Jan Christiaan Smuts, gave warning to the world today that an Italo-Ethiopian war may strike a spark which will explode the powder keg of relations between blacks and whites throughout Africa.

"I think it will shake the whole system of civilization to its foundations, should the league of nations fail at this critical moment," Smuts told an interviewer.

Sees Italy's Move Not Isolated.

The Boer war leader, now the union's minister of finance, broke his government's official silence concerning war prospects when he said Italy's adventure in east Africa could not be looked upon as an isolated move, adding:

"It will create a serious position in Europe because of the repercussions in adjoining British territories and the intensification of black-against-white feeling.

"There is no doubt in my mind that invasion of Ethiopia by Italy will arouse the most anxious feeling throughout Africa between the whites and blacks. We have seen the effect the Russo-Japanese war had in raising a feeling between Europe and Asia. This Ethiopian adventure by Italy may be most far reaching in its effect on the African mind. You may find every African sympathizing with Ethiopia."

Predicts Long War.

Smuts expressed the opinion Italy is banking on the divergent views of France and England to prevent them from taking a strong position as interceders.

He also predicted a long and costly war, in the event Mussolini attempts to storm the Ethiopian strongholds. Recalling his own guerilla tactics in the Boer war when he kept far superior British forces at bay for two years, he said the terrain over which he led the Boers is similar to that of Ethiopia.

"Italy may overwhelm Ethiopia at the start with airplanes and poison gas," he said, "but it is one thing to overwhelm a country, another to occupy it. She may find she has bitten off more than she can chew."

Smuts indicated he views the possibility of Japanese support for Ethiopia seriously.

"We know," he said, "that Japan has been trying to get concessions in Abyssinia and we have no doubt there have been points of contact which have not been disclosed."

ITALIAN LEGATION IN PORTUGAL STONED BY PRO-ETHIOPIANS

LONDON, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The Reuters [British] News agency reported from Madrid today that the Italian legation at Lisbon was stoned and windows broken by sympathizers of Ethiopia in that country's threatened war with Italy. An automobile halted momentarily in front of the legation, it was reported, and stones wrapped in leaflets saying "leave poor Ethiopia alone" and "down with Fascism" were thrown against the building. Soldiers were sent to guard the legation.

ACCLAIM NEW EASY READING TRIBUNE TYPE

Unanimous Praise Pours In from Readers.

Compliments and thanks came to THE TRIBUNE yesterday from readers who said they liked the "new face." Starting yesterday, the body matter of THE TRIBUNE was printed in "Regal" type, which is larger and more readable than the type formerly in use and is cut differently from any face to be found in any other newspaper.

The change was made after years of experimenting and the new type was selected by a majority vote of THE TRIBUNE'S employés. The new type not only is larger but it is heavier than the old. Improvements in shape and proportion have been made in several letters. There are ten less lines to a column than formerly. The abandoned style was a minion [7 point] face on a brevier [8 point] slug. The Regal is 7 point on an 8½ point slug.

Many subscribers called THE TRIBUNE to say they were pleased. Many old time printers sent congratulations. Calls were made to persons who had been subscribers for THE TRIBUNE for from five to thirty years to obtain their views.

Oculist Offers Congratulations.

An eye specialist who asked that his name be not used congratulated THE TRIBUNE on its new type. It is a good type, he said, and much easier on the eyes. A printed word is a picture, he asserted, as the eyes do not separate it into letters but envision it as a whole, and the more distinct the picture, the easier it is for the eyes to transfer the import of that word picture to the brain.

The folks who find that age is dimming their eyesight were most appreciative, but the younger generation joined in declaring that THE TRIBUNE was showing enterprise and consideration for its readers in giving the public the benefit of improvements in type face.

Some of the comments follow:

ANDREW M. HOWE, associate editor of Printers Ink—"The new type makes the newspaper much more readable, of course. I congratulate THE TRIBUNE on a forward step. I prefer types that open up a page and show more white space. That's what THE TRIBUNE is now giving its readers. The change is in line with the spirit of the times."

Benefit to Community Health.

DR. SAMUEL SHER, 30 North Michigan avenue, eye, ear, nose and throat specialist—"The new type will benefit that large portion of humanity which reads THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The larger the type, the less eye strain and consequently fewer headaches. Therefore the eyesight and general health of the community will be improved by the change."

CHARLES M. HAYES, president of the Chicago Motor club—"I was going to write THE TRIBUNE to tell how much I enjoyed reading the newspaper this morning. My eyes are getting old and consequently it is not so easy to read newsprint as it formerly was, but now with the larger type it will be an added pleasure. I really didn't appreciate the full value of the change until I saw the comparison of the old and new types."

JAMES S. PENDER, 5483 Ridgewood court, a retired printer—"It is with pleasure that I hasten to congratulate you on your new 'dress' which appeared this morning. It is a very readable type, a beautiful type, and it seems to be a modern reproduction of the popular type invented in the 19th century by John Bodoni, an Italian type founder of Parma, Italy. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the world's greatest newspaper, is now, with its new 'dress,' the most delightful and easiest newspaper in the world to read."

Would Read Tribune in Agate.

PATRICK E. HAMILTON, Lakewood, Mich., retired police sergeant—"I have read THE TRIBUNE for 50 years and hope to read it for 50 more. I'd read it no matter how fine the print, but now that the type is larger and easier on the eyes, you may be sure I won't miss much in it."

O. W. BUTTS, 4426 Lowell avenue, member of the Old Time Printers' association—"THE TRIBUNE took a big step forward this morning. I worked as a printer for the Chicago Daily News for 45 years and 3 months and we used to set newspaper type in nonpareil or 6 point type; now it is 7 point on an 8½ point slug. I must say that it was a pleasure to read THE TRIBUNE today with its new type. It's going to be tough on the oculists but better for everyone else."

MRS. NORA KEOUGH, 207 North Lockwood avenue—"Sure, I noticed the new type the first thing when I looked at THE TRIBUNE this morning. It is fine and I like the change very much. I get a lot of enjoyment by reading THE TRIBUNE every morning. We have been subscribers for a great many years. Thanks for making it easier to read."

Note Industry's Progress.

MRS. F. E. TILT, 120 North Laurel avenue—"THE TRIBUNE was easy enough to read, but now that you have started using a larger type we appreciate your interest in making it easier for us to read the paper."

MICHAEL COLBERT, 424 Melrose street, member of the Old Time Printers' association—"When I went to work for THE TRIBUNE as a printer in 1880 we set type by hand and we used nonpareil [6 point] type. Then we came to use minion but the style of type depended on the number of pages to be set. A twelve page paper was a big one in those days. I have seen the progress made in the printing trade and I am glad to see THE TRIBUNE making progress. I had to quit THE TRIBUNE a few years ago because my eyesight became bad but was able to see and appreciate the change in the type this morning. It's a change for the better and for the good of all concerned."

Doctor Approves Change.

DR. F. ANDERSON, 1158 North Lorel avenue—"The type of THE TRIBUNE was very fine, clear and distinct today and I appreciated the change. I suffer from an astigmatism and the new type helps my eyes. It is quite an improvement."

MRS. FRANCES TALLMADGE, 12140 Eggleston avenue—"Just to tell you I've read THE TRIBUNE as per usual this morning and like the new print. You see, I'm in my 'second childhood'—77, and thought the other day my glasses needed to be changed as THE TRIBUNE is about all I read, but I changed my mind. Thanks for the change."

MRS. HARRY McNAIR, 5124 Hyde Park boulevard—"THE TRIBUNE was very good and very easy to read this morning and I noticed that it seemed a bit improved but I didn't happen to read the story telling about the change in the type. However, I am glad the type is larger and it is going to stay that way."

MRS. E. H. LILLIENFELD, 5247 University avenue—"It's a fine new type and we appreciate the interest THE TRIBUNE is showing in its subscribers. We're going to continue to like THE TRIBUNE with its new face."

The Ones Who Benefit.

MRS. C. F. GOODWILLIE, 416 Barry avenue—"I noticed the change the first thing about the paper this morning and I certainly like the new type much better than the old. We are the ones who benefit."

MRS. BENJAMIN F. MEYER, 5211 University avenue—"We had no complaint about the old type, but we think the new type is far better. It's a fine type now, easily read."

JAMES S. HARDY, 988 Oak drive, Glencoe—"The new type face of THE TRIBUNE is a fine improvement over the more difficult and smaller face and much easier on the eyes. Having been a printer's devil, and later graduating to editorial and other work on a country newspaper, this change makes reading, in advanced years, a real pleasure. We have read THE TRIBUNE over 40 years and find it a necessity in the home."

MARIA JERITZA AND WINFIELD SHEEHAN OF FILMS ARE MARRIED

Santa Barbara, Cal., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Before the historic altar of Mission Santa Barbara, Maria Jeritza, Viennese star of song, was married today to Winfield R. Sheehan, Hollywood film producer.

Only a dozen intimate friends witnessed the service, performed by Father Augustine Holbrecht, O. F. M.

The bride wore a lace dress of pale peach and a picture hat of the same color. A turquoise blue sash bound her waist.

She was attended by Minna Gombell, screen player, who was dressed in a white crêpe traveling suit.

Sheehan, beaming over the event, had Edwin Burke, writer, for best man.

The couple motored here for the ceremony from Sheehan's hidden valley ranch 45 miles north of Los Angeles.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Irvin S. Cobb, Frederick W. Sperling, the opera singer's New York attorney; Gesa Hertzig, Budapest author, and his wife; and the Countess Bombelles, also of Budapest.

'STOPPING BEFORE TURN ON THE RED' ADDS TO SAFETY

New York Neglects That, Chicagoan Says.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—In the opinion of Commissioner Stephen I. Witmanski of the Chicago park district, Chicago must decide, independent of New York's experience, whether trafic should be permitted to turn right after stopping for a red light. With Leslie Sorenson, trafic engineer for the City of Chicago, and George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, the commissioner is here studying the experience of New York.

Not Like Chicago Scheme.

"The practice in Manhattan is entirely foreign to the practice proposed for Chicago," Mr. Witmanski said. "Here the cars swing right on the red without a preliminary stop, in many cases without slackening the speed. The resultant disorder at intersections and the extra hazard to pedestrians are no indication of how a right turn, after stopping for the red light, would operate in Chicago.

"The police here say they couldn't enforce a preliminary stop. They don't know because they never tried it. But accepting this surmise as a fact it does not necessarily follow that Chicago could not enforce such a preliminary stop with a satisfactory degree of success. In Manhattan the congestion is so accute that police concentrate upon breaking blockades and must close their eyes to many infractions of driving rules.

Notes Present Discomfort.

"Because the conditions here are so different from anything in Chicago or anything proposed for Chicago, the average Chicago motorist, watching trafic as he drives to and from work, probably will know as much about the advisability of the right turn after stopping for the red light as we will know after completing our engineering study here.

"The average motorist can note how often he is barred by Chicago's present trafic regulations from making a right turn on a red where and when it would be safe and convenient for him to do so. He can note how often he is delayed from proceeding through an intersection on the green by some car ahead that was prohibited from turning right on the red and then stalled by pedestrians in turning right on the green.

"The engineers are compiling statistics that will probably be subject to various interpretations, but so far in this study I'm convinced that Chicago will never know whether it wants a right turn after stopping for the red until the regulation is given a trial in Chicago."

EARL HARDY.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

O. L. Jones, 50 years old, an unemployed bookkeeper and clerk, leaped to his death yesterday from the fifteenth floor of the Fort Dearborn hotel, 125 West Van Buren street. As his body fell to the pavement on the La Salle street side of the building it struck Earl Hardy, 27 years old, 3838 Alta Vista terrace, as he was riding a motorcycle, and broke his forearm.

Jones had been living at the St. Elmo hotel, 516 Rush street. Saturday he told R. Stromeyer, the owner, that he was to go on the relief rolls yesterday, but that if anything happened to him in the meantime the hotel was to keep his belongings to pay for the four weeks' room rent he owed.

DRIVERS CROWD EVANSTON AUTO TESTING STATION

Evanston's automobile testing station at University place and Maple avenue was reopened yesterday after being closed for a few days to permit enlargement of its facilities. It was soon filled to capacity, cars being lined up for more than a block, waiting for a test. City Prosecutor Edwin T. Arbold said that as long as the station is operating at capacity or near capacity, the ordinance requiring semi-annual safety tests will not be enforced. Almost 100 motorists were arrested in Evanston last week for failure to comply with the ordinance. Their cases have been continued until Aug. 27 and the prosecutor said that if they comply meanwhile, the charges will not be pressed.

Recover $1,500 in Express Goods Stolen Off Trucks

Central police announced last night the recovery of clothing and household furnishings valued at $1,500 which had been stolen from unguarded express trucks. The merchandise was found in several rooming houses near Polk and South State streets after Henry W. Jackson, 36 years old, Grand Junction, Colo., confessed stealing $3,000 worth of goods from express trucks. Half of it has been sold, said Jackson, an ex-convict, who was arrested Friday in the Grand Central station.

SISTER OF FIRE CHIEF DEAD OF AUTO INJURIES

Miss Mary Scanlon Hurt on July 24.

Miss Mary Scanlon, 59 years old, 3819 Monroe street, a sister of Fire Chief Thomas Scanlon of the Ninth battalion, died in St. Anthony's hospital yesterday of injuries incurred July 24 when the automobile in which she was riding crashed into the curb at Homan avenue and Franklin boulevard and overturned.

Sergt. Lawrence McCarthy of the Central police, her brother-in-law and driver of the car, said that another automobile forced him to the curb and then sped on without stopping. Sergt. McCarthy still is in the hospital with injuries to his head and back.

Another Death After Collision.

Miss Scanlon's death and one other yesterday increased the 1935 trafic toll for Cook county to 562. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 447 had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 9,975 had been injured. The other victim yesterday:

Leslie Sillman, 61 years old, 1248 East 79th street, died in the county hospital of injuries incurred July 22 when the automobile he was driving collided with another at 77th street and South Chicago avenue. James Campbell, 6318 Langley avenue, driver of the other car, was charged with reckless driving following the accident and his case has been continued until Sept. 5.

Bus Driver Released.

Passengers on the bus told Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the Trafic court that the brakes had been tested and found in good condition before the trip was started.

Piquett's Car Hits Cyclist.

Attorney Louis Piquett, John Dillinger's lawyer, was involved last night in an automobile accident. According to information given the Sheffield avenue police Samuel Rosenbloom, 16 years old, 2932 North Clark street, was struck by Piquett's car while crossing the intersection of Sheffield and Barry avenues on his bicycle.

Piquett took him to the Illinois Masonic hospital, and left after ascertaining that his injuries were slight. The police said last night they would question Piquett about the accident. He is appealing a federal sentence of two years in prison for harboring Homer Van Meter, Dillinger's lieutenant.

Police began a search early today for a hit-and-run driver who seriously injured Patrick Britt, 50 years old, 3256 Polk street. Britt, who was struck by the automobile in front of 5400 North Cicero avenue, incurred a fractured skull and fracture of the

CHICAGO FLYER DESCRIBES SHIP FOR BENDIX RACE

B. O. Howard Enters His "Mister Mulligan."

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Two of the airplanes entered in the Bendix trophy race scheduled to start from Los Angeles for Cleveland on Aug. 30, as the opening competition in the 1935 national air races at the Ohio city, were deseribed in detail here yesterday.

One of the ships is a high wing cabin monoplane, designed, constructed, and to be flown by Benny O. Howard, a commercial airline pilot and a veteran builder of racing airplanes. Howard's home is at 6744 South Whipple street. He calls his ship "Mister Mulligan."

Expects 330 Miles an Hour.

The other airplane, called "The Spirit of Light," is a stubby, blunt nosed Gee Bee supersportster, with a highly supercharged Wasp motor which is expected to deliver 800 horse power to a controlable pitch propeller and give a sea level top speed of nearly 330 miles an hour.

Howard's plane carries a substantial pay load, an extraordinary load of gas, which probably will enable it to fly the whole 2,200 mile course nonstop. In its racing form it will have seats only for Howard and his co-pilot, Gordon Israel, with the other two seats in the four place cabin being taken by a 300 gallon gasoline tank.

"Mister Mulligan" was completed in the summer of 1934, and was intended to be flown in the 1934 air races. On the way to Los Angeles it cracked up when Harold Neumann, scheduled to fly it in the Bendix race that year, became groggy after flying for five hours at 21,000 feet without oxygen, and finally dropped it onto the inhospitable side of one of the Sierra Nevadas.

Proves Theories of Designer.

Despite the carrying capacity, it has the high top speed of 294 miles an hour at sea level, with but one 550 horse power Wasp engine. The motor is supercharged to give its full power at approximately 12,000 feet, and with its controlable pitch propeller the plane is expected to cruise at from 275 to 300 miles an hour at 20,000 feet.

Howard explains that "Mister Mulligan" was constructed to prove certain of his theories about aerodynamics. It proved them by climbing 5,000 feet per minute in tests at Wright field, Dayton, O., the army air corps experimental laboratories, and by its turn of speed which made pursuit airplanes appear slow. Incidentally, it is capable of all the maneuvers required for the fighting ships.

"We plan to fly very high, having installed oxygen, and to follow the federal airway radio range beacons all the way across. I know the route, having flown it for years, and we believe we have looked forward to every possibility," says Howard. "I think we have a good chance to win."

TRANS-PACIFIC AIR MAIL TO CHINA BIDS ASKED BY POSTOFFICE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Bids for the proposed trans-Pacific air mail service to operate once a week each way from San Francisco by way of Honolulu and Manila to Canton, were invited by the post-office department today.

No intimation was given as to when the service might start over the route blazed by the Pan-American airways in recent trial flights of its clipper ships.

The bids are returnable at noon of Oct. 21, and the contracts to run for ten years. Under the air mail act the maximum rates that can be authorized are $2 a mile for the specified load and $1 a pound for every thousand miles in excess of the specified load.

By the act of June 16, 1933, no award can be made to any companies that pay any salary, or salary combined with bonus, in excess of $17,500 annually.

With service once a week each way specified, continuous flights as conditions permit will be required, with the possibility of both day and night flying.

MARTIN BOMBER TAKES BIG LOAD LONG DISTANCE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Announcement of details about the Martin bomber recently flown in tests at Baltimore after being developed by the Glenn L. Martin company for entrance in the army bombardment competition at Dayton, Aug. 22, reveals a wing spread of only seventy-six feet and loaded weight of ten tons with ability to carry a full military load and adequate gasoline to fly non-stop far in excess of specifications.

This performance is obtained by a combination of advanced aerodynamic features, including a new high-lift arrangement on the monoplane wing, the company's announcement through the war department said.

Martin engineers expressed satisfaction with its speed demonstration; the air corps desires 250 miles an hour in its new bombers. The new high lift device is said to provide unexcelled take-off, landing and load characteristics.

The bomber is an all-metal, mid-wing monoplane with retractable landing gear. It is powered with two Wright cyclone geared and supercharged engines of over 800 horsepower each, streamlined into the wing.

JOAN BLONDELL, FILM ACTRESS, SEEKS DIVORCE

'Ideal Marriage' Fails; Asks Baby's Custody.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The "ideal" marriage of Joan Blondell, vivacious screen actress, and George S. Barnes, ace movie cameraman, was revealed as a matrimonial wreck today when the blonde star unexpectedly filed suit for divorce.

Hollywood's first intimation of the couple's breakup came last night when Miss Blondell abruptly announced that she was preparing a divorce suit. They separated only last Friday.

In her complaint the actress alleged that her husband sometimes went hours without speaking to her and refused to answer questions. He immersed himself in a book in the presence of her guests and unjustly accused her of causing him to lose friendships, the actress charged.

Complains of Drinking.

Miss Blondell also complained that Barnes often drove his automobile against her wishes after he had been drinking. He refused to accept responsibility of looking after household bills and other business matters, she said, even refusing to discuss them with her.

The actress asked custody of their 9 months old son, Norman Scott Barnes, for whom the couple built a "kidnap proof" nursery in their Lookout mountain home.

Studio publicity stories had often emphasized that the couple's marriage in Phoenix, Ariz., was an ideal mating with both as devoted to their home as they were to their work. The marriage was Miss Blondell's first and Barnes' fourth.

Former Wampas Star.

Barnes had often directed the photographing of his wife in her rise to stardom. She was a "wampas baby star" at the time of her marriage. She was then 23. She comes of a stage family and was said to show considerable natural aptitude for screen work.

Some of the pictures in which she took a leading part were "Kansas City Princess," "Convention City," "He Was Her Man," "Broadway Gondolier," and "Traveling Saleslady."

PRINCE'S WILL GIVES $400,000 TO 5 AND 10 HEIRESS

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The former Barbara Hutton, heiress to 10 cent store millions, will receive about $400,000 from the estate of her divorced husband, Prince Alexis Mdivani, killed in a Spanish motor car crash on Aug. 1.

This was indicated today by Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, the heiress' new husband. He revealed that Barbara, under the prince's will, will receive one-fifth of his estate, valued at approximately $2,000,000.

"We are both surprised and glad to learn of the contents of the will," the count said.

The new countess will arrange division of the estate with her four brothers, and sisters-in-law, her husband said. He indicated she will receive the Venetian castle which she once gave Alexis.

The animal had wandered into the city; become panic-stricken.

Ben Guy Phillips Declares Bad Check Charge Settled

Ben Guy Phillips, director of the late North Shore Drama festival in Glencoe, said yesterday that Miss Sylvia Meredith of 364 East 23d street, who obtained a warant for Phillips on a charge of giving her a bad check for $53.13 had agreed to drop the charge. Phillips denied he had been a fugitive and said he lost $18,000 last week in the ill-fated drama venture. He declared he had assumed other obligations totaling $6,000 and that all of the debts of the venture would be paid in full.

BORAH FIRST IN LUCAS POLL FOR G. O. P. CANDIDATE

Hoover 6th; Vandenberg Runs Fourth.

would be considerations arising from his attitude on public questions.

If the New Deal onslaught on the constitution should be the paramount issue next year Borah would be the logical Republican nominee. With his reply to Mr. Roosevelt he thrilled even the ultra-conservative elements of the party to which he had always been suspect. Then he chilled these same elements anew with his advocacy of the 3 billion dollar farm mortgage bill and the bonus bill. He has long fought the eastern leadership of the party which he blamed for the 1934 debacle, calling for a party reorganization.

Some See Hoover Willing.

Some Republicans interpreted the Hoover statement yesterday as an indication that Hoover is willing, others that he was just functioning as titular head of the party in the attempt to force the President to a showdown on the constitutional question which the Republicans would welcome as the paramount issue. The Democrats are hoping for the nomination of Mr. Hoover, for then it would be just 1932 all over again, in their opinion.

There is much speculation on the possibility of the President accepting the challenge to state his position with respect to a change in the constitution to implement the New Deal. He might do so at a press conference or in one of the speeches he is to make on his cross-country journey after congress adjourns, which will be the opening of his campaign for re-election.

Keeps Quiet for Present.

At present, however, the President is keeping mighty quiet on this question. The coldness with which the country received his original suggestion of a change in the form of government in order to federalize all business enterprise undoubtedly accounts for this silence. Ever since the Friday press conference early last June he has left the agitation for a constitutional amendment to Ray Moley, Rex Tugwell, and other members of the brain trust.

NEBRASKA DOGS VALUED ABOVE JEWELS, PLANES

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 12.—(AP)—The state of Nebraska's dogs are valued at $1,275,000 on the assessment roll for 1935, compiled today. That's more than all the state's airplanes at $73,730; taxed jewelry and diamonds, exclusive of watches and clocks, at $787,520.

The dogs' tax value exceeds sheep and goats at $942,291. The state's threshing machines and combines in the state are valued at little more than the dogs, but all the typesetting machines and printing equipment are valued at less, and so are moving picture machines and theater equipment. Ten dollars was the minimum dog valuation.

MR. HOOVER SMILES AT NEW YORK QUIZ ON PLANS FOR 1936

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Herbert Hoover, affable and confident in the face of a barrage of questions from newspaper reporters concerning his 1936 intentions, arrived from Chicago today. He refused to add anything to his Chicago speech.

He will remain here until Wednesday.

Mr. Hoover called his New York visit a business trip, but at Chicago accused the Roosevelt administration of "dictatorial demands," of trampling on the "primary liberties of the people" and of invading state rights.

When Mr. Hoover stepped from the Twentieth Century, clad in a blue business suit, gray hat, and blue polka dotted tie with the inevitable starched collar, few persons in the station crowd recognized him.

Mr. Hoover smilingly refused to answer "Are you going to run again?" and "Will you take the nomination in 1936?" After being photographed he and his secretary, Lawrence Richey, entered an automobile with friends and drove to a hotel.

PLANE FOR TWO TO COST $1,000 AT U. S. CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—(AP)—A sample plane, like those which, officials hope, thousands of Americans soon may be able to buy cheaply and fly safely, landed in Washington today. It made a 2,655 mile trip from the Pacific coast. It's a two passenger monoplane with a 95 horse power engine.

The success of the experiment was marred somewhat when part of the ship's landing gear was smashed as it came into the airport, causing the plane to spin in a sharp circle before it came to a stop.

Tailless, its propeller behind instead of in front, the plane was flown from Santa Monica, Cal., in 31 hours' flying time. John H. Geisse, chief of the commerce department's aviation development section, and the ship's pilot, took eleven days for caution's sake.

The plane is one of several being tested by the commerce department in experiments to help the aviation industry produce a plane to sell for less than $1,000 to be handled safely by the average man.

Officials stressed the ship's experimental character. They said it is to have a steel propeller and an automobile engine if possible to reduce costs. Other test planes, of otherwise conventional design, have been flown safely with automobile engines.

TRY TO RECALL C. W. BRYAN AS LINCOLN MAYOR

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Recall petitions tonight crossed the political comeback trail of Charles W. Bryan, thrice governor of Nebraska, one-time Democratic vice presidential nominee, now serving his second term as mayor of Lincoln.

Printed petitions asking that an election be held for recall of Nebraska's political sage, brother of William Jennings Bryan, were handed about here today. Bryan did not comment.

The petitions asked that Ernest M. Bair, defeated by Bryan at the last city election, be placed on the ballot for the office of mayor, but Bair, former street commissioner who served on the council for eight years, also declined comment.

"I neither accept nor repudiate the petitions at this time," he said.

He said he did not initiate the petitions or know of their existence before today, and wanted time to study the matter. The city clerk's office said 5,846 signatures would be needed to institute the election.

The petitions charged that Bryan was "manifestly partial, prejudicial and malevolent" and "assumed dictatorial and arbitrary powers and authority."

WHY AMERICA PREFERS BUDWEISER . . .

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY DEFINES IT—and its taste tells you why
BUDWEISER must be famous indeed to be chosen from all American beers for mention in Webster's New International Dictionary, just published. You'll find it on page 349.
Here is just another distinction for the fine beer that has won medal after medal at world's fairs for more than half a century. Bohemia, in 1903, officially adjudged BUDWEISER the finest bottled beer on Earth, better even than native brews. France, as early as 1882, conceded BUDWEISER's superiority. The following is from the Paris Gazette:
"Experts reluctantly pronounced the St. Louis beer superior to any malt liquor ever drunk upon the continent and all Paris is now seeking to quaff the American nectar."

COSSACK CHORUS COUNTY'S CHOICE FOR MUSIC FETE

35 Young Voices Thrill Contest Judges.

Only Five Days More!

Only five days remain in which to buy tickets for the Chicagoland Music Festival. Thousands of reserved seats have been sold, but thousands more are still available. They may be had at the Tribune Public Service offices at 50 cents each.

Thirty-five lusty voiced boys, members of the Ukrainian Cossack chorus, directed by their self-trained leader, Samuel R. Chuba, 21 years old, won the right last night to represent Chicago and Cook county in the men's choral contest to be held at the Drake hotel on Saturday. The ultimate winner will be presented as the victorious chorus at the great Chicagoland Music Festival, sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, at Soldiers' field next Saturday night.

Competing last night at the Drake hotel with four of the finest men's choral groups of the city, the young men whose forebears gave to them the rich musical heritage of their native Ukraine won the unanimous decision of the judges, Walter Aschenbrenner, Max Oberndorfer, and Harry T. Carlson.

Arion Male Chorus Next.

Second place was awarded the Arion Male chorus, directed by Anders G. Hvass, and third went to the Bohemian Lyra Singing society, under the direction of Frank Kubina. The Railway Express Glee club and the Knickerbocker Male chorus of Cicero were the other contestants.

The winning chorus was one of the most colorful ever to compete in the Chicagoland Music Festival. Organized two years ago among the choir boys of St. Nicholas church, Oakley avenue and Rice street, the Ukrainian Cossack chorus took second place in 1933 and third in 1934.

The swinging measures of the contest selection "High Barbary," the gaily shirted youths attacked with a spontaneous joy unequalled by the other choruses. Mr. Chuba led his 35 singers as a symphony conductor might lead an orchestra; their voices blended like an organ. For the optional number, the chorus chose Tchaikowsky's arrangement of the church anthem "Holy God Have Mercy Upon Us."

Average Age Under 18.

The average age of the members of the Ukrainian Cossack chorus is less than 18 years. Singing just for the pleasure of it, the boys meet each summer when their director returns from his classes at the University of Illinois where he is studying—not music—but mechanical engineering. Mr. Chuba is a violinist, but has never had any choral training. Mothers of the boys fashioned the colorful native smocked shirts that they wear.

Well disciplined, the boys have rehersed daily for six weeks, their hearts set on winning in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE contest. "And you ought to see us play baseball and football," the singers shouted after the contest as they received the congratulations of their parents and girl friends who thronged the Drake ballroom.

Tonight the Chicago contestant in the women's choral finals will be chosen at a contest in the Drake hotel from the Carl Craven Ladies' chorus, Women's Democratic Choral club of Chicago, Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America choir, and Midwest Woman's chorus.

NEW CHORUS REHERSES FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL SATURDAY

Edgar Nelson (at left) directing the members of the new Chicagoland Musical Festival chorus in rehersal at Orchestra hall last night. The chorus will be a feature of the Chicagoland Music Festival at Soldiers' field under the sponsorship of The Chicago Tribune. A crowd of approximately 100,000 is expected. One thousand voices were picked from sixty-eight Chicago choral organizations. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

CHORUS OF 1,000 REHERSES

A thousand fine voices were joined in rehersal last night at Orchestra hall as the invitational chorus for the festival, composed of picked singers from sixty-eight Chicago choral organizations, got in its first practice session. This chorus will reherse again Friday night, first at Orchestra hall and later at Soldiers' field.

By the time Noble Cain, general choral director, mounted the platform the singers were in their places. With no compensation but the reward of their own feelings in participating in the festival of music and beauty, they appeared on time and eager. Good-humoredly and with the ease of their training, they went through the routine of practice as Mr. Cain and the associate directors welded into a harmonic whole the vast array of voices.

Big Turnout Gratifying.

The large turnout for first rehersal indicated that many personal engagements had been sidetracked for the sake of the festival and the desire of the participants to coöperate for its most effective presentation.

The numbers rehersed were: "Prayer of Thanksgiving," mixed voices; "Bells of St. Mary's," men's voice; "The Cradle Song," women's voices; "The Lost Chord," mixed voices, and the "Hellelujah Chorus," the choral finale of the festival, mixed voices. Besides Mr. Cain, the directors for these are Edgar Nelson, Harry Walsh, Glenn C. Bainum, and George A. Carlson.

Last night's arrangement was effective, with sopranos banked to the right and altos to the left of the male voices.

Three more rehersals of the 500 piece festival accordion band brigade are announced by its director, Roy Wells of the Wurlitzer company. They are as follows: This afternoon at 4 o'clock at the band shell in Grant park; Thursday afternoon, same time and place, and Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in Soldiers' field.

ARIZONA LIFER KILLS SELF WITH OFFICIAL POISON

Florence, Ariz., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Frank G. Hutchinson, 56, ended his life term in the Arizona state prison by using poison similar to that employed by the state for legal executions, Warden A. G. Walker announced today.

The body of the convict, serving life for the murder of his wife, was found on the desert yesterday two miles from the prison. Nearby was a tin cup which Warden Walker said contained evidence of poison similar to that used to make gas for the prison's lethal chamber.

Hutchinson, a trusty, left a note reading: "I can see I'm not going to get any justice." He was sentenced eleven years ago after confessing in court that he placed dynamite under his wife's bed and lighted the fuse.

SEES DEFEAT FOR UTILITIES IN 1936 POLITICAL ARENA

Wheeler's Hopes for Action Dwindle.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—(AP)—With prospects for a pre-adjournment agreement on the utilities bill concededly dwindling, Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] today predicted "an overwhelming licking" for the power companies if the issue is settled by the public.

"We may be able to work out a bill yet," said Wheeler, chairman of the senate conferees. "But if we don't the issue will be taken to the public and we'll probably get a much more drastic measure than this one."

His assertion was prompted by a statement by Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of public utility executives, challenging the administration to take the power issue to the people in connection with the 1936 campaign.

Postpone Peace Efforts.

It came at the close of an unproductive session of house and senate conferees, seeking to adjust the differences between their two versions of the measure. Long before reaching the hotly contested clause on abolishment of holding companies, they found themselves in such sharp disagreement on two points that efforts at a settlement were postponed.

With but seven sections of the huge measure out of the way, another meeting was called for tomorrow. Section 11, the "death sentence" clause, will be passed over temporarily, Wheeler said, and agreement sought first on section 13 about which rages another warm dispute.

Expect Delay of Weeks.

Due to a multiplicity of other conflicts, private estimates were that weeks would be required to reach a complete agreement, even of those sections not associated with the deadlocked "death sentence" issue.

In reply to the Wheeler statements, Gadsden asserted that ever since the house "rejected the death sentence for a second time, Wheeler, realizing that the death sentence had to be abandoned, has been trying to make it a campaign issue in 1936."

DUKE OF YORK, J. P. MORGAN OPEN GROUSE SHOOTING

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The duke of York and J. P. Morgan strode to the moors as guest and host, respectively, today, to open Scotland's grouse season.

The American financier played host to royalty on his moors at Genochy, County Angus. The duke's father-in-law, the earl of Strathmore, is a neighbor of Morgan. Lady Elphinstone, sister of the duchess of York, is acting as hostess at Genochy through the three months' season. King George now is at Cowes, but will join the thousands of grouse hunters later.

Other Americans in Scotland for the shooting included the James B. McCaheys from Chicago and Norman J. Kopmeier of Milwaukee.

REDS FRAMING WORLD PROGRAM TO 'PREVENT WAR'

MOSCOW, Aug. 12.—(AP)—A world-wide program by communists to prevent war will be drawn up at the seventh congress of the third internationale now in session here, delegates decided today. The comintern announced it would embark tomorrow on a discussion of asserted preparations for an "imperialistic war" by several countries.

The soviet writer, Karl Radek, in an article today in the newspaper Izvestia, accused German Nazis of plotting military aggression and asserted they were attempting to eliminate communist opposition by making membership in the party sufficient grounds for passing death sentences.

HOPSON FOUND; WILL TESTIFY IN UTILITIES QUIZ

Associated Gas Head Is Taken to Capital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Howard C. Hopson, guiding genius of the Associated Gas and Electric system, and a fugitive sought by senate and house investigators of utility companies for more than three weeks, was found near New York today, Chairman John J. O'Connor of the house rules committee announced.

Hopson was served with a subpena and will appear before a house investigating committee tomorrow morning. O'Connor said one of his agents had communicated with him and had announced Hopson was with him and they would be in Washington tomorrow morning.

Hunt Amuses Capital.

Thus ended a search which has had the capital interested and amused since Hopson's name first appeared in testimony before the two rival investigating committees a month ago. It was disclosed that he received $560,000 in salaries from his various companies over a three-year period during which no dividends were paid to stockholders and the committee members wanted to ask him how he justified receiving such sums.

Both Chairman Hugo L. Black of the senate committee and Chairman O'Connor of the house committee realized the publicity values inherent in Hopson's appearance and each urged his investigators to bring in Hopson first.

Sought at Hurley Estate.

The pursuit of Hopson led the investigators on one occasion to the big Leesburg, Va., estate of Patrick J. Hurley, ex-secretary of war, who had once served as counsel for the Associated Gas system. Hurley indignantly denied the report that he was hiding Hopson and detectives refused to search the home.

Hopson, described as portly and affable, had no trouble in contacting his representatives in Washington during the hunt, it was revealed. The popular rumor was that he would surrender when he felt like it and to the house committee, which has shown an inclination to be more courteous to witnesses than the senate committee.

PARNOVA SHAW SAYS HUSBAND PLOTS FOR RICH ARTIST'S CASH

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Lisa Parnova Shaw, dancer, charged today in Supreme court, Manhattan, her husband's divorce suit naming wealthy Ellsworth Ford, artist son of the late Simeon Ford, is part of a conspiracy between Mrs. Consuela Ford, the co-respondent's wife, and Robert White, identified as a hostler with drawing room etiquette, to get their hands on Ford's $6,000-a-month income.

Hollis B. Shaw based his case on "false accusations" made by Mrs. Ford after plotting with White, Mrs. Shaw said.

Ford and Shaw, both artists, are first cousins. They were even neighbors in West 74th street until Shaw brought first his divorce suit and then a $500,000 alienation of affections suit against Ford.

"I never was intimate with Ellsworth Ford," Mrs. Shaw swore.

Policeman Halts Holdup; Seizes Bandit Suspect

A robber held up William A. Ford and his brother, David, in the garage in the rear of their home at 6400 South Bishop street, last night and was about to take their car when Policeman Norman Kavanaugh, who lives in the same apartment building with the Fords, heard the noise and came rushing out with drawn gun. The robber fled and was captured in a nearby lot after the policeman fired a few shots at him. He identified himself as Norman Feeley, 24 years old, 6756 South Ada street.

ANOTHER MINNESOTA EDITOR.

The case of the state of Minnesota against Walter Liggett, editor of the Mid West American of Minneapolis, is attracting nation-wide attention. Mr. Liggett has been charged with the abduction of two girls, and to this charge has been added another in which he is accused of infamous sex practices. Mr. Liggett denies both accusations.

Ordinarily the matter would receive no notice outside the community concerned. The machinery of justice could be counted upon to bring out the facts and to act upon them fairly. It is the nature of Mr. Liggett's countercharge, in which he is vigorously supported by his wife, that has focused attention upon the case.

The Liggetts have been waging a campaign in their paper against Gov. Olson of Minnesota. They have demanded his impeachment. They accuse the governor of attempting to discredit and silence them by having false charges brought against the editor. They assert that Mr. Liggett has worked on many newspapers throughout the country and never before has been accused or even suspected of any sexual irregularity. He has attempted to obtain a hearing on the abduction charge, but the prosecution has obtained postponements. The Liggetts attribute these tactics to a desire on the part of the governor to keep a threat hanging over the editor's head. Mrs. Liggett says attempts have been made to terrorize their witnesses in advance of the trial and to threaten reprisals against any one in the community who may be disposed to come to the support of the editor.

The charges of persecution sound fantastic. It is difficult to believe that an entire American community has been terrorized as by a Hitler. Only because the state in question is Minnesota, the community in question is Olson do the charges of persecution become at all credible.

Minnesota, the Twin Cities, and Olson have a black record of previous attempts to silence an opposition press. Minnesota enacted a law to gag the press by injunction. An anti-administration newspaper, the Saturday Press, was silenced under this law. The Minnesota Supreme court sustained the act on appeal, and it was only after THE TRIBUNE and others interested in maintaining a free press carried the case to the Supreme court of the United States that the outrageous decision of the Minnesota court was reversed. The newspapers of Minneapolis and St. Paul were largely indifferent to the enactment of the law and to the use made of it. The fight had to be made by outsiders.

The injunction proceedings were brought by Floyd B. Olson, then county attorney of Hennepin county, Minnesota. He is now Gov. Olson of Minnesota.

After the attempt to silence the Saturday Press was defeated one of the editors, Howard Guilford, resumed his fight upon the political machine. Guilford was murdered and, to quote Mrs. Liggett, "nothing was done to the murderer."

This is a record which, if it does not prove Liggett is innocent, does suggest that he may be the victim of another ruthless attempt at suppression of opinion in Minnesota. It is difficult to believe that the citizens of the state will permit Mr. Liggett to be railroaded to the penitentiary on false charges. It is difficult to believe that Mr. Liggett's neighbors are living under a Hitler terror and fear to come to the defense of a man they believe to be innocent. These things are difficult but not impossible to believe. The case will be followed closely.

PROGRESS IN THE WORKS PROGRESS.

A strike on the Works Progress projects in New York is calling off all the building trades unions. The men won't take Mr. Roosevelt's pay. Gen. Johnson is again in good form but gets nowhere. Mr. Hopkins says he is again hard boiled. If the men won't work the state can feed them. Mr. Roosevelt says that if they go home that is their business. All the federal government offers them is work. It's too bad they don't like the pay.

If Mr. Roosevelt does pay the demanded wage even his 4 billions will not make the estimated stretch. If he discriminates, paying one more and another less, he makes the second man mad. If one man gets a good job and another gets none, the second man is mad.

Vicious schemes disclose their own vices. Subsidies and patronage for vote getting have their own law of diminishing returns. The politicians know it well. Ten expectant beneficiaries are hopeful. Presently one is gratified and nine are resentful. Then they bite.

RADICALS AND A FREE PRESS.

Eighteen months ago, when a real fight for freedom of the press was raging over NRA'S attempt to regiment American newspapers in a New Deal claque, the radicals of the country were largely silent. The reason was obvious. They were not opposed to censorship so long as it was to be exercised in behalf of the collectivist economy.

But, now that the real danger has passed, we find radicals and radical sympathizers who have misappropriated the name of liberal suddenly beating their breasts and tearing their hair over freedom of the press. They seek to make it the issue in a fight on the Tydings bill, the declared object of which is the suppression of communist propaganda in the army and navy.

Opponents of the bill declare that that announced purpose is merely a blind. The powers of the measure, they contend, can be used to suppress and seize any anti-war or pacifist publication, or any publication which criticizes military or naval administration or policy, or agitates for higher pay or better living conditions for soldiers or sailors, and to punish its author and publisher.

The best test of the validity of such contentions would seem to be the language of the bill. It provides that its penalties shall apply against "whoever with the intent to incite disaffection advises, counsels, urges, or solicits any member of the army or navy of the United States to disobey the laws or regulations governing the army and the navy, or publishes or distributes any book, pamphlet, paper, print, article, letter, or other writing with similar intent."

This language seems fairly definite and limited. Intent must be established. The overt act is limited to advice, counsel, urging, or solicitation. If passed the measure will be enforced, like any other federal criminal statute, by civil authorities. It hardly seems possible that the federal judiciary will permit its language to be tortured to the ends anticipated by its radical critics.

It may well be that the measure is unnecessary, that the admirals who are its principal backers have ants in their pants and are attempting to shoot a skunk with a sixteen inch gun. But the recent records of its opponents indicate that the motive for their opposition is something less holy than a sudden urge to defend the freedom of the press.

THE CRIME COMMISSION.

The Chicago crime commission is appealing for funds to continue its work. The commission has abundantly proved its usefulness to the community. It has kept close track of criminal activities. Its statistics are invaluable, but it has been no mere adding machine. It has followed individual cases through the courts and the parole agencies to see that justice is done and to expose weaknesses in personnel and administration.

Thanks in no small degree to the commission's watchfulness, there has been a marked decrease in recent years in the volume and the seriousness of crimes committed in Chicago. Life and property are now safer in Chicago than they have been for many years and Chicago is no longer a paradise for professional criminals. The alliance between organized crime and public officials has been broken. The fact is reflected in lowered insurance rates, particularly against automobile theft, a saving of many millions of dollars each year to the people of Chicago. If the community wishes to retain these gains and to assure continuous progress in the suppression of crime, it will continue to underwrite the activities of the commission.

SOUTH DAKOTA'S DEBT DECREASES.

[Sioux Falls (S. D.) Argus-Leader.]

The downward march of the indebtedness of the state of South Dakota in the last decade is encouraging and refreshing.

From a total of $59,000,000 in round numbers in 1926, the amount has declined to $46,000,000. The latter figure is that of June 30, 1935. The decrease in the decade is $13,000,000. Most of this was achieved prior to June 30, 1931, but in the intervening years—most disturbing ones from an economic viewpoint—we have managed to do a little better than hold our own. In view of the big debt increases that have taken place in the last four or five years in many governmental divisions throughout the land the South Dakota record is significant.

South Dakota's indebtedness is due primarily to excursions into semi-socialistic fields. The authorization for these adventures was granted by the people in 1916 when they revised the constitution. A clause restricting state debt to a minimum was removed, and a new one, with the blue sky as the limit, was instituted. The legislature in 1917 took the first step toward the socialistic program. The major venture, of course, was the rural credits department, and the losses of this department are responsible for the bulk of the existing indebtedness.

But we have changed our course. The rural credits department is now in process of liquidation. The state bonding department and the state hail insurance department, two other socialistic ventures of the same era, have been abandoned. The state coal mine, another part of the program, has been ordered sold. The only institution that remains in active function is the state cement plant. Its record, happily, is somewhat better than that of the others.

The liquidation and abandonment of all but one of the socialistic ventures, however, is not the only move we have taken toward the return of our government to its fundamental province. The legislature this year submitted to the people an amendment to the constitution establishing a definite brake upon state debt. The amendment will come before the voters in the general election in November, 1936, and there is every reason to believe that it will be approved.

Our present debt and the interest payments—about $2,000,000 annually—are not pleasant, but it is more than a little satisfactory to know that we are working our way out in a substantial fashion. Most significant of all is the change in sentiment that has directed the elimination of the debt-creating enterprises.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

ALL-STAR FOOTBALL.

THE current Wake-Line, despite temporary occupancy of this niche, could not resist our sports page impulse to attend the "get acquainted" session at Evanston Sunday of the Collegiate All-Star football players who will oppose the Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field on the night of Aug. 29. It was well worth the trip.

Here was a fine cross-section of American youth, boys from south, east, Pacific coast, and middle west, chosen by poll of the nation's football fans in the greatest sports popularity test ever conducted. From little Cotton Warburton, Southern California's streamlined ball carrier, 150 pounds, to big Bill Lee, Alabama tackle of 255 pounds, they were a good natured, natural, rollicking bunch, becoming acquainted with each other rapidly as they pranked in the lake in their swimming trunks.

What impressed us particularly was the modesty of these young chaps, nearly all of them mentioned for all-American football honors, all accustomed to campus adulation and undergraduate preferment. If American football develops this type of fellows it's well worth while.

Nor should any one get the idea these boys are here just for the trip and a pleasure jaunt. They were unanmous in saying their selection by nation-wide votes and their opportunity to play in this game was life's greatest adventure to date. Some of them plan to devote their future to coaching and to teaching physical education. Others will enter pro gridiron ranks to earn money to complete professional courses. Not a few already are embarked on business careers and secured leave of absence for a final fling at their favorite sport.

Earnestness of purpose is evident. 'Tis well, for the Bears, after the scoreless tie of last August which was accepted as a moral victory for the collegians, will be just as earnest. We suggest perusal of the sports pages for information on advance preparations for the greatest football game of all time between recently graduated collegians and the strongest professional eleven in the country.

"CHILDREN'S HOUR."

In response to a request that younger writers be given opportunity in this column during the present incumbency, The Wake-Line designates Aug. 21 as the day when space will be given to contributions from those of 18 years or younger.

From previous experience, we'd advise those wishing to make the Wake-Line that more poetry than prose usually is received, hence short snappy anecdotes, incidents, or experiences have greater chance of being selected.

While we do not insist on submission of birth certificates, please state age with any matter submitted. Naturally, we expect it to be original. All right, children, here's the chance to show up your elders.

SULPHUR TREATMENT OF ARTHRITIS.

THAT the arthritis problem is not new to our generation is evidenced by the bony changes found in the fossil skeletons of prehistoric monsters. Even the dinosaurs had health problems. There is also indisputable evidence of the existence of the disease in ancient Egypt (about 1300 B. C.).

The present day spread of the disease is now gaining recognition by the lay public and physicians are alert to its occurrence. Some conception of the economic loss entailed may be visualized from the fact that in 1932 more than 64,000 war veterans were on the pension lists for arthritis of the joints. One patient out of eighteen admitted to the veterans' hospitals enters because of a primary diagnosis of arthritis, while a large number who come for other conditions shows the effects of arthritis.

A great change has come over the attitude of physicians toward this chronic disease and the efforts of hundreds of investigators have resulted in a better understanding of the chemistry of the body and hence many suggested forms of treatment. Research has led to the use of histamine, gold salts, colloidal sulphur, and many other substances—all designed to restore body metabolism to normal.

Inasmuch as the disease profoundly influences the reactions of the body, studies on the hair, nails, blood, and bones were made. Among other facts of interest it was disclosed that in arthritis the normal amount of sulphur in the finger nails was reduced 25 to 50 per cent. Since we know that sulphur is necessary in the economy of the body, the suggestion was offered that feeding sulphur to arthritic patients might restore to normal some important body function. Of course, no one would take it for granted that sulphur was the only body chemical affected by the disease but it might be one of consequence.

Then came a problem, namely: How could sulphur be made soluble and hence suitable for injection into the blood stream? It was finally decided to reduce this element to what is known as colloidal state, which is not a true solution, but a suspension of very fine particles considerably larger than molecules. Colloid solutions may be made of many of the metals, for example, gold and silver; and well known examples are coffee, beer, gelatin, etc.

In a recent report Woldenberg of the veterans' bureau cites his experience with 200 arthritic patients to whom colloidal sulphur was given. Twenty milligrams were injected in to a vein every other day until ten or twelve doses had been administered. The same amount was given into the muscles on alternate days. Heat from electrical sources, hot baths, and massage were used in connection with the treatment. Following the injections it was found that the amount of sulphur in the nails had increased and, in many instances, was normal. In severe cases the doses were continued for a longer period. The patients treated in one of the veterans' hospitals showed more satisfactory results, on the whole, than with any other form of therapy. Many of the cases treated exhibited bony changes, crippling in effect. After the treatment some of these were able to get about without the aid of crutches.

Arthritis must be fairly well advanced before the disease can be demonstrated by means of an X-ray examination. Might it not be possible through early tests to determine a sulphur deficiency and hence prevent arthritis by the proper administration of this substance even before obvious changes caused by the disease have occurred?

No doubt we rebelled when given sulphur and molasses each spring to "thin the blood," but, perhaps, the old-fashioned remedy may have supplied a needed chemical that preserved—in some individuals at least—important body functions.

DENTAL ELECTRICITY.

R. S. describes how she found that gold and silver fillings in direct contact in her mouth caused pain in the back of the tongue, that ceased when only one type of metal filling was used.

REPLY.

The effects of electrolytic action between different metals used for fillings is well known. The symptoms vary in severity. The reason is that a slight electric current is set up when two dissimilar metals, for example, gold and silver, are brought into contact in the presence of moisture.

NAIL BITING.

Mrs. S. T. L. writes: I bit my fingernails until I was 30. Then I got my first emery-board, a small, heavy sliver of sandpaper used to smooth the nail. I discovered that irritation caused by the rough, uneven top of a nail, and the effort to smooth it down, were my reasons for gnawing at the nail. If mothers of nail biters would try this plan of keeping the tops of the nails smooth, it might help some of the victims, or perhaps prevent the forming of the habit.

LOUD RADIO AND RUBBISH SMELL.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—[Friend of the People.]—Can anything be done to a neighbor who turns the radio on full blast with windows open so that the owner can hear it in the basement? The radio is upstairs. It is unbearable. My brother works nights and he is unable to sleep. The same neighbor's chimney is even with our bedroom window. The smoke from burning rubbish blows into our windows. We were required to put a stack on our kitchen chimney and no one lives within reach to receive smoke from it. I ask for a remedy of these conditions in the interest of the health of our family. I have small children who cannot sleep at night because of the noise.

L. K.

The neighbor was informed of the complaint received and instructed to correct the conditions. The neighbor stated that the radio is not played at a loud tone as stated and that rubbish is not burned. However, the smoke stack mentioned is about one foot above neighbor's window level, and this will be fixed so that it will be no cause for complaint.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner Chicago Police Department.

NOISE FROM BAKERY.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Friend of the People.]—We live next to a bakery shop. Every morning at 5 o'clock a truck is driven out from the garage to the shop door. There it is loaded with large tins filled with bakery goods. Again the truck is started and how the motor is raced! The noise is like cannons going off. The truck is a very old model and takes from five to ten minutes to start. After it leaves another car is driven out and is loaded by three men who talk loud, sing, whistle, throw cake tins and push boxes. Two dogs are left to run around all night. They bark at every noise and sound. Do you think anything can be done so that we can get a little rest? M. K.

The operator of the bakery instructed his employes to be as careful as possible about making noise either in starting the truck or in loading it. Post men and squad cars have been instructed to visit this bakery during the time their truck is being loaded to see that there is no unnecessary noise.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner, Chicago Police Department.

1. It appears that the inquirer was legally admitted to the United States for permanent residence under the laws in effect prior to July 1, 1924, and may apply for naturalization.

2. Not from the facts stated.

PLAYGROUND IS PLACE TO PLAY.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Friend of the People.]—Directly across from my home is a vacant lot where every kid in the neighborhood congregates. Both my son and husband work at night and trying to sleep during the day is out of the question because of the noise. The youngsters pay no attention to our pleas for quiet, but retaliate by making more noise. It isn't as though they had no other place to play. There is a large field just a short block away where they could play without annoying any one.

A. M.

The squad cars and post men in the vicinity have been instructed to pay special attention to the location mentioned with a view in mind to abate the nuisance and also in an attempt to have the boys play in the playgrounds of their respective neighborhoods. Since the receipt of this complaint the officers on the squad car found several youths playing ball and congregating in said vacant lot and the officers instructed them to refrain from doing so. They promised faithfully that they would play in the playgrounds hereafter. JAMES P. ALLMAN, Commissioner, Chicago Police Department.

CHILDREN'S INHERITANCE.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A husband and wife own a piece of property jointly. The wife has three children by a former marriage. 1. If the wife, who has insurance with the husband as beneficiary, dies can the children claim any part of it? 2. Are personal articles and household effects the property of the husband after his wife's death? 3. Does the husband get one-third and the children two-thirds?

V. M.

1. Not if the husband survives the wife. 2 and 3. They would be personal property and distributed as such. Spouse takes one-third of personalty and one-third of realty unless he or she elects to take dower. Children take equal shares in balance of estate.

Strange as it may seem, there is not the slightest breeze of air on the top of an airplane wing. This is due to the fact that the air currents which strike the front edge of the wing are deflected upward and create a partial vacuum on the top side of the wing. This is not true of the lower side. A sheet of paper may be laid on the top side of an airplane wing while this plane is flying and it will not blow off. [Submitted by H. B. Cary, Indianapolis.]

THE RUBBER STAMP.

Chicago, Aug. 8—On occasion I have not failed to raise my voice in denunciation of the Roosevelt betrayal of the American people in a time of severe trial. But isn't it about time to turn the heat on those lumpheads in congress who, as fellow conspirators, should share the responsibility and the ignominy? Is their perfidy any the less for having given their consent to executive usurpation in contravention of the constitution, and, at his behest, jamming through all sorts of destructive legislation in violation of every principle of Americanism and fair play?

Realizing the rising tide of public resentment, New Deal congressmen are now trying to speed through the remainder of the Roosevelt "must" bills before they become musty. Shouldn't their constituents reward the perspiring efforts of their indefatigable devoted servants by a still hotter reception back home?

JELLYFISH SENATORS.

DEMOCRAT.

THE CASE FOR THE NEW DEAL.

Elmwood, Ill., Aug. 8.—It is hard to interest a drowning man in the constitution. When Mr. Roosevelt was swept into the presidency and we were going down for the last time and we were calling long and loud for him to save us, did we stop to argue about the constitution? No, he waded right in and dragged us ashore. What did we do? As soon as we got our breath, the sand out of our hair and on our feet we began to yap and squawk about the constitution. Well, we finally got the Supreme court interested in our case. These fine old men studied the constitution up and down for two years. The depression was virtually over. We were a safe distance from the water. The Grass Rooters got courage enough to poke their heads above the grass. Happy days were here again. By this time the court discovered it was all a mistake. We had been illegally saved, and our great-grandchildren would probably have to pay the bill.

The metropolitan press may fool some of the people, but we know what Mr. Lincoln said about these things. We also know that the emancipation proclamation was unconstitutional, but Mr. Lincoln put it over and we liked it just the same. The constitution is for the people, not the people for the constitution.

I don't know Mr. Landis' politics, but I do believe he is the one outstanding individual of this country. His present rule is one of satisfaction to the player, the club owner, and the public. I have never heard one word of criticism unfavorable to Mr. Landis. A. F. J.

ILLINOIS TROOPS ATTACK, DEFEND POSITIONS TODAY

Reds and Blues Start Battle at Dawn.

Camp Grant, Ill., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Two skeleton divisions, members of the 33d division, I. N. G., slept in pup tents on the banks of the Kishawukee river tonight. At dawn their battle will begin.

The infantrymen's belts were filled with blank ammunition. They have full packs and other field equipment. The 65th infantry brigade, the 129th and 130th infantry regiments, with the 108th engineers as attached troops form the "Red Division." The "Blue Division" is composed of the 131st, 132d, and 8th infantry regiments, with the 106th cavalry, the 33d divisional aviation and tank company as attached troops. The 8th infantry in the world war was the 370th infantry and fought in Gen. Mangin's army.

Red Division on Defense.

At dawn the "Red Division" will move northward across a bridge built by its engineers under cover of darkness.

That division will take up defensive positions prepared to resist the attack of the "Blue Division." Not even the commanders of the combat divisions know at just what zero hour the attack will come. That remains for Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond and Col. George C. Marshall, the senior regular army instructor attached to the Illinois troops, to decide. They are the umpires of the war game.

Will Determine Losses.

Deputy umpires will be on hand to watch the deployment of troops and observe fire. These umpires will designate the losses and act as final judges on all tactical situations. The men moved out at 7:30 this morning to be followed closely by their rolling kitchens and baggage equipment. In order to give training in transportation the 66th brigade marched and the 65th brigate rode in trucks. Since last year the division has received from the war department more than 250 new trucks.

Under the direction of Maj. Richard Smykal of the 33d division staf, in charge of plans and training, a motor movement of ninety-one trucks carried more than 2,200 men to the "Red Division's" position.

Review Will Follow.

The troops at the conclusion of the "battle" will return to their permanent encampment to brush up for the annual governor's day review which falls on Thursday this year. Gov. Henry Horner has indicated he would be present as commander in chief of the state forces to watch the division pass in review.

Chicago Boy's Upside Down Stomach Is Set Aright

Six months ago Mitchell Cleary, 6 years old, of Sycamore, ruptured his diaphragm in a whooping cough paroxysm, thrusting the stomach out of the abdominal cavity into the chest cavity, a condition known as "upside down stomach." Yesterday, three weeks after Dr. Karl Meyer operated on him, Mitchell left Henrotin hospital with his stomach right side up and with his heart and left lung functioning normally again. The boy is the son of Mrs. C. Stuart Cleary, a widow.

Sues for Divorce

JANET BEECHER.

Miss Beecher asked for custody of their son, Richard, 14, but did not ask for alimony. They were married in 1919 and separated in 1925.

REKIDNAPS HER KIDNAPED TWINS; WINS INJUNCTION

Mrs. Emilie Jordan, 32 years old, 426 West 69th street, appeared before Superior Judge Charles A. Williams yesterday and told how she kidnaped her twin sons, Edward and Kenneth, 7 years old, from their father's home in Los Angeles, flew with them to Phoenix, Ariz., sped to Kansas City in a railroad train and there evaded detectives in a wild automobile chase, and ultimately brought them to Chicago.

With her attorney, Norman Becker, she explained that she had come immediately to the court to seek an order to prevent her husband, Edward Jordan, from taking the children away from her. The judge granted the injunction. The attorney said Jordan took the two children from their mother by a ruse when he was in Chicago on June 4. For three weeks, he said, Mrs. Jordan did not know where the children were, but she finally traced them to California.

"This woman has had a separate maintenance suit pending here for six months," said Becker. "Jordan took the children and then started a divorce suit in California, hoping to get sole custody of the boys there. My client asks an injunction to prevent Jordan from taking the children again."

Continue Florist Beating Case Till This Morning

Assault charges against Fred Bohlman and Lawrence Monahan, officials of the teamsters' union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, were continued until today when their case was called yesterday before Judge John C. Lewe of the Criminal court. Bohlman filed a petition for a change of venue and the case was continued to permit Monahan to file a similar motion. The two are accused of beating Peter Javaras, Oak Park cash and carry florist, last June 12 when he refused to join the Florist Drivers' union.

D. C. GUARDSMEN BARRED BY PENN.; PARALYSIS CAUSE

Order in Wake of Earlier One Against Virginia.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 12.—[Special].—Due to the outbreak of infantile paralysis in their home areas, National Guard troops from the District of Columbia, as well as from Virginia, will be barred from military maneuvers in Pennsylvania, it was announced today by Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter, Pennsylvania state secretary of health.

Dr. MacBride-Dexter on Saturday ordered 3,000 Virginia troopers barred from training in Pennsylvania. She ruled that the prevalence of the malady in the southern state would endanger residents here.

Gov. Earle, who returned late last night from a vacation, conferred briefly with Dr. MacBride-Dexter and Adjt. Gen. Frederick B. Kerr but made no comment.

National Guard officials said the war games would proceed even though some of the scheduled troops might not be present.

One Death in Massachusetts.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—One death and 16 additional cases of infantile paralysis reported during the week-end brought the number of Massachusetts cases of that malady to 176, it was announced today by the state department of health.

More Cases in New York.

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The department of health reported tonight that for the week ending Aug. 10 there were 133 new cases of infantile paralysis.

Although this was the largest number in any week since the epidemic of 1931, Dr. Charles F. Bolduan, director of health and education, declared that "there is no indication that the disease is assuming epidemic proportions."

U. S. Doctor in Kentucky.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Dr. L. L. Lumsden of the United States public health service came here today to study twenty cases of infantile paralysis reported here during the last two months.

Dr. A. T. McCormack, state board of health director, said the situation in Kentucky was "encouraging," with only two new cases reported outside Louisville and with only twenty-seven active cases in the state.

Charges Park Policeman Is Cruel, Asks Divorce

Alleging cruelty, Mrs. Anna S. Gildo, 2415 Flournoy street, filed suit in Superior court yesterday against her husband, Sam, a Chicago park district policeman, and asked custody of their 5 year old son. She asked an order to prevent her husband from withdrawing funds they hold in a joint bank account.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A story appearing in THE TRIBUNE under a Washington, D. C., dateline of Aug. 8, was in error in stating that treasury department officials in Ohio and Michigan had been operating a private liquor syndicate "on the side" with liquor purchased from Standard Brands, Inc. The liquor was not purchased from Standard Brands, but from another concern.

AT his office he is plain Mister Smith . . . just an average man. But at home in his garden he becomes master of his universe . . . ruler of all he surveys.

His crown is a battered panama; his royal raiment—a polo shirt and slacks; his sceptre—a rake or a hoe.

He wages relentless war against beetles and weeds; otherwise he is a benevolent monarch, lavishing his time and his care upon loyal subjects—Mrs. Smith, their chubby crown prince, and two tow-headed princesses.

No drafty castle is his, but a modern, livable home, with every comfort and convenience which his means can afford. This year he managed to install automatic heat. In the Fall there are prospects of a new car, if the kitchen renovating this Summer does not take too much ready cash.

He is Emperor Smith—the man with a private home . . . The solid, substantial citizen around whom America revolves. He, and the millions like him, are the comfort of butcher, baker, grocer, banker, retail store, manufacturer . . . the comfort of the whole fabric of business.

Philadelphia is filled with Smiths.

They have built this City into the greatest City of Homes in all America. A City in which ninety-one per cent. of all dwellings are single-family homes. A City which contains more single-family homes than all of New York and Buffalo combined; more than Detroit and Cleveland added together; more than all of Chicago and St. Louis.

And they have built up a great home newspaper, the third largest daily newspaper in America. The Philadelphia Bulletin is read by nearly every one—in every age group, in every income class, in every section of city and suburbs.

Its circulation of 511,647 net paid daily (1934 average. 1933 average—504,822) is two and one-half times the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, and more than the morning newspapers combined.

Because it is a great market of home needs, national advertisers concentrate in Philadelphia . . . and in The Bulletin. During 1932, 1933 and 1934, The Bulletin led all six-day newspapers in America in national advertising.

HITLER GUARDS JOIN DRIVE ON 'STATE ENEMIES'

Jews, Catholics Lose Last Hope of Letup.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler's own crack black uniformed bodyguard, took part in anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic demonstrations in Munich yesterday, destroying the last hope in the hearts of moderates that Hitler personally disapproved of persecutions of "state enemies."

For six hours 600 men of the bodyguard and 500 Storm Troopers careened through Munich and its suburbs in twenty-six trucks provided by the state railways. The trucks were decorated with anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic posters and banners. Such slogans as: "Rome for the papists, Palestine for the Jews, Germany for us," "Out with the Jews," and "Stand for No More Jewish Swinishness" appeared on the trucks.

One of the trucks displayed a beak nosed Jewish puppet dangling from a miniature gibbet.

Assail Convicted Nuns.

The nuns recently sentenced for smuggling money out of Germany were assailed under the caption:

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor more than foreign currency."

Representations of a swarthy Jew pursuing an incredibly beautiful German maiden and of aristocratic students of Heidelberg university taking champagne baths were made to stir up the anger of the populace. The caravan ended its parading by halting at the mounment to the victims of Hitler's beer hall putsch with Storm Troopers and guards solemnly paying tribute to the dead.

Similar demonstrations have been organized throughout Germany. In Potsdam, Storm Troopers asserted they would continue twice a week, every Sunday and Wednesday, until further orders.

The order of the Bavarian home minister, Adolf Wagner, directing Bavarian resorts to imitate the example of Bad Toelz, which ousted Jews, was followed by Bad Heilbrunn, Bad Woerishofen, the Kneipp water cure center, and Randau in the Palatinate. They ordered Jewish guests to leave within twenty-four hours.

Still Trade in Jewish Stores.

Landsberg, on the Lech river, where Hitler was imprisoned in the days of the republic, today announced that energetic measures will be taken against Jews "because it cannot be tolerated that Jewish stores should prosper when German shops lack business."

Though threats and denunciations have greatly harmed Jewish dealers, the Association of Nazi Shopkeepers complains that the number of Germans entering Jewish shops still is too big. Women are blamed for "failing to understand the racial importance of the movement." The Nazi shopkeepers are demanding that the Labor Front issue posters warning Germans against entering Jewish shops and threatening to organize a "photographers' squad," which will systematically photograph all customers of Jews.

On the open markets which dot Berlin, Jewish textile dealers were threatened until most of them gave up their stands. In some districts managers of the markets have reserved space for Jewish dealers, forming a kind of business ghetto. Some Polish Jewish dealers are in a better position than their German Jewish brethren since they display Polish passports as soon as threatening groups approach and the Nazis do not want friction with their newly found Polish friends.

Seldte Sees Hitler.

At Gladbeck a Catholic woman was sentenced to five months in prison for tearing off posters denouncing "political Catholicism." At Wismar an Aryan couple celebrating a wedding dared to invite a Jew and his Christian wife, according to the newspaper Germania. A mob assembled before the house and demonstrated against the Jewish guest until the police compelled him to leave the party.

Regular police and secret police have been systematically raiding homes of members of Steel Helmets and Front Fighters, veterans' organizations. Every weapon found in the homes has been seized. The chief of the dissolved Steel Helmets, Franz Seldte, finally was received by Hitler today but the details of the conference were secret. Political circles believe Seldte will be compelled to resign his post as minister of labor in the near future.

BAY STATE HOUSE CENSURES NAZIS; STIRS GERMAN CONSUL'S IRE

Boston, Mass., Aug. 12.—(AP)—The house today adopted a resolution condemning what it called religious persecution by the Nazis in Germany. The action promptly drew from Baron Kurt von Tippelskirch, German consul general in Boston, the charge that it was "impolite and discourteous."

"I feel it is not the business of the house to pass judgment on what takes place in Germany," Von Tippleskirch said.

"In Germany we refrain from criticizing what goes on in the United States. The representatives cannot really judge the situation. They are overstepping the limit.

"These gentlemen should sweep before their own door, and should not judge lest they be judged."

SEATTLE MAYOR APOLOGIZES FOR EMPEROR JOKES

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 12.—Mayor Charles L. Smith, in a letter to Isaku Okamoto, Japanese consul here, today expressed regret over the burlesque of the Japanese and Ethiopian emperors during a community club "coyote hunt" last Friday.

"Please accept this, my sincere assurance, that the proceeding was not planned to bring reproach or ridicule upon his imperial majesty or your country," the mayor wrote.

"It is appropriate to inform you that the offending incident did not occur at a city undertaking, but at a small community affair, and was conceived and executed in a spirit of jocularity," the letter said.

CLEANERS DEFY COURT; ANNOUNCE NEW PRICE CUTS

Despite the injunction issued recently by the Circuit court to keep cleaning prices up to a 90 cent level, more independent cleaners throughout the city began to cut prices yesterday, one concern setting the rate as low as 34 cents a garment.

Edward A. Fink, president of the Peacock Cleaners, and who is now under sentence to pay a $3,000 fine and spend 60 days in jail for violating the injunction previously, was one of the first of the new price cutters. His concern advertised a 49 cent rate.

The cleaners, who are defying the court's authority, will also make a definite effort later this week to stop all price fixing when Fink's attorney files a petition in the Appellate court for a writ of prohibition to prevent the courts fr enforcing the injunction, or otherwise interfering with the cleaning industry.

ROYALISTS DEFY GREEK REGIME IN LABOR CRISIS

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 12.—(AP)—A crowd of more than 1,000 royalists defied a government edict against manifestations tonight as unrest continued in the face of a two hour general strike called by labor organizations for tomorrow.

The royalists assembled in a public square and later attempted to storm the offices of the Republican newspaper Patris, scene of a raid last night by a terrorist gang who wounded several reporters and threatened the editor.

A government proclamation issued today warned that "severest penalties" will be inflicted upon persons found guilty of acts of violence.

JAPAN FIGHTS ARMY DISSENSION AFTER SLAYING

Fear Cabinet Fall if War Minister Resigns.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 13 [Tuesday].—High army and government officials held conferences through most of last night in the face of the feared far-reaching political repercussions following the assassination yesterday of Lieut. Gen. Tetsuzan Nagata, director of military affairs and virtual administrative head of the army.

The strictest censorship was imposed, and the war office revealed only that a subordinate, Lieut. Col. Aizawa, using a saber, attacked Nagata in his rooms and dealt him a mortal wound in the chest. Aizawa is under arrest.

Must Fill Post Quickly.

Minister of War Gen. Senjuro Hayashi sought to accept responsibility for events in his department leading up to the assassination, but it is believed that other ministers, fearing that the entire cabinet might fall, have disuaded him from his offer to resign. Military circles feel that if Hayashi took the blame it would set a bad precedent and intensify dissension in the army.

The influential newspapers Nichi Nichi and Asahi today declared Hayashi's duty is to remain at his post.

The post of director of military affairs, being an important one, must be filled immediately, and army leaders, it is understood, are considering Lieut. Gen. Kiyoshi Imai, chief of the personnel bureau, who is regarded as a man free of factionalism. The central military headquarters is issuing strict instructions to all officers to maintain discipline.

Coupled with Ouster.

The motive of the assassination is not known and the army has been transformed into a world of silence. One conjecture declares Aizawa was moved by discontent among officers following the recent ouster of Gen. Jinzaburo Mazaki as director general of military education. The ouster enhanced the 52 year old Nagata's position and was accompanied by a shakeup of divisional commanders. Nagata was a strong supporter of Gen. Hayashi and was regarded as a most able army man.

Col. Hideo Shimmi, commander of the Tokio gendarmerie, who was reporting to Nagata about 10 a. m. yesterday, attempted to hold off Aizawa, but was also wounded and is in a serious condition. Nagata was after death promoted to the rak of lieutenant general and raised to court rank. A whole regiment will serve as guard of honor at his funeral Thursday. War Minister Hayashi has postponed indefinitly his departure on a vacation.

Two Chinese Ministers Resign.

NANKING, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Speculations concerning shakeups of the Chinese national government arose today when the resignations of two more cabinet ministers were added to that of Premier Wang Ching-wei.

The most recent resignations were those of Meng Yu-ku, minister of railways, and Kung Po-chen, the minister of of industry.

PALESTINE PAYS OWN WAY; SHOWS BIG TRADE GAIN

Government Turns Up with a Surplus.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Remarkable figures will be made public shortly regarding the enormous economic progress of Palestine, which, whatever the cause, outpaces every other territory within the sphere of British influence.

The original estimate of revenue for the year will be $27,250,000 instead of $25,000,000 as projected. This will leave the government a surplus and make the Holy Land independent of foreign loans. The figures are considered all the more gratifying in London as since 1922 the number of pupils at the schools has increased by nearly 60 per cent and the expenditure on education has increased by 50 per cent.

Enormous masts are to be erected in November near the Mount of Olives by the new Jerusalem Broadcasting corporation. The first program will be on Christmas day. Thereafter there is to be a daily five hour program, which has been carefully drawn up to appeal alike to Arab, Jew, immigrant, and gentile trader from the west.

More than 100 loud speakers are to be set up in the settlements and villages and lectures are to be given in Arabic, Hebrew, and English on agriculture, hygiene, education, infant welfare, mineralogy, and economics.

Though it sounds a dull form of entertainment, the colonial office has only answered an insistent local demand.

At the same time the Palestine government is sending out to all officials in its employ the welcome news that the pay cuts introduced during the crisis of 1930 are to be restored. To make it still better the restoration is to be retrospective from April 1 of this year.

The home government is under the impression that the Palestine authorities need no longer observe the parsimony which was necessary before.

REDS GRANT AMNESTY TO OFFICIALS JAILED DURING '32-'33 FAMINE.

MOSCOW, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The soviet government today granted amnesty to all soviet former officials and workers who, during the difficult period of 1932-33, infringed state laws in efforts to meet the situation of want created by grain shortage. The government charged at that time the shortage was due to an organized campaign of sabotage by the kulaks, the small landholders.

[Conservative estimates placed the death toll in the 1932-33 famine between four and five million persons; other estimates ranged up to eight millions.]

The decree says it has been found that no selfish motives existed and that there was a general lack of understanding of the laws and regulations which were violated.

Find Illinois Officials Using Their Employes as Chauffeurs

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Although Gov. Horner is opposed to state officials' use of highway policemen as their private chauffeurs, apparently he has been circumvented, for several elective or appointive officers are being driven about by subordinates in their departments.

Mr. Horner follows the custom of former governors and is piloted by a highway policeman but his trips are generally official. The policeman is one of a permanent detail of six who act as bodyguards for the governor in Springfield 24 hours per day, two men to an eight hour shift. When Mr. Horner goes on vacation he travels by train unguarded.

Drives for Hughes.

No policemen are assigned to other state officials but several of them find it possible to use people in their offices for that purpose. One of these officials is Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, whose driver is Chris Maddox, an automobile inspector in Hughes' department.

Director of Public Works Robert Kingery and Chief Highway Engineer Ernest Lieberman are sometimes driven about by C. E. Cushman, an employé of the public works department. Similarly, Director of Conservation Charles F. Thompson has the chauffeur services of Edward Doran, an employé in his department. At times State Auditor Barrett uses Charles Daly of his office as his driver.

Others Use Employés.

Several other appointive or elective officials use state employés to drive them when on trips to state institutions. Others do their own chauffeuring. Among them are State Treasurer John Stelle and Director of Insurance Ernest Palmer.

Director of Agriculture Walter W. McLaughlin sometimes has one of the men in his office pilot his car but Director of Mines and Minerals James McSherry drives his own machine. A. L. Bowen, director of public welfare, occasionally uses a man from his department as driver but Superintendent of Public Instruction John Wieland, Attorney General Otto Kerner, and Clerk Adam F. Bloch of the Supreme court walk to work.

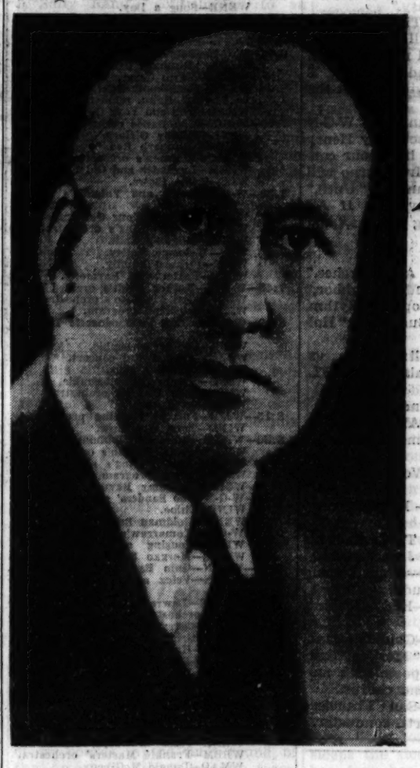
"I challenge 'all three' or all twenty-three to show you anything like Studebaker economy!



AND I MEAN GASOLINE ECONOMY AS WELL AS OIL ECONOMY---TIRE LIFE---SERVICING---REPAIRS---EVERYTHING IT TAKES TO RUN A CAR"

BIG, NEW STUDEBAKER 5-PASSENGER SEDAN
DELIVERED IN CHICAGO
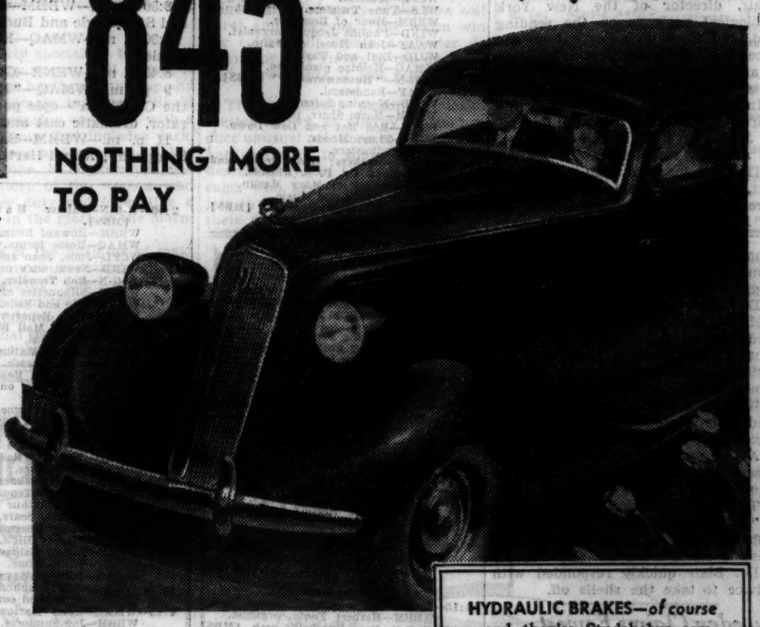
NOTHING MORE TO PAY



I'LL match this magnificent Studebaker Champion sedan against any car in America for economy. I'll back it to cost you less to run than any one of the three lowest priced cars—or, for that matter, any of the twenty-three cars that are on the market today.

"It took us a long time to convince people that Studebaker delivers, fully equipped, for almost as little as the lowest priced cars. Now, I'm out to show every motorist in town that when it comes to gasoline mileage . . . oil mileage . . . tire mileage . . . Studebaker is also this year's best buy.

"Bring in your facts about any other car's economy and I'll undertake to bowl them over with my facts about this Studebaker's money-saving performance. And when it comes to repairs . . . well, we hardly have enough work servicing this year's Studebakers to keep us going in that department—that's how flawlessly built these Champions are.

"Why, even your insurance on a Studebaker runs into less money than it does on most cars. You save in the beginning and you save all through your car's life.

"But talk is cheap . . . let's get out our pencils, you and I, and do some figuring. Come in and I'll guarantee that Studebaker will easily win the argument."

HYDRAULIC BRAKES—of course—and they're Studebaker compound hydraulics.

STEEL BODY—of course—and it's reinforced by steel not wood.

11 MORE CHICAGO HIGH SCHOOLS TO GET R.O.T.C. UNITS

Will Increase Enrollment to 11,000.

Word was received from Washington yesterday that war department officials have decided to extend the Reserve Officers Training corps' appropriation to include 11 additional Chicago high schools in accordance with the request of school officials.

There are now R. O. T. C. units in 17 of the 37 city high schools and the expansion will extend military training to 28 schools, increasing the R. O. T. C. enrollment from 5,500 to 11,000 students, according to estimates of James B. McCahey, president of the board of education.

Colonel May Direct Units.

It is expected that a regular army officer with the rank of colonel will be assigned as director of the expanded R. O. T. C. Until the present time directors have held the rank of major. Maj. John D. von Holtzendorff is now in charge of the unit.

Eleven additional regular army sergeants will be assigned to direct the work of the new units, which will be at Amundsen, Farragut, Foreman, Harper, Kelly, Kelvin Park, Manley, Steinmetz, Sullivan, Von Steuben, and Hirsch High schools.

Largest R. O. T. C. in Country.

The war department's action follows a recent request made to Maj. Frank R. McCoy, commander of the Sixth Corps area. With the increased enrollment Chicago is expected to have the largest high school R. O. T. C. in the country.

K. SCHNEIDER, 70, NOTED DESIGNER, TAKEN BY DEATH

Kristan Schneider, one of the best known architectural designers in the country, died at his home in Crystal Lake Sunday following a heart attack. He was 70 years old.

KRISTAN SCHNEIDER.

Mr. Schneider was born in Norway and came to this country when he was 20 years old. He studied under and worked for the late Louis Sullivan, architect who designed many famous buildings.

Among Mr. Schneider's best known works were the "golden arch" of the Transportation building at the Columbian Exposition, the bronze work on the Carson Pirie Scott & Co. retail store, the architectural decorations of the Auditorium in Chicago, of the old Schiller and the McVicker's theaters, the Wainwright building in St. Louis, the Prudential building in Buffalo, N. Y., and the Woodbury county courthouse in Sioux City.

Mr. Schneider had been with the Midland Terra Cotta company for five years and before that with the American Terra Cotta company. Surviving him are his widow, Marie, and three sons, Thorolf, Trygve, and Roy, all of Crystal Lake. Funeral services will be held from the home at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

EXPLORER ASKS FOR ADVICE ON FEEDING WALRUS

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The ether has been vibrating for days with advice on the feeding of baby walruses. Dr. William Reid Blair, director of the New York Zoölogical park, is on the sending end, and Capt. Bob Bartlett on the receiving. Capt. Bartlett is cruising in arctic waters with a party of scientists and a baby walrus.

In between the two, transmitting words on which life may well depend, is J. E. Preston, North Arlington, an amateur radio operator.

The first message from Capt. Bartlett, on the west side of Greenland, directed to Dr. Blair, read:

"Have baby walrus which I want to bring to you. The little devil won't drink milk and we can get him to eat only by force. Can you suggest method of feeding?"

Dr. Blair has had several baby walruses at one time and another and one of them lived five years. Out of his experience he radioed:

"Feed walrus shredded codfish six times a day. Mash fish until semi-solid and serve in small quantities and if he retains it increase until he takes four or five pounds a day."

A day or so later Dr. Blair wirelessed to add soft shelled clams to the diet.

Today the following message came: "Little devil is perking up on cod-fish diet. Now we feed the soft shelled clams with the shells on."

Dr. Blair quickly responded with advice to take the shells off.

Two Surprise Weddings Are Made Known

Jaquelin Goddard Bride of F. E. Brown.

BY JUDITH CASS.

OF all the news that crosses a society desk in the course of a year, there's probably nothing a society editor takes more delight in reporting than a surprise wedding. Two events of this character are in today's news.

Miss Jaquelin Goddard and Frank Edward Brown were married here on July 22, but they kept their marriage a secret until the formal announcements were issued yesterday. Miss Frances Canfield and Robert Creighton Mitchell eloped Saturday night to Waukegan.

Miss Goddard is the daughter of Mrs. Mario Saint-Cyr of Rome, Italy, and the late Joseph Sterling Goddard, a Chicago lawyer who died in 1917. Mr. Brown, whose home is in New Haven, Conn., is the son of Mrs. Rose E. Brown of Minneapolis, Minn.

Their romance began several years ago when Miss Goddard, after finishing at Stuart Hall in Virginia, went to Rome to visit her mother. There she met Mr. Brown, who was a student in the American academy. Previous to this Mr. Brown had studied for four years in England and taken a degree at Yale university.

He and his bride are here now at the apartment at 12 East Division street that Mrs. Brown occupied with her sister, Mrs. John H. Silverthorne, before her marriage. Mrs. Brown is recuperating from an extended illness but she and her new husband expect to be able to leave for Syria on Oct. 1.

The journey will be a combined wedding trip and archæological expedition for Yale university is sending Mr. Brown as associate director of its expedition to Dura in Syria.

Mother Here for Wedding

Happily enough Mrs. Brown's mother and stepfather, Prof. and Mrs. Saint-Cyr, were here for the wedding, for they arrived from Rome a month ago. They have taken Miss Gertrude McCormick's house in Riverside for the summer and have no definite plans for returning to Italy. It will be recalled that Mrs. Saint-Cyr was married two years ago to the poet, musician, and author.

Mrs. Saint-Cyr's son, J. Sterling Goddard, and his bride of a few months, the former Edith Pritchard of Riverside, have just returned from a delayed wedding trip to Bermuda. They now are at home in the Marshall Field Garden apartments. The new Mrs. Goddard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Pritchard of Riverside. Their wedding was a quiet event last Feb. 2.

Miss Canfield and Mr. Mitchell are delaying their wedding trip until later and living meantime at the Ambassador East hotel. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Canfield of the Pearson hotel and Mr. Mitchell is the son of Mrs. Adah Mitchell.

The new Mrs. Mitchell attended the University School for Girls and Miss Wheeler's and was a debutante of 1933. Her twin sister is Mrs. Harry Remington Curran Jr., who chose a wedding to a debut two years ago. Mr. Mitchell attended Northwestern university.

Winnetka Garden Club Meets Tomorrow

There could be no more charming setting for a meeting of the Winnetka Garden club than the French farm house of Mrs. Spencer Beman on Birch street in the north shore suburb. It's not a large house but a perfect example of its type.

Mrs. Beman, assisted by Mrs. Samuel W. McCaulley, is entertaining the garden club members at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow with a program that holds more than casual interest. Each one of the guests is asked to bring one or more miniature flower arrangements for entrance in a competition that will be judged by popular vote.

Japanese arrangements will form one of the classes, and studies in the smartly fashionable gray and white another class. Then there will be small arrangements, done in varying shades of blue, and still a fourth class, limited to mixed bouquets.

The competitive exhibit is the idea of Mrs. Arthur Sullivan. The only rule that Mrs. Sullivan has listed is that the entries must be limited to 5 inches in height.

The rest of the afternoon's program is to be devoted to a review of the work of the North Shore Garden center established by the Winnetka club a year and a half ago. Mrs. Warren W. Shoemaker and Mrs. Montague Ferry, both of whom are garden center officers, will be the speakers.

Mrs. Sidney Y. Ball is president of the center which now has an affiliation of twenty-three suburban garden clubs including Barrington. The idea NUREMBERG, Germany.—In no city in which we have yet visited do the centuries—old and new—mingle so harmoniously as in Nuremberg where its Rathouse and churches and old houses date from the fourteenth century [its castle was mentioned in a document of 1050]—and which is at the same time the chief manufacturing town in south Germany. Machinery, lead pencils, and metalware are manufactured here. Also, and more suitably for such a charming German city, toys and gingerbread—that famous lebkuchen, two tins of which were immediately added to our impedimenta; one to eat, and one to take back home.

WE bought the lebkuchen and some of Nuremberg's famous toys at the end of a stroll about the town, refreshing our memories about this city we visited four years ago. Down the great, wide moat of the old town—now grass planted and lined with trees, we wandered. Then we began our real business of sightseeing, after lingering for a time on the old bridge that crosses the placid Pegnitz river, in which the ancient, half-timbered houses, gay with flower boxes, are reflected in the mirror-like stream.

THERE is so much to see in Nuremberg. This time we passed up the castle and the torture chamber with its famous "iron maiden," lined with murderous spikes that closed on the body of the victim of her embrace at the rate of 1 inch the hour. We passed up the famous Germanic museum, too, and contented ourselves with looking at Gothic façades and the lovely fountains, at a famed and exquisite oriel window in a church parsonage; at some masterpieces in bronze and stone of Nuremberg's famous sculptors, Adam Krafft and Peter Vischer, and at the houses of Hans Sachs and Albrecht Dürer.

THE amazing versatility of Hans Sachs came to mind as we stood in front of the quaint house with its bronze plate where this Nuremberg resident, born in 1494, lived and cobbled. He not only developed and trained the Meistersingers of Nuremberg, but he wrote 5,000 songs, 1,700 short stories, and several hundred dramas. Members of the Maater Singers guild were called "singers" when they had mastered a certain number of tunes; "poets" when they could compose verses to a given tune, and they became "maater singers" only when they could compose both words and music for a designated theme. Richard Wagner immortalized Hans Sachs and the Meistersingers of Nuremberg, but Sachs was a very modest man as is indicated by the description of himself in the poem German children learn:

["Hans Sachs was a Shoemaker and a Poet, too."]

* *

IT was time for luncheon and we were tired, so we went to the Bratwurstglöcklein for the grilled sausages, the sauerkraut, and the foaming mugs of beer that have been served there for more than six hundred years. Bratwurst means roast sausage and glöcklein means little bell. The place is merely a shed close by one of the churches. We sat out on the tiny terrace and lingered over our beer watching two exotic ladies who smoked tiny cigars, and who we decided were Viennese or Hungarian.

Saddle Lether Handbags Hit of Fall Showings

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Anticipating all the gorgeous new fall tweed outfits that demand unusually good looking or superswanky accessories to make them the hit of the fall collections, one famous bag designer is now presenting handbags of saddle lether. These handbags are stunning and effective enough to startle any shopper, with or without the tweeds to contrast the bags. It's real saddle lether, rich golden beige color, smooth and glowing.

You'll find lots of styles and models, all of them lined with such contrasting colored lethers as wine, deep forest green, ginger brown and black. Bags with handles are being featured; evidently this designer has decided that shoppers are getting tired of clutching their bags under the arm, so some very unusual straps and carrying devices have been evolved. One has regulation straps and metal buckles, copied from bridles; others have braided lether handles, and still others have round corner straps, and so on.

There are long bags, wide bags, a few envelope cases with handsome metal buckles and some new vertical affairs, much deeper than they are wide and they are most reasonably priced for such outstanding finds.

Because of the extremely simple and smart designing they can be carried for many seasons. The saddle lether can be kept in excellent condition with the small jar of saddle soap which is included with each bag. Ask to see these new arrivals—they'll go with all the high colored fall clothes whether of tweed or plain woolens.

Film Houses Present Gay Stage Shows

Vaudeville Programs Win Loud Applause.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The vaudeville programs of the downtown cinema theaters are lively with playgoing interest this week. For example, the stage show at the Palace theater is given by the well-known comedians Olsen and Johnson whose exploits in the musical comedy, "Take A Chance," of two summers ago are happily remembered; the Duncan Sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, are entertaining in their characteristic manner at the State-Lake, and Sally Rand, heroine of the fan dancing mania, is headliner at the Chicago.

The Olsen and Johnson contribution is a revue called "Everything Goes," in which their fantastic sense of humor has full swing. Strange things happen in the audience while the performance is in progress—a balloon merchant wanders up and down the ailes hawking his wares, a customer pretends to commit suicide when informed that the performance will run for 68 minutes, a baby who will not stop crying is apparently executed by an usher. These are characteristic touches of the rough-and-ready impromptu merriment in which the stars specialize.

A few vestiges of the "Take A Chance" pranks remain in the show [the bedroom scene of the hallroom boys, for example], but in the main the material is new. The 30-odd auxiliaries include a clever and attractive ballet group.

The inimitable Duncans recall the fame of their "Topsy and Eva" period by appearing as those characters, but that is their only concession to the past. They have new songs and comic chatter, and Rosetta's gift for eccentric comedy is manifested by tricks that have an air of novelty. Their songs include such titles as "Spain," "Clavelitos," and "Adam and Eve." At the close of their half-hour of lively entertainment they sing the theme song from "Topsy and Eva," and then Vivian introduces her infant daughter, Evelyn Duncan Asther, to the applauding State-Lake patrons.

Sally Rand's contribution to an ample vaudeville bill at the Chicago is a ballet incident called "Leda and the Swan." The theater's group of dancing girls, a fullstage setting representing the ruins of a classic temple, and an excellent arrangement of music for the orchestra give the number an air of distinction, but Miss Rand herself has dropped far below her fan-dancing standard of popular appeal.

The swan wings which she has harnessed to herself, with a swan's neck as sheath for one of her arms, form an ungraceful picture. From the point of view of stage decoration the effect is bad. The dance—if this bit of pantomime can be given that label—is brief and uninteresting.

Correction: The paragraph printed in this column a few days ago concerning an emergency substitution in the cast of "Three Men on a Horse" was entirely in error, and the mistake was caused by false information from the Harris theater. Hugh Rennie, the actor alleged to have been late for a matinée performance, is due an apology. He did not miss the performance; moreover, he has never been late for one in his career in the theater.

Lightner's Team Has Wide Lead in Bridge League Tournament

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Theodore Lightner's team held a 3480 point lead over the H. Huber Boscowitz entry tonight at the end of 36 boards in the final round of the American Bridge league's team-of-four championship.

Lightner's team had 36 more boards to play with the Boscowitz four.

Play was switched from the Asbury Park convention hall to the home of Waldemar von Zedtwitz on the outskirts of this city, where kibitzers and other spectators were barred.

The Lightner team's lead was considered safe, as their opponents must gain an average of almost 100 points a board to win.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The cool, fresh fragrance of rock garden flowers suggested one of the newest and finest of French perfumes. It's an ideal summer scent.

If you have to journey miles for the thrill, don't miss getting acquainted with a new French perfume that just made its debut. It's unbelievably dainty and sweet—just the thing for use in the warm weather when the sophisticated note is a good bit more than the trafic will bear.

If you're just awfully worldly, and not interested in a scent that doesn't accent the siren in you, this is not your dish. But if you like to be utterly feminine you'll adore it. It's positively dewey with the fresh sweetness of youth. No cloying, nor bouncing with exuberance, but warmly gay. Every woman in this office went mad about it—and one who wore it a starlit night or two ago reported that the public at large, both male and female, reacted beautifully to it.

Its name is as nice as it is, suggesting flowers from a shady, tinkling rock garden. And its package is equally up to the high standard, with an old-fashioned lace paper frill about the neck of the smart bottle. Shades of bouquets of sweetheart roses!

One admirable quality about this scent is that women of all ages, provided they're more feminine in tastes and type than they are sophisticated, can wear it well. It's in perfect taste because one of its many charms is that it's ladylike.

This scent should be used subtly; it would be a crime not to make the rich most of it. A touch of it on the flesh is all you need. In some shops it is sold only in the original package, which calls for something of an investment, but in others you can buy it in bulk—which is probably the thing you'll do if you're trying to squeeze in both an elegant new perfume and a crack at the August fur sales. Beauty When You Wake Is Lecture Topic

BY ELEANOR NANGLE.

"How to be beautiful on waking" might have been the title of one of the addresses given yesterday to the several hundred beauty culturists assembled at the Hotel Sherman for the annual convention and trade show of the American Cosmeticians' association. Ruth D. Maurer, educational director of the association, of which Mrs. Winifred A. Fayant is president, told the beauticians how they, in turn, might tell their clients how to look attractive in the cold morning light.

If the beauty specialists have their way the weary woman will no longer merely cleanse her face with soap and cream and tumble into bed. She'll follow the cleansing operation with a ritual of makeup that includes darkening of brows and rouging of her lips. This done, it is presumed she sleeps the sleep of the woman who has done her duty and looks like a fresh flower in the glare of the morning sun.

All phases of the business of making women more beautiful will be discussed during the convention which closes tomorrow evening with a style and fashion revue. In one of the educational sessions yesterday the visiting specialists were shown how to give a sick-bed shampoo with the minimum of discomfort to the patient, using a liquid that cleanses with one application and requires no rinsing.

Makeup trends were discussed in several lectures. An elaborate new makeup demonstrated made use of pulverized 14 carat gold on an oil base that gives a luminous sheen. It is prescribed for use before being photographed and for evening.

The rich fabrics and elegant lines of fashions prescribed for fall and winter inspired many of the new coiffures and makeups. The warm winter colors will create a greater demand for hair rinses in the dark red and brown tints, it was reported.

The sometimes puzzling idiosyncrasies known as allergy which produce unusual reactions to certain dyes and cosmetics in some women were described by Dr. G. A. Ward of Chicago, who urged the beauty specialists to be alert for such disorders in their patrons.

Good Morning!

For the life of me I can't see what connection the title of this 'un has with the story. But let it pass. Titles so seldom DO mean anything. . . .

Speaking of the story—it isn't such a much. But it gives you, in practically every scene, the opportunity of gazing upon that rare comedian, W. C. Fields—and so it may be called worthy.

Mr. Fields is seen as a hen-pecked step-papa. He and his adoring daughter by a former wife live with the present Mrs. Wolfinger, her fat, lazy son and her acid mother. Wife, mother-in-law and step-son do all in their power to make life miserable for Ambrose. And HOW they do succeed! Until—the worm turns. Worms turn—for pretty daughter gets her innings, too.

The finale should please all those who love Mr. Fields and Miss Brian—and their name is legion.

You have seen the former involved in many predicaments brought on by his muddle-headedness and butter-fingeredness. But never was he more continually in the soup; out of the frying pan into the fire—and back again—than in "The Man on the Flying Trapeze."

Your heart aches for him. Your own great brain yerns and your agile digits itch to come to his assistance. He and Miss Brian—she's lovely and adaptable as ever—play their parts "straight." The supporting cast burlesques. All of which, I should say, is as it should be.

Mr. Fields, as you probably know, has been ill for the last few months and will probably be out of pictures for a time. All of us are hoping that the time will not be long and that he'll soon again be turning out the delightful brand of comedy that has made him famous—and us—joyous.

See you tomorrow.

The Husband Snatcher

By Elizabeth York Miller.

SYNOPSIS.

Nancy and Dick Heritage have been married for two years and are still greatly in love. Though Nancy is hated by Edith Heritage, her mother-in-law, she has come to live with them in their little house in Primrose Dene, near London. There is a gap of four years in Nancy's life which she had not satisfactorily accounted for. Nancy is informed by Mr. Sam Digger, attorney, that she has been bequeathed £5,000 by Miss Agnes Satchell, late governor of a girls' reformatory, where Nancy had been committed for four years. Nancy had been employed by a Mrs. Lane and was accused of theft. Sylvia, Mrs. Lane's daughter, was the real culprit. Sylvia threatened to kill herself if Nancy exposed her. Nancy foolishly took the blame, though she possessed a signed confession from Sylvia. Miss Satchell believed in Nancy's innocence. Dick and his mother are displeased when they learn that Nancy is expecting a baby. Edith Heritage invites a friend, Mrs. Lane, and her daughter, Sylvia, for tea. Nancy pleads a dentist's appointment. The Lanes arrive just as Dick comes home. They are startled when they see Nancy's photograph, but Sylvia, who is interested in Dick, explains that Nancy had lived with them, and they'd had a misunderstanding, but bygones were bygones. Nancy returns home after the Lanes had left and has a quarrel with Mrs. Heritage, who threatens to leave, until Nancy apologizes. That evening Dick disappears.

INSTALMENT XIV.

HURT PRIDE.

Nancy wasn't going to admit to herself that Dick didn't love her any more. That would be utterly stupid. It was only that life was hitting at her in so many different ways that she felt bewildered.

Laughingly, Dick had suggested that she might be jealous of Sylvia Lane, which was an absurdity. It would have been much nearer the mark if he had said she was in danger of being jealous of his mother.

For instance, she had noticed a gorgeous bunch of red roses on a table in Edith's room, and when she went to speak to Minnie about the bath Minnie had said: "I hope you didn't mind, ma'am, me taking your big cut glass vase for the roses the master brought for Mrs. Heritage. She asked me to put them in something and there wasn't any other big vase."

Nancy's eyes began to sting with tears she was too proud to let fall.

Wasn't she terribly small minded to be hurt because Dick had brought his mother some roses? Didn't it mean she had a petty, jealous nature? A good son makes a good husband, they say.

But chastising herself and making excuses for Dick did not alter the fact that this morning she had told him she was going to have a baby. He had taken the news badly and, except for that brief, rough and ready apology, had not referred to the important subject again.

She had thought it would be so different, seeing herself in imagination curled up in Dick's lap with her arms around his neck while they made wonderful plans together. Because it was such a great and glorious thing which was going to happen to them.

The June twilight began to fade at last. It was nearly 10 o'clock now, and the house was very still.

The truth dawned slowly on Nancy as she tried to make him answer her.

Nancy switched on a few lights. There was no sound from upstairs and she concluded that her mother-in-law must have fallen asleep after all.

In the kitchen Minnie was waiting patiently.

"I think it's all right now," Nancy told her.

"She hasn't drawn any hot water," said Minnie.

"Probably she decided not to bother. After all, she had a bath this morning."

"And last night before dinner," sniffed Minnie. "It can't be healthy."

Unconsciously the maid and her woebegone young mistress were beginning to draw closer together. Minnie's loyalty in the matter of the cap had been astonishing, and her tacit sympathy was none the less appreciated because it could not be openly acknowledged.

An impulse she could not resist took hold of Nancy. It seemed that she simply had to tell somebody who would be pleased. Hadn't Minnie said so often—"This house lacks little ones, ma'am. As my mother used to say, a house isn't a home until there's children in it."

So now she told Minnie a little shyly about her expectations and to her blank dismay the faithful creature exclaimed: "O, ma'am, how dreadful for you!"

Nancy sat down, laid her head on the kitchen table, and wept.

Minnie bent over her, patting her shoulders with work-roughened fingers, half weeping herself as she struggled to say what it was she actually meant, and to say it without seeming to be impertinent on the subject of mothers-in-law.

"It's only because of her, ma'am. She'll upset you so—I can see she will. Will she stay long, do you think? O, ma'am, I don't want to be rude about her, I don't indeed! But my mother always said young married folks is best left alone to live by themselves, and I can't help feeling it's true."

Nancy wiped away her tears and tried to smile.

"You funny old thing! Run along now and have your bath."

"Hark!" said Minnie, lifting a forefinger.

Unmistakably there was a gurgling sound in the boiler pipes.

Then they both burst out laughing.

Mrs. Heritage obviously had got in ahead of Minnie.

"What a lucky thing you stopped along with me for a little chat, ma'am. If there isn't anything more I can do I'll take a can of hot water up to my room and make it do."

"No, there's nothing more I want," said Nancy.

She, too, went to her own room and to bed. It seemed to her that her head had no more than touched the pillow when she found herself sitting bolt upright listening for the repetition of some peculiar sound.

Had she been asleep?

Switching on the light, she saw to her astonishment that the time was a little past three. So she had been asleep for hours and Dick hadn't come home yet.

That funny noise . . . could it be burglars?

Stealthily Nancy crept out of bed, her heart beating like a trip-hammer. There had been so many robberies lately, and something fiercely protective of that life which depended for its existence upon her life warned her to run no risks.

It couldn't possibly be Dick, for, although he had never been out so late as this, still once or twice he had come home very late from the office when they were working overtime on a big order and never had he given her the impression that he might be a burglar.

She forced herself to go out into the hall and peered over the banisters.

There was a light burning. She had left it for Dick. And something—a man's body—all crumpled up in a heap at the foot of the stairs.

Instantly she knew that it was her husband and he must be hurt in some way. Perhaps he had met with an accident and it might be he had been lying there for hours.

Nancy rushed down the stairs and bent over him.

As she whispered and shook him and tried to make him answer her the truth dawned slowly on Nancy, and, when she realized it completely, filled her with unutterable disgust.

To put it in plain language, her husband was dead drunk.

Never, never had a thing like that happened before, although during the first six months of their marriage it had given Nancy quite a lot of trouble to convince Dick that he could live as happily and much more cheaply without cocktails and wine for dinner every night. The cocktails, if he took several, made him lively, but Nancy had never seen him in a condition which faintly approached this.

She could feel no compassion for him at all, but she was wildly anxious that his mother shouldn't know. That was her pride again. As she shook and half lifted him and coaxed him up the stairs step by step she kept one ear trained on her mother-in-law's door. At the back was the little sewing room, and there was a divan couch in there.

Fortunately Dick did not try to talk. Very likely he hadn't the faintest idea where he was or what was happening to him, and when Nancy finally dumped him on the couch he lay there like a log.

She took off his collar and tie, opened the window wide, and left him.

Nancy slipped into her own room and closed that door softly, too. Anyone who had committed a murder and got away with it would know how she felt.

But there was no more sleep for her that night.

Night indeed! It was broad daylight and the birds were twittering.

A Friend in Need

Requests Tennis Racquet.

"Dear Miss Brown: I wonder if any of your readers has a tennis racquet which is no longer needed. I am out of work and unable to buy one and would greatly enjoy being able to play tennis on some of the public courts during my many leisure hours."—J. M.

Easy Chair Is Requested.

Has any reader an easy chair of some sort for a woman who has been ill? The family is on relief and unable to purchase one, although it would be a great comfort to the mother. The home is located on the northwest side and Mr. N. will be happy to call for a chair.

English Kinfolk Coming to Visit Wendy Barrie

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Immigration difficulties all smoothed over, Wendy Barrie today made a last minute switch in her plans. Instead of going to England as she had planned she is sending for her mother, Mrs. T. L. Jenkin, and her sister, Paddy, who will arrive here on Aug. 27. Miss Barrie has leased the home of Ramon Novarro and is getting it in readiness to welcome her family.

One of the main reasons for bringing them here is that Paddy has been in delicate health and Miss Barrie believes the southern California climate will prove beneficial to her. For a little rest before they get here Miss Barrie plans to go to Mexico. When she returns from that country she will come back with a British quota number. She made her last screen appearance at Paramount in "The Big Broadcast of 1936."

A couple of years ago Joan Crawford's home in Brentwood was entirely Spanish architecture. She set about to transform it into an English home. Carpenters were busy again yesterday to put on the last finishing touches in the transformation.

A good example of how Hollywoodites go in for dogs as pets was observed today at the Warner studio. Every member of "The Case of the Lucky Legs" unit possesses a canine. Warren William owns four prize wire haired terriers, Genevieve Tobin breeds West Highland terriers; Archie Mayo favors police dogs, Lyle Talbot has two cocker spaniels and Patricia Ellis one, and Barton MacLane's kennel boasts five prize Irish setters.

Before W. C. Fields makes his return to the screen he is going away on a quiet vacation. His physician, Dr. P. G. White, today gave him permission. Fields hasn't decided where he will go.

Wm. Wyler, the director, was once a violin student at the Paris Conservatory of Music.

Kay Francis will be seeing a lot of Delmer Daves, the scenarist, now that she is returning to work at the Warner studio after her long vacation. He does his chores at the same lot.

Dave and Betty Rose, who went abroad with Douglas Fairbanks and Lady Ashley, are visiting Fay Wray in England.

For the first time in his long cinema career Warner Oland used makeup in "Charlie Chang in Shanghai," and the reason he did was because he cut his face shaving and had to cover the wound with grease paint.

Starry-eyed Lillian Roth and her husband, Judge Ben Shallek of New York, were seen dining at the Brown Derby.

Ann Sothern's new bar was decorated by Keogh and is attracting much attention from visitors to her home.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

DOUBLE SQUEEZE.

It was a gathering of three lambs and one wolf. The wolf was a dour person. One rarely saw the flash of his gold toothed smile or heard the rumble of his laughter, unless—well, unless some such situation occurred as the following:

NORTH
♥ K-J
♦ A-K-10-2

WEST
♠ Q-J
♥ A-6-5-4
♦ Q-9-8

SOUTH
♠ K-6-3
♦ 3
♣ A-K-3-2

The type is familiar enough. A grand coup is the epitome of humor; an opponent's error brings down the house. Each mistake is a personal tribute to the prowess of the declarer, to be retold with many reminiscent chuckles.

"I'll never forget your expression," chortled the wolf, "when the eight of clubs held the trick."

If this story had a happy ending the shearer would have been shorn, the trickster tricked; but, unfortunately, life is seldom that way. Wellington doubtless rubbed it in on Napoleon; Timur probably jeered at his Asiatic captives. Defeat is not so bitter as the knowledge that it might have been avoided.

History is silent as to the process whereby six hearts was reached. Suffice it to say that that was the ultimate contract. And West made the sound opening of the queen of spades. His partner put on an encouraging eight spot. The trick was won with the ace in dummy, and the king of hearts led. West thoughtfully ducked the trick and refused to win the jack. Having failed to overtake, the wolf now entered his hand with the ace of clubs, noting the drop of the ten with a faint gleam of hope, and drove out the ace of trumps by brute force.

That ten-spot meant something else to West again. He was seized with a sudden brainstorm. He played back a low club.

As pointed out in the wolf's post-mortem conversation, the eight-spot held the trick. Despite this free gift of a trick, the contract was not yet home. South still had a spade and a club loser. But the stage was set for a perfect double squeeze. South simply led out his last trump, the king of spades, and the king of clubs.

West, having to retain the queen of clubs, had to bear down to two diamonds, and East, forced to keep the ten of spades, also unguarded his diamond honor. The last three tricks were won with the ace, king, and ten of diamonds.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

Two Surprise Weddings Are Made Known

is to promote an interest in gardening among families whether or not they are affiliated with any garden group. The center is open every Monday in the Winnetka community house.

Plans for the annual Green Lake flower show are of major interest right now at that Wisconsin colony. The show is to be at Lawsonia on Thursday and most of the summer residents as well as many of the villagers will be taking part. At the completion of the showing at 5 o'clock the flowers will be sold for the benefit of the Hattie Sherwood Park fund.

Mrs. Cyrus L. Garnett, who summers at Green Lake, is a member of the flower show committee and so are Mrs. Paul G. Skinner, Mrs. Henry Pope, Mrs. Edwin Hadley, Mrs. F. W. Pendexter, and Mrs. Walter Garritt Smith, whose daughter, Miss Roslyn Paine, is to become the bride of Paul Fentress late in the afternoon of Sept. 12 at the Fourth Presbyterian church. Mr. Fentress is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress.

Robert Shermans Lose Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Sherman of Winnetka are receiving the sympathy of their friends over the loss of their baby daughter. The child was born last Friday at the Evanston hospital and died a few hours later. Mrs. Sherman, the former Jean Dawes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, is expected to be able to leave the hospital in a few days. The Shermans have two other daughters.

A letter from the Chicago club at Charlevoix brings interesting news of Chicagoans spending a week or a month in the popular colony. Although Edward Shumway rented his cottage to Mrs. C. Morse Ely for the season he has had several days at the resort as the guest of his sister and brother-in-law, the John Stuarts. Mr. Shumway returned to Lake Forest last Wednesday.

The same day that Mr. Shumway left John P. Wilson and Cyrus H. Adams arrived at Charlevoix completing a cruise on Mr. Wilson's yacht, the Malabar. Mrs. Wilson went up by train last week-end and so did Mrs. Adams with her daughter, Mary. Mrs. James H. Douglas, who has taken the Babst cottage, has as her house guests her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Donald B. Douglas and her grandchildren, Donald Jr. and Walter. John P. Kellogg has joined his family at Charlevoix after a trip east. Mrs. Ezra J. Warner has had Mr. and Mrs. Ralph N. Isham for her house guests.

Prof. and Mrs. William Nitze will be passing through town a week from Thursday, on their way back from Copenhagen, where Mr. Nitze went in April as a delegate to an international cultural congress. They are to dock in Baltimore on the 18, where they will be met by their daughter, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, just returned from Estes Park, Colo., Mrs. Paepcke left her two children, Nina and Paula, in Estes and she and the Nitzes will join them in a few days to stay until some time in September.

Residents Return from Vacations

Quite a few Chicagoans drifted home over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Chester H. Walcott returned Sunday from Camp Wipigaki, Wis., where a number of Winnetkans are spending the summer. Their daughter Julie, who is to be presented to society on Sept. 4, remained as the guest of Mrs. Roswell Mason, and will not be back for at least another week.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cathcart of Lake Forest, also returned Sunday from a 3,000 mile motor trip to Cape Cod, Montreal, and then to the Seigniory club in the province of Quebec. With them were their two children, Patricia and Silas.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in Grace Episcopal church, Oak Park, one of Oak Park's prettiest young women, Miss Mary Egbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Egbert, will become the bride of Clayton Sayre Hexton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian Hexton of Chicago.

A reception will follow in the Egbert home at 531 Woodbine avenue, Oak Park. The bride will be attended by Mrs. Frazier Samuels Wilson and Mrs. Samuel Oliver Givens Jr., the former Louise Yager. Sayre Hexton will serve his brother as best man and ushering will be Paul Egbert, the bride's brother, and William Baker. After Sept. 1, Mr. Hexton and his bride will be at home at 1364 Farwell avenue, Chicago.

Miss Marion Jeffrey to Be Wed Tuesday.

With the announcement of another August wedding date, it looks as if summer is, matrimonially speaking, just a continuation of the merry month of June. Miss Marion Elizabeth Jeffrey, the daughter of Mrs. Lucy B. Jeffrey of Evanston, has chosen next Tuesday for her wedding to William MacDonald Fanning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Fanning of Paterson, N. J.

The ceremony, which is to take place at St. Luke's church in Evanston at 4:30, is to be followed by a reception at the Orrington hotel. The bride-to-be's sister, Mrs. Harry E. Kincaid of Evanston, is to be the matron of honor, and the attendants will be Miss Phyllis Neidlinger and Miss Clara Thorndike. Harry E. Kincaid will be best man and O. Arnold Kincaid, William Fox, and John Shank of Salem, Ind., will usher.

From now until the day of the wedding there will be a number of parties. Last Saturday, Miss Phyllis Neidlinger and Mrs. Robert M. Buchanan gave a kitchen shower for the bride-to-be, and Sunday night Miss Clara Thorndike entertained at a tea.

The couple will honeymoon in the Adirondacks and then will have an apartment awaiting them in East Orange, N. J.

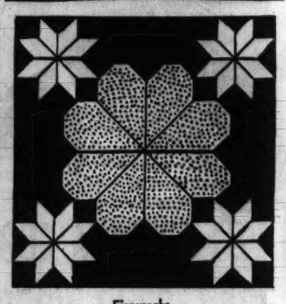
Colorful Display of Fireworks Is Theme of Quilt



Fireworks.

BY NANCY CABOT.

A sufficiently vivid imagination allows any one to visualize skyrockets, Roman candles, bombs, or other fireworks after a glance at this design. Most backgrounds for this pattern are blue. Gold and rose are the two contrasting colors which quiltmakers use to carry out the rule of two warm colors and one cool shade, or vice versa. The attractive block arrangement, offered with the pattern, illustrates how effective a quilt may be created in "Fireworks" design.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coins. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

8,000 Participate in C. Y. O. Vacation Schools' Exercises

Eight thousand children, ranging in age from 6 to 16, took part in the commencement exercises of the Catholic Youth Organization Holy Spirit Vacation schools held last night in the International amphitheater, 43d and Halsted streets. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, director general of the C. Y. O., delivered the principal address.

Five vacation school parish centers and six public parks from the stockyards district were represented in the program of songs, drills and athletic events staged by the youthful participants before more than 6,000 spectators. All Saints, St. Rose of Lima, St. David's, St. Gabriel's, and St. Cecilia's parishes coöperated with Sherman park, Fuller park, Cornell square, Davis square, Mark White square, and Armour square in presenting the program.

Several thousand articles made by the children during the summer were placed on display in the south wing of the amphitheater.

The summer schools were organized in 1930 when 900 children were cared for in two centers. This year fourteen centers had an enrollment of 13,286. Thirty-three nationalities were represented in the stockyards district.

Honey Has Dual Duty in Menus of Summertime

BY MARY MEADE.

If you're an efficiency expert in your eating as well as in the management of a well ordered household, chances are you're a honey eater. It really is a comforting thought, in weather when every small effort must justify itself, to know that you're getting practically double returns in energy from honey, in comparison with those foods with which it frequently alternates on your table.

On the other hand, if you're not an efficiency expert but just a mighty fine cook, you probably are still in the honey using class. The flavor and satisfying sweetness of honey may appeal to you even more than the knowledge of its amazing energy value.

But why quibble, when there are delights in the offing like honey iced chocolate, and a brand new honey sirup made with brown sugar just waiting to be slithered over your crisp summer waffles, and a honey cream sauce to grace your frozen desserts—or honey glazed cereal flakes for enthusiastic munching? To the colors!

Honey Iced Chocolate.

2 tablespoons cocoa
Few grains salt
3 tablespoons honey
2 cups milk
Cracked ice

Blend the cocoa with the salt and honey, and add to the hot milk. Let the mixture simmer slowly for 5 minutes, then remove from the heat, cool partly, and serve poured over cracked ice. Since the strength is such as to allow for the ice dilution, we prefer to add another cup of hot milk when this hits our table as a hot, not an iced, beverage.

Honey Brown Sugar Sirup.

1 cup brown sugar [packed]
½ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup honey

Mix the sugar, water, and salt and let simmer for 5 minutes. Stir in the honey, heat slowly for another 5 minutes, and skim. Strain the resulting sirup, which will become rather thicker as it cools.

Honey Cream Sauce.

1-3 cup heavy cream
¼ cup honey
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Whip the cream until thick, and whip in the honey and lemon juice. Serve on hot or cold desserts—plain ice cream, hot gingerbread, or simple puddings.

Glazed Corn Flakes.

2 cups corn flake cereal
¼ cup honey

Butter a large baking sheet and cover with the corn flake cereal. Warm the honey gently and pour over the cereal. With a fork, blend the two lightly, and then bake in a hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 5 to 10 minutes. To obtain a perfect glaze, remove the pan from the oven several times for stirring. Remove the glazed flakes to a buttered cake cooler, and separate, or press gently together in clusters.

Fall Chapeaux to Demand Hair Style Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I saw a fall hat showing the other day at the salon of one of the outstanding hat designers in America. And all I have to say is that the fall and winter hats, more than ever, are going to depend for their success on the coiffure. There's no news in the hat and coiffure dependence except that this season it is presented in even more exaggerated form.

Fancy one of those accented halo hat movements with a coiffure that isn't hair beauty revealing! It can't be fancied. Or, that Florentine hat gesture which requires nothing if it does not require a skilled hair style to carry it off. Not even the veils that are reappearing on many of the smaller hats will save the day.

If any one has a widow's peak hidden under a past season hair dressing she'd better bring it out in the open pronto. Certain of the new hats are designed from said "widow's peak." And intriguing they are, indeed. A sleekly coiffed brunette could surely get in a lot of damaging work with one of those Florentine creations, aided and abetted by one of those romantic peaks in the center of the forehead. They tell me that if you don't own one of the widow's peaks you can have the hair tweezed and trimmed for the effect.

I think it is a grand idea every once in a while to try for a coiffure unlike anything you've worn to date, just to lend that new note of interest that never does a woman any harm, just to keep from looking the same old Maizie, the same old girl who never changes. There's nothing like a new coiffure to revolutionize one's appearance. And goodness knows there are enough coiffure models to go around and give every one of us a new head outlook. Yes? If you haven't gone in for thinking out the bushy undergrowth of hair up to this time you must do it now for the new fall chapeau.

Vivid Emotional Upsets Affect Child's Health

Unhappiness Can Cause Definite Physical Ills.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Yesterday we were talking about the importance of positive, vigorous health in clearing up a child's mental or emotional disturbances. Start with the body, we recommended, and build that up to a state of positive health, and many of the misbehaviors that worry us so—such as eating troubles, whining, irretability, nervous habits and fears—will vanish like mist in sunshine.

Sometimes, however, the reverse is true. Don't think that I'm turning my own statement upside down when I seem to reverse myself in saying this: That often what is wrong with the body is due to something awry in the thoughts or feelings of a child.

You know what worry can do to your own digestion, for instance, and what unhappiness can do to your appetite but I really don't need to point out what the mind can do to the body. We all know it, but too often discount it or forget it entirely with our children.

We must keep in mind that to secure glorious, positive health for our child we must not only look to his body but to his state of mind and feelings. The child who is not loved enough, the one who is put aside for a new baby, the boy or girl who is fretted about school marks, the one who is sent to boarding school when he should be home, the one who is brought up under a rule of fear—the one who is in the wrong school, the one who pines for the country and must live in the city, the one who is nagged and scolded or completely mismanaged—none of these is apt to blossom into the full flower of health, and may even develop specific physical troubles of one sort or another.

Make your child's home life, and his relation to you, and if possible his companionships, fill his needs as far as lies within your power. The happy, beloved, contented child's body is more apt to be in a state of positive health than that of the child who is misunderstood, or mismanaged, or love starved.

Sally Predicts Good Time at Movie Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Remember the cute way Shirley Temple sang "O, the World Owes Me a Living" in "Now and Forever"? Well, in her latest picture, "Curly Top," coming to the Chicago theater next Friday, she sings two songs—"Animal Crackers in My Soup" and "When I Grow Up." She also does a tap dance. Every one says the film is loads of fun, so I'm sure my party guests will have an enjoyable trip to the Chicago on Thursday, Aug. 22.

If you want to be one of my invited guests it's up to you to tell me so. You see, I ask you all to write letters telling me why you want to come, in order that I may select the fifty boys and fifty girls who'll most enjoy the party.

You don't have to buy or sell anything to be eligible for an invitation; you only have to prove to me that you really want to come to see "Curly Top." You don't have to be the best speller in the world, or the best writer either—but don't, whatever you do, forget to tell me your full name, address, and your age. Next Thursday is the day on which I will select, from the mail received, the lucky youngsters who'll win invitations. So write your letters, children, and get them in the mailbox in time to have them delivered to me. Winners will be announced in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

The address is Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Business Women.

The Business and Professional Woman's club will meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning at 1103 North Dearborn street. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock, followed by cards.

MILK COMPANIES SUE TO BLOCK BOTTLE JUNKING

$100,000 Loss Charged in Injunction Plea.

Seventeen large milk companies and the Milk Dealers' Bottle Exchange, of which they are members, filed a bill yesterday in the Superior court, seeking to enjoin the North Halsted Bottle Shop, 2649 North Halsted street, and the two partners who operate the junk shop, from destroying and selling the bottles of the milk companies.

The suit lists a series of charges against the two partners, Hyman Bushnick and Phillip Udell, who are accused of picking up milk bottles belonging to the seventeen companies, and either breaking them up, selling them, or shipping them out of the city as junk. Replacing these bottles is costing the companies $100,000 a year, the bill recites.

Leading Companies Represented.

The seventeen dairies comprise the Milk Council, Inc., which includes Borden-Weiland, Inc., the Bowman Dairy, Sidney Wanzer and Sons, the Capitol Dairy, the Western Dairy and twelve other companies. They are represented by the law firm of Gann, Secord, and Stead, who filed the injunction petition.

The Milk Dealers' Bottle Exchange is a coöperative enterprise operated by the seventeen companies to facilitate the collection and interchange of empty bottles.

Despite letters of warning sent them by the exchange, asserts the bill, Bushnick and Udell have continued to pick up these bottles and sell them for junk, or dispose of them to dairies not members of the exchange.

The injunction also seeks to restrain the two partners from "molesting or injuring the plaintifs' agents or employés, or overturning their wagons and trucks."

PRICE PARLEY FAILS

Representatives of organized distributors and dairy farmers were unable to reach a decision in their price conference held at the Midland club yesterday afternoon. Officials of the Associated Milk Dealers, Inc., consisting of about 100 retail dealers and of the Pure Milk association, representing approximately 18,000 dairy farmer members, attended the meeting.

Organized dealers are seeking a reduction in the price paid to farmers for milk sold under a producer-dealer contract signed in January with members of the Pure Milk association. Dealers contend they need a farm price cut to meet competition of independent distributors who buy nonmember milk at a flat price of about $1.75 a hundred pounds [3.76 cents a quart] and retail it at lower prices than are charged by distributors who pay a base price of $2.20 a hundred pounds [4.78 cents a quart] to association members.

Dealers Unable to Agree.

Dealers have been divided over how much the reduction should be and how it would affect prices to consumers. One group wants a cut of 20 cents a hundred [.43 cents a quart] in the farm price and no change in the retail prices. Another group wants a reduction of 60 cents a hundred pounds [1.29 cents a quart] in the price to farmers, and propose to reduce the retail price from 11 cents to 10 cents a quart on milk delivered to homes and 9 cents a quart for cash and carry milk sold in stores. Thousands of retail stores sell whole milk. Many are charging 11 cents a quart while some are selling it several cents a quart under this price, according to dealers' representatives.

DATO ASKS U. S. TO ACT IN PAVING PROJECT STRIKE

Edward Dato, head of the Krenn and Dato Contracting company, announced yesterday that he had appealed to Harry Scheck, mediator for the United States department of labor, to settle a walkout which is holding up a Niles Center paving project. The concern was formed to carry on contracting activities after Krenn and Dato, Inc., the realty concern, became inactive following the death of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, its chief backer.

Mr. Dato said he could not find out the reason for the walkout. His company had the contract to pave Cicero avenue from Lincoln avenue to Oakton street, and had the job nearly half completed.

Last Thursday, Mr. Dato said, Carl Miller, business agent for the Cement Workers union, local 76, appeared and ordered the men off the job, although he hired all union men, and paid union wages.

Commanders of 4 Coast Stations Take Examinations

The commanders of four United States coast guard stations in the Chicago division yesterday took an examination in the postoffice building here for promotion to chief boatswains. The four men hold the rank of boatswain, but they are known by the courtesy title of captain because they are in command of stations. A chief boatswain is the highest ranking warant officer in the service. Those who took the tests are John O. Anderson of the Old Chicago station, Fred L. Stebbins of Jackson park station, Solomon Nedeau of Milwaukee, and John A. Olander of Racine, Wis. Ole Friis, radio electrician of the Chicago division, also took an examination yesterday for chief radio electrician.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Harbin Lespedeza

Aug. 12, 1935.

NORTHERN Illinois farmers who are looking around for a new pasture crop are keeping an eagle eye on the Harbin lespedeza now making a luxuriant growth in the field and test plots at The Tribune Experimental farm near Wheaton. Three-fourths of an acre of this new annual lespedeza pasture and hay crop is fairly "jumping" up in the oats stubble since the grain was harvested recently. Rows in the test plot are forming soft green strips of carpet. In the field the seeds, all sown last spring, were broadcast, while in the plots they were drilled in rows.

Blossoms first began opening in the field nearly two weeks ago. Harbin is a much earlier blooming plant than the Corean [Korean] variety which is being grown on a larger scale at the farm. The Harbin is ready to cut for hay, but the crop growing in the oats stubble will be grazed down by sheep to be turned in the field soon.

Some of the Harbin plants reached a height of 14 inches before the tops were clipped off by the combine oat harvester last week. Crop experts are watching the test because they fear that since the plants bloom so early there is danger of the seed sprouting this fall instead of remaining dormant over winter in the soil to come up next spring. If the plants came up this fall they would be winter killed and the seed would be lost. Men at the farm hope that there will be enough late seed produced to reseed the field next spring.

In the test plot where the Harbin lespedeza is grown in rows the plants are in full bloom. They are sending out inconspicuous blossoms of pink and white with some petals of a purple tinge. Workmen at the plots will mow half the Harbin crop this week. It is hoped that enough seed will be produced on the second crop to reseed the ground. The other half will be allowed to grow and produce an early crop of seed for comparison.

Harbin is an "extra early strain" of Corean lespedeza, according to federal government authorities. Plant explorers of the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., brought the seed from which Harbin lespedeza has been grown. They point out that the two principal merits of the crop are its early seeding habits and its ability to grow most vigorously in the hot dry days of midsummer when other pasture plants are stunted by heat and drouth so that pastures "dry up."

Harbin seed has been scarce and expensive. Last year seed sold in Illinois at $15 a pound. It was first tested by The Tribune Experimental farm last season at the Yorkville place. There the plants were grown on a small scale in rows and made an excellent showing despite the drouth. If the crop reseeds itself satisfactorily, it may become an important pasture crop on the Wheaton farm as well as on other farms in this part of the state.

Chicago Woman Wounded Mysteriously in Wisconsin

Miss Helen Klabunde, 50 years old, 2920 North Talman avenue, was mysteriously wounded in the head yesterday while in a boat on Lake George, seventeen miles southwest of Kenosha, Wis. She was brought to the Grant hospital in Chicago. Wisconsin officials believe Miss Klabunde, who had just started on a vacation of two weeks, was wounded by a stray bullet, but have been unable to find the person responsible.

Paris Reports

That toques and turbans are topping the smartest costumes in Paris right now; that they will be increasingly important as the season goes on and fur collars come into the picture; and that their latest caprice is to jut out at unexpected points and angles. The "Devil Cap," shown here, is an especially slick, trim version of this new type of toque. It is fashioned of velvet, either stitched or plain, and comes in the new colors inspired by the Italian Art Exhibit that are the rage in Paris now—as well as black, brown, and navy. Also to be had in felt or velours. $10

FIGHT BLAZING SHOSHONE FOREST NEAR U. S. PARK

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Fire fighters, their lines flung around forests of the northwest, were reported victorious at least temporarily tonight over all but one conflagration.

Officials said the one exception was inside the Shoshone National forest, near Yellowstone National park, where 200 civilian conservation corps workers battled flames that had covered about 15,000 acres of Timber creek lands.

In other parts of the northwest, from the Pacific ocean to the Rockies and beyond, hundreds of fighters patroled newly won lines, temporary victors at least.

PROGRESSIVE MINERS SUED FOR $200,000 BY MAN INJURED IN 1933

Danville, Ill., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Civil suit for $200,000 damages against the First District Progressive Miners of America was filed in federal court late today by Jacob Baker, a Pittsburg county, Okla., carpenter.

The suit, based on a specific assault in which Baker was injured in 1933 near Harrisburg, Ill., also listed 226 acts of alleged violence during 1932-'35 in the rivalry between factions of Illinois miners. A similar suit against P. M. A. by a united mine worker was instituted in February, but has not been tried yet.

The suit charged the assault was a result of conspiracy and part of a general campaign against non-progressive miners, "encouraged" by all the defendants.

SEIZE GROOM AS AID IN ALIEN SMUGGLING RING

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—A federal agent's handcuffs clinked wedding music for Lino Pizzara when he was married on Saturday.

Today Pizzara, after a week-end in jail, stood beside his tearful bride in federal court and vowed he had never participated in the so-called "alien racket."

He was remanded to jail for further hearing on Friday. Meanwhile the federal grand jury is expected to call him as a witness in its investigation of wholesale frauds in providing aliens with false citizenship papers.

Labor department agents picked him up at the Queens county clerk's office in Jamaica when he appeared for a license.

CITY HAS MORE SALOONS THAN IN 30 YEARS—8,402

Chicago now has more saloons than in any year since 1905. City Collector Louis Rixmann reported yesterday that 8,402 tavern licenses have been issued for the second six months of 1935. In 1905 the city had 8,097 saloons. Records in Rixmann's department go back to 1897. From the 8,366 licenses issued for the January-June period and the 8,402 for the current period the city has collected revenues totaling $5,030,400. Rixmann predicted the issuance of 8,600 licenses by the end of the year.

PRACTICE STARTS FOR BEARS, ALL-AMERICANS

GEN. HALAS HAS PROS ON CADET TIME SCHEDULE

Opening Workout Lasts 3 Hours.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 12.—Strict military discipline was imposed on the Chicago Bears today at St. John's Military academy as they began practice for the All-Star game Aug. 29. Snugly quartered in a perfect training camp, the men who will seek to regain prestige lost through the scoreless tie in last year's All-Star game were called together by Coach George Halas and acquainted with a schedule which adheres to the most rigid program of cadet activity.

Lights in Smythe hall, the cadet residence where the Bears are housed two to a room, will be turned out at 11 o'clock each night. There will be a 7:30 call every morning and for the rest of the day, during the Bear's two weeks' stay here, their program will be:

8 a. m.—Breakfast.
9 to 12—Practice.
12:30—Lunch.
1:30 to 2:30—Lectures or individual instruction.
3 to 5—Practice.
5:30—Dinner.
7—Lecture.

Three Hour Drill to Start.

To impress upon the Bears that there had been no mistake in drawing up the schedule, Halas hustled them through three hours of practice this morning and started another two hour session promptly at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The morning drill on the St. John's athletic field started with 20 minutes of calisthenics directed by Bernie Masterson, quarter back and a member of last year's All-Star team, who practiced his limbering up routine all summer in a northern Minnesota boys' camp. From the gymnastics the program switched rapidly to a kicking drill, signal practice, passing, dummy scrimmage, falling on the ball, and wind sprints, which wound up with a half mile run back to the newly equipped locker room in Smythe hall.

Nobody Bothers 'Em.

Everything about the St. John's camp is conducive to hard work and intensive training. Located on the shores of Lake Nagiwicki, the academy is virtually deserted save for the Bears. Several hundred boys and girls at summer camps directly behind the academy have paid no attention to the visitors. The world's strongest professional football team might create no end of excitement in your community, but in Delafield it has yet to be noticed by any one except the waiters in the academy refectory.

Delafield is an easy place in which to enforce an 11 o'clock curfew. There is no picture show, no dance hall, and in fact nothing that can arouse the slightest interest among the Bears except the daily arrival of THE TRIBUNE, which is scanned thoroughly every morning for reports from the All-Star camp at Northwestern.

A Squawk—Too Much Food!

The facilities afforded by St. John's have been so perfect that Halas, wishing to practice a little free style complaining in preparation for his meeting Wednesday with Coach Frank Thomas about the rules of the Aug. 29 game, could find nothing more worthy of his talents than the food. After he saw waiter upon waiter carry blueberries, cooked cereal with cream, buttered toast, French toast, and crisp bacon to the breakfast tables this morning he rushed to the administration building to lodge a squawk. If the menu wasn't restricted and the portions reduced, he said, it would take him until spring to get the team in shape.

There was little letup in variety and quantity at lunch, but chefs promised to prepare only one steak per man for dinner tonight. Halas suggested serving all food in individual portions, but it is a time honored tradition at St. John's to fill up the platters and set them within easy reach of all. The tradition will be preserved, but smaller platters are being purchased.

McMillen Is Delayed.

The squad will be complete tomorrow or Wednesday when Jim McMillen reports. The former Illinois star, who quit football several years ago to pursue a wrestling career, was detained at his farm at Antioch, Ill., by the arrival of two carloads of cattle from Link Lyman, star Bear tackle last year, who will coach at Nebraska this fall.

Zivic Whips Casimini in 10 Round New York Bout

New York, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Eddie Zivic, 131¾, of Pittsburgh, tonight outpointed Al Casimini, 136, of New York in a ten round bout at Dexter park. In the semi-final Ralph Hurtado, 131, of Panama, won a six round decision over Pete de Ruzzo, 135¾, White Plains, after he had been floored in the first.

SOX ALL SET TO BEGIN OVER; FACE RED SOX TODAY

Phelps Pitches in 100th Game of Year.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

A nice, plump White Sox victory over the Red Sox this afternoon and, presto, Jimmy Dykes' busted bubble will be all vulcanized and soaring toward the clouds again.

You can talk about injuries and one thing and another, but a slump is a slump, and when a club is as good as the Sox showed themselves to be until recently the cussed fold-up pest is likely to fly away just as suddenly as it swooped down.

The first thing that Manager Dykes did yesterday toward vulcanizing said busted bubble was to alter the saying that the first hundred games are the hardest. He has decided that just the first 99 games are the hardest. Today the Sox will play their 100th game and it looks like a breeze, since Babe Phelps pitched such a fine game his last time out against Cleveland, and the Sox won't have to be worrying about Lefty Grove or Wes Ferrell, who worked in a double-header Sunday against Washington.

Can Tie 1934 Record.

In addition to being the 100th game, this afternoon's contest offers several other numerical elements. For instance:

The Sox will be trying for their 53d victory of the season—the same one they tried for for four days in Detroit. If they win No. 53 this afternoon they will have tied their victory record for all last year. And they will have 54 games in which to win a game and beat their last year's tabulation.

As they take the arena this afternoon the White Sox will be defending third place in the American league standing, with their Boston adversaries only one percentage point behind. If the slump really is over the margin theoretically is greater than that, for the Boston's have won two more games than the White Sox and have lost two more. Those Red Sox losses are gone forever; the White Sox still are shooting at games still to be played.

The teams not only are in a virtual tie in the league standings, but actually are tied in the season series, each team having won seven games.

Not So Bad, Eh?

Despite their unhappy road trip and their prior reverses against St. Louis, the Sox face the eastern invaders with a record of a draw or better against every team in the league except the Indians in the season series. They're 8 and 8 with the Tigers, 5 and 5 with the Yankees, 7 and 7 with the Red Sox, 7 and 10 with the Indians, 5 and 4 with the Athletics, 9 and 5 with the Senators, and 11 and 8 with the Browns, despite the shameless manner in which the Browns acted up here recently.

While the Red Sox are furnishing the immediate threat to the Sox tenancy in third, the fifth place Indians are in striking distance. They are one game behind the Sox in the victory column and four ahead of them in the loss column. The Indians will be entertaining the Yankees while the White Sox are hosts to the Red Sox.

FOOTBALL SEASON'S HERE—TOUCHDOWNS IN THE MAKING

Harridge Fines McCarthy, Cronin $100 for Stalling

William Harridge, president of the American league, yesterday fined Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, and Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, $100 each for allowing their teams to stall in the Yankee-Red Sox game at Boston on Aug. 5.

President Harridge termed the actions of the managers and players on both teams as a disgraceful exhibition. He allowed McCarthy and Cronin five days in which to pay the fines.

The game on Aug. 5 was delayed for a short time in the fourth inning because of a shower. When play was resumed in the fifth inning, with the score 8 to 2 in favor of the Yankees, and further rain threatening, the New York club made every effort to hurry completion of the legal five innings, while Boston did everything in its power to delay play and avoid defeat, according to Harridge.

"Players Ben Chapman and Myril Hoag of the Yankees were guilty of indifferent base running," President Harridge said, "and Bill Werber of the Red Sox guilty of misconduct in refusing to tag Chapman out at first base and his apparent deliberate bad throw to first base.

"Manager Cronin of Boston changed pitchers twice at a critical time when the rain seemed imminent. While there may be no grounds for criticism of this action, as it is a manager's privilege to change pitchers at his own discretion, it was apparent to every one in the park that the changes were made with the intention of consuming time.

"The action of both teams is highly reprehensible and a gross imposition on the fans who had paid their money with the expectation of witnessing a major league ball game.

President Harridge explained that Manager McCarthy was fined because of the indifferent base running of his players, Chapman and Hoag, who did their best to get put out.

FAN DANCES

That fellow you saw doing a jig at the corner of State and Madison yesterday had a good reason for celebrating. His rich uncle had just left him four tickets for the football battle between the college All-Americans and Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field, Aug. 29.

Perhaps YOUR rich uncle is in good health, but don't let that worry you. There are plenty of seats available at $1.65 and $1.10 for this greatest gridiron game of them all.

Just step into the Tribune Public Service office at One South Dearborn street, or visit the lobby of Tribune Tower. Tickets are on sale up until 10 o'clock at night. You'll get a better seat today than you will tomorrow.

COLLEGE STARS SHOW BRILLIANT PASSING GAME

Mucha, Washington Guard, Injured.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Yesterday was organization day in the camp of the All-American football players at Northwestern university. In the morning the boys received their practice uniforms and at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon they reported for their initial workout, a mild drill which began the "breaking in" process.

The practice was costly, however. Chuck Mucha, University of Washington guard, suffered several cuts around his right eye when he ran into Bill Bevan of Minnesota. Four stitches were required. Mucha is expected to resume workouts next week.

When Joe Salatino, Santa Clara quarter back, arrives today, the squad of 43 will be completed. Fred [Buzz] Borries, Navy half back now assigned to the U. S. S. Arizona, and Inky Wotkyns, Southern California full back, reported yesterday.

Minnesota Has Big Five.

The Minnesota contingent, a mighty good start on a football team, also was at Dyche stadium for equipment with the other players. The Minnesota boys are Pug Lund, half back, winner of THE TRIBUNE'S most valuable player trophy for the Western conference; Frank [Butch] Larson, end; Bill Bevan, guard; Phil Bengtson, tackle, and Stan Kostka, hard hitting full back.

Larson's comment yesterday afternoon as he started for the practice field with his shoes, shoulder pads, and other personal equipment would stand for the squad: "It seems like old times."

Eager Players Report Early.

To all of these boys yesterday undoubtedly did seem as if it was the first day of practice back on the college gridiron. It is certain, moreover, that this squad brought along the college spirit. Practice was announced for 3 o'clock, but a half hour before that time the players were in uniform and ready to work.

The big four coaches—Frank Thomas, Charles Bachman, Doc Spears, and Slip Madigan—also were ready to greet their players. Bachman and Madigan reported yesterday morning. Madigan made the trip from the Pacific coast by airplane while Bachman came over from Lansing, Mich. Coach Spears sneaked in some extra practice on his colleagues when he turned in a noontime round of golf.

"I'm hitting 'em too well now to let up on my golf, but it won't interfere with football practice," Spears told those who asserted he was taking on too much exercise under an August sun.

They're Dangerous in Air.

After kicking drill yesterday, in which all participated either in kicking, running down punts, or receiving, the squad was divided into four sections for a short forward passing workout. In this department, the 1935 All-American squad promises to be far superior to the team which held the Bears to a scoreless tie last August. While last year's team wasn't exactly indifferently prepared to pass, looking over their record, this year's team has several fine passers and a galaxy of pass receivers.

Which brings up again the question of whether the game on Aug. 29 will be played under the college forward pass rule, which requires the passer to be at least five yards back of the line of scrimmage, or if the pro rule will be used. Under the pro rule the passer may throw from any point behind the line of scrimmage. The coaches discussed this rule yesterday and are agreed that they will ask that the college rule be used. The matter will be taken up with Coach George Halas of the Bears, who quite naturally urging use of the pro rule, or use of both rules during the game.

Hold Night Practice.

Practice today will be held at 9 o'clock this morning and at 8 o'clock this evening. The coaches not only wish to give the boys an afternoon of rest [they may see the White Sox play Boston] but they wish to get their protégés accustomed to night football. Both practices will be open to the public.

First item this morning will be physical examinations which will be given by Dr. William Rothman, of THE TRIBUNE staf, at Dyche stadium training quarters.

Practice tomorrow morning will be limited, since the session will be turned over to meet the demands of newspapers and picture services for action shots of the All-Americans.

Ticket Sale Booms.

Start of practice has accelerated demand for tickets. There are excellent $1.65 seats available, which undoubtedly will be sold long before the game. Other tickets are priced at $1.10. Tickets may be purchased from THE TRIBUNE'S Public Service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. Mail orders are accepted by the ticket manager in room 530, Tribune Tower.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Alfred Robertson, one of the star jockies with the C. V. Whitney stable, came to Lincoln Fields from Saratoga yesterday and showed our western riding stars a little more than a trick or two.

He climbed into the saddle on the Whitney owned Pundit, a son of Whichone-Friarbelle, in the Woodlawn purse, came from behind in the stretch and made the Whitney colorbearer, which had been rather weak hearted under other riders, go on and win by a length and a half.

He also pulled himself into the saddle of Dixiana stable's Thatagal. He made that royally bred filly run up to the expectations the stable has had for her ever since she came to the races. She scored the first victory of her career easily after Robertson had put on a marvelous exhibition of rating her.

Won't Let Quitter Quit.

Earlier in the afternoon Robertson had made the quitter Dark Seeker perform almost a miracle. He took this front running quitter off the pace at the head of the stretch, then gouged her enough with heel and lether to make her come from behind and score by a nose over the fast running No Saint and Polyphote. There isn't any question but that No Saint was the best horse in that race, but Robertson simply was the best jocky.

Pundit's victory came in the best race of the day. In the early stages the situation didn't look any too good for him while L. B. Wilson, Jens Son, and Pompous Genie were making the pace, with Pundit at the head of the second flight.

The Whitney 3 year old began to make up ground on the turn into the stretch and had little trouble going past L. B. Wilson and Jens Son after they had raced each other into submission in the battle to make the pace. Pundit drew away from his rivals in the late stages. He was the favorite, paying off at $4.80.

Thatagal Comes Through.

The fashionable filly Thatagal, a daughter of Sir Gallahad III.-Saramar, which all season has been expected to perform great deeds for the Dixiana stable, finally hit her stride in the Colleen purse, the second best race on the program.

Throughout the spring and early summer she showed such dazzling speed that clockers were amazed at it. Yet when put to her greatest tests she did not deliver. She did run a powerful race in the Arlington lassie stakes and finished fourth.

She met the most stylish juvenille fillies at Lincoln Fields in the Colleen and she made her own breaks in this race despite the fact that she was forced to start from the extreme outside post position.

Breaks on Top.

She flew into command under Robertson's hard riding soon after the start and was well in front until the stretch run started. Then for an instant it looked as if she had faltered. Mary Carmen had moved up on even terms with the flying Dixiana colorbearer.

Thatagal had considerable left, however, and once Mary Carmen started looking her in the eye she moved forward again and was going away two lengths in front of Mary Carmen when it ended. Emer J. finished third.

The Dixiana forces bet long and often and also heavy on Thatagal and the result was that she was at odds on. She paid $3.60 for a $2 ticket.

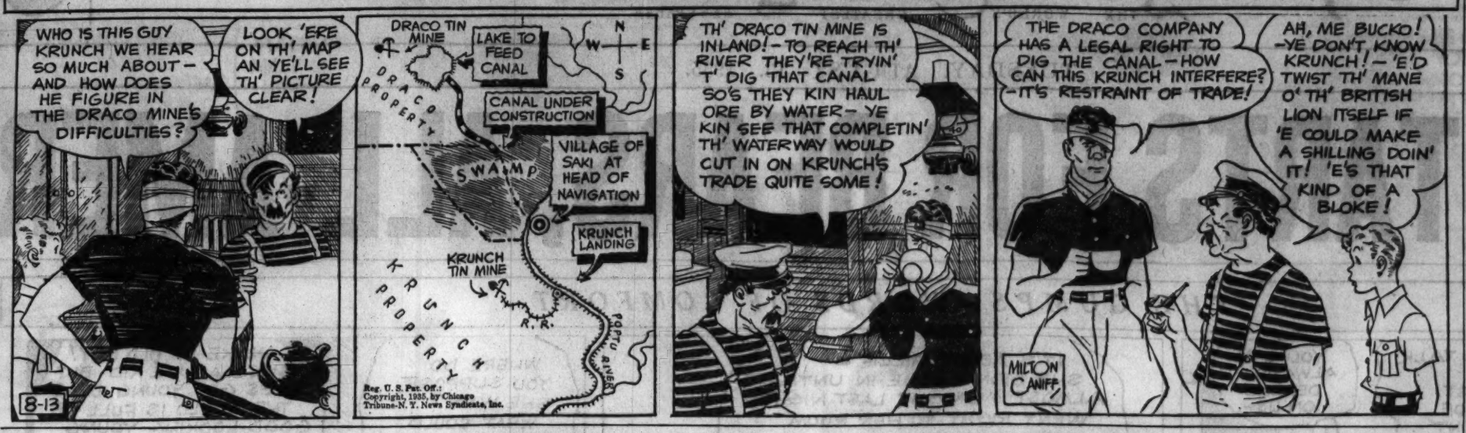
SAVOLDI SEEKS REINSTATEMENT BY COMMISSION

Joe Savoldi, Italian wrestler will appear before the Illinois State Athletic commission today to plead for reinstatement. Savoldi was suspended recently for failure to appear against Danno O'Mahoney, the heavyweight champion here last month.

Savoldi is seeking to clear his record and is bringing with him certificates to show that he would have been unable to give a good account of himself if he had gone through with the match. Savoldi claims he was slightly injured in an automobile accident a day before his scheduled match with the Irishman here. Although the injury was slight it was sufficient to keep him from fulfilling the engagement.

Savoldi is willing to meet Ed [Strangler] Lewis the former heavyweight champion who announced last week that he is about to start his sixth comeback in an effort to regain the world heavyweight crown. Savoldi has tendered a blank contract to Promotors Jim Mullen and Nate Lewis to this effect.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES: Nice Guy, This Krunch



New Jocky Is Norris' Hope to Get Winners

Jim Norris Jr. is irritated at the way the horses in his racing stable have been performing. He's going to see that it doesn't happen again.

Before leaving for New York yesterday he instructed his trainer, E. Hayward, to buy a new jocky. Thus during the morning Trainer Hayward bought the contract on Jocky W. Ray, one of the most promising youngsters at Lincoln Fields.

In New York Mr. Norris will endeavor to purchase new racing stock and possibly will do some bidding at the Saratoga auctions. In Chicago Trainer Hayward will also buy a few horses that can win races.

The Norris horses raced in New York throughout the early part of the season and began a campaign in Chicago when the Lincoln Fields season opened, but they have gained little success.

Another jocky found a new boss at Lincoln Fields yesterday when W. D. Mikel of Bloomington, Ill., purchased the contract on James Linton from J. McGraw.

A. Robertson and Joe Wagner, jockies under contract to the Whitney stable, arrived at Lincoln Fields yesterday and reported to young Jack Healey, who is training the Whitney horses quartered here. Robertson came from Saratoga and Wagner from the Suffolk Downs track in Boston.

Another riding star to arrive at Lincoln Fields yesterday was Harold Dudley, who has been riding in the far west. At the meeting which has just ended in Seattle he rode 33 winners in 28 days. Dudley comes from Rexburg, Idaho. He will ride free lance here.

General Manager C. W. Hay and President Albert Sabath of the Hawthorne track left by plane yesterday afternoon for the east, where they will solicit entries for the stake races to be run at Hawthorne next month. They were confident they will be able to land the entries of Discovery, Omaha, St. Bernard, Count Arthur, Skipit, Top Row, Dark Hope, Watch Him. Identify, and others for the Hawthorne Gold Cup, which is a weight for age event.

Ted Clark, C. N. Mooney's 5 year old that was one of the sensations of last winter's racing in California, was assigned top weight of 117 pounds in the field of 60 when Racing Secretary Will Shelley late yesterday handed out the imposts for the $5,000 added Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap at a mile which will be the feature of Saturday's eight race program at Lincoln Fields.

The Brentwood stable's Late Date deemed a certain starter, and C. B. Shaffer's 3 year old St. Bernard not expected to go to the post were next in line with 115 pounds. Weights on the other eligibles ranged all the way down to the 95 pounds given the Milky Way farm's 3 year old filly, Irksome.

Most interest attached to the imposts assigned the two world record holders to be in the starting field—Brownell Combs' Myrtle Wood and J. F. Clark Jr.'s Clang. The 3 year old filly, Myrtle Wood, drew 111 pounds. Clang was assigned 108 pounds.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 2:16. At post 2½ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

WHISKARITA, rushed into command and under vigorous riding the entire final quarter, bore out badly the last eighth and lasted for a lucky win. MATTIE HOUSER, probably best and well up from the start, gained slowly the final three-sixteenths and, but for being forced wide by winner, might have won. CLOSING TIME, also a factor from the start, saved ground throughout and held on fairly well.

At post 6¼ minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place same.

CHANCE KING, never far back and taken to inside entering stretch, had to be eased before coming to outside in final eighth and, closing fast under strong riding, took up in final strides, getting up in time. COUNT RAE, away fast, saved ground early, but had to come around MAYLITE in stretch and, despite falling lame, held on stubbornly. MAYLITE, under restraint for three-eighths, weakened after taking a long lead.

DARK SEEKER worked her way to the front with a big loss of ground, bore out badly on stretch turn, and closing with determination after going to inside in final eighth, was up in final stride. NO SAINT, under strong restraint for half a mile, took command as DARK SEEKER went wide, but his inexperienced rider was of little assistance to him near the end. POLYPHOTE, raced wide the first five-eighths, held on gamely in a good performance.

THATAGAL took command without need of pressure, withstood MARY CARMEN'S threat, but was under light urging the final eighth. MARY CRAMEN had speed from the start, could not get to winner, but held on with good courage. EMER J. was under strong riding throughout.

Healey. Went to post at 4:22½. At post one minute. Start good from Byldyne gate. Won easily; place driving.

PUNDIT, going in his best form and well ridden, was eased off the pace before going a quarter, came around the leaders gradually when responding to light urging soon after reaching stretch, and, when he had something left, MAD TRUMP was away slowly, improved his position gradually on outside the final half mile, and was going boldly in final stages. JENS SON forced the pace under restraint and, though not strongly handled in the drive, held on well.

Winner trained by B. A. Jones. Went to post at 4:51. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won driving; place same.

TOWSON, showing the most speed from the start and rated under snug restraint for almost seven-eighths, stood pressure gamely thereafter and held PACIFIC COAST safe at the end. latter, under strong reserve for three-quarters, stood a hard drive with fine courage and was slowly getting to the winner. MERRY GO ROUND, forced to race wide early, lost more ground on stretch turn and also held on well when under pressure the last quarter.

BARCARDI SWEEP, improved and never far back, bore over repeatedly while working his way to front, and, holding on well, outstayed THEOREM. The latter, probably best, but given a badly judged ride, was taken back repeatedly while saving ground the first three-quarters, came out after failing to get through on inside entering stretch, and finished fastest. HOME WORK, well rated, fought it out stubbornly in the drive.

CUBS LEAVE FOR EAST WITH HOPES A LITTLE DIMMED

Lose 8 of 13 Since Winning Streak Snapped.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, who experienced more or less unhappiness in their work during the last couple of weeks, went east last night and carried with them hopes that a few sniffs of salty air along the seacoast might prove a tonic. The stimulus is needed in view of their recent grand dive in which they were kicked around for eight defeats while winning only five.

The current slide, although the leading Giants are still within striking distance, dates from the breaking up of the eleven game winning streak which caused some of the constituents to begin figuring how the Cubs might go against the American league entry in the next world series. The last link in the winning chain was forged in the first half of a double-header at Pittsburgh July 31. Since then the Pirates,. Reds, and Cardinals have taken turns banqueting on Cub meat.

Hartnett's Return Cheering.

One bright spot in Managing Vice President Grimm's immediate future is that Gabby Hartnett has resumed work in his old place behind the bat. After working two innings in Sunday's game, Gabby believes he has fully recovered from his ankle injury, suffered at Pittsburgh July 31, but it is of such a nature that nothing can be definite in the case until he gives it the test of a full game. He probably will try it out tomorrow in one of the two games with which the Cubs open their eastern tour at Brooklyn.

Before returning to their own lot for a double-header on Labor day, the Cubs must play 19 more games on foreign fields. They have five in four days at Brooklyn, followed by five in the same length of time at Philadelphia. Then they move into the Polo grounds for four single games with the leading Giants. After that Boston will be visited for three games in two days and the trip will conclude with appearances at Pittsburgh on Aug. 31 and Sept. 1.

Giant Series Will Tell.

If past performances this season mean anything, the Cubs have no reason to be particularly fearful of the program immediately ahead. On their previous two eastern tours they did far better than .500 baseball, especially on the second trip. But to win the bulk of the games in Philadelphia, Boston, and Brooklyn won't mean much. It's the four with the Giants and the two with the Pirates that will decide whether the Cubs can carry their pennant idea into the last month.

For the double-header tomorrow at Brooklyn Grimm plans on pitching Bill Lee and Tex Carleton.

SIR MALCOLM TO SEEK SPEED RECORD IN UTAH

LONDON, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell, world record-holder for land speed, announced today he plans to seek his goal of 300 miles per hour in the famous racing machine, Bluebird, on the Utah salt flats during the second week of September.

Bluebird, accompanied by a crew of mechanics, is being packed for shipment on the Aquitania, sailing Wednesday. Campbell is booked to leave on the Majestic, Aug. 21, and will go direct to Utah from New York. He said he expects to begin practice runs soon after his arrival.

Campbell and Bluebird lifted their world mark to 276.816 m.p.h. at Daytona beach last winter.

MOON MULLINS—THE OUTCASTS

Pirates Get 14 Hits to Beat Reds, 7 to 4

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 12.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates pounded four Cincinnati pitchers for 14 hits today as they turned back the Reds, 7 to 4, in the only game played in the major leagues. The victory gave the Pirates the series, three games to two.

Al Hollingsworth, rookie southpaw, who lost a 1 to 0 verdict to Bill Swift on Friday, tried to check the Pirates again, but was hammered from the mound in the first inning. Emmett Nelson, another rookie, was called to his rescue and did a fine job for the next five innings, holding the Pirates to one run in the second. He was lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh and the Pirates hit Don Brennan for two more in their half of the inning.

Billy Myers was forced out of the game in the fifth, when he collided with Babe Herman in fielding Gus Suhr's fly in short left field. Both players were hurt, Myers suffering bruises, but Herman remained in the game. Score:

OLYMPIC BOARD MAKES HITLER REVERSE RULING

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—The only power in Germany that can make Hitler "back down" is the Olympic committee there.

This opinion was voiced today by William M. Henry, technical director of the Olympic games in Los Angeles in 1932, who returned on the steamship Bremen after having been consulted by the German committee in the preparations for the Olympics there next year.

Hitler in his anti-Jewish campaign dismissed Dr. Theodore Levald, former secretary of state, as chairman of the Olympic committee on the ground that his grandmother was a Jewess, Henry said. The committee demanded his reinstatement and Hitler surrendered.

Henry said he saw no outward signs of the anti-Jewish campaign in Germany, but he admitted a lot might be happening behind the scenes that he didn't know about.

"I spent most of my time going places with the Jewish Joe Jacobs, Max Schmeling's American manager," he said, "and we weren't bothered by any one."

Germany, he said, is spending millions building the finest sport stadium, swimming pools and winter sport grounds in the world. Already 48 countries have entered the competitions, as against 40 at Los Angeles, and without counting women entrants more than 3,200 athletes will compete in the events, as against only 2,000 at Los Angeles.

25 MIDGET CARS RACE TOMORROW ON SPEED CARD

Twenty-five of the fastest cars in the country will swing into action tomorrow night when the mid-week midget auto races are staged at the Chicago Midget Speedway track, Lincoln and Devon avenues. Races start at 8:30 o'clock.

Ronnie Householder, Wally Zale, Tony Wilman, and Ray Richards, outstanding drivers recently at the north side track, will pit their skill against newcomers and old opponents in a special 15 lap Australian pursuit race. A 20 lap feature winds up the card of eight events.

Because of a motor boat regatta Sunday, the special 50 lap race scheduled for that date at the speedway has been postponed a week. Several of the drivers are taking part in the regatta.

Upton, Otter Sloops Win in Cup Trials

Philip Upton's and Dick Otter's crews won the opening races of the Lake Michigan Sears cup series held yesterday off Wilmette by star class sloops of the Sheridan Shore Yacht club fleet.

Skipper Upton, 16, fresh from his triumph in the Great Lakes star class races on Lake Erie last week, won the second of the elimination heats. His crew was Don Campbell, 16, and Jack Goldman, 27. Young Upton's crew sails for the St. Joseph River [Mich.] Yacht club.

Good Breeze Helps.

The first race, sailed in a northwest breeze of over sixteen miles an hour, was captured by Otter and his junior yachtsmen on Walter T. Stockton's Walrus.

Two hundred feet from the finish line a sudden puff of wind struck the Walrus and it was knocked down so the keel was nearly out of water and the foot of the mast immersed. The crew, Richard Stockton, 13, youngest in the fleet of juniors, and Jack Kennedy, 15, scrambled up on the topside while Skipper Otter steered the boat across the finish line.

Two Teams Out.

Due to many entries, the heats sailed yesterday were for the purpose of eliminating two of the teams. These turned out to be the Chicago Yacht club and White Lake [Mich.] Yacht club boys. The six other crews will race twice today, at 10:30 a. m. and at 2:30 p. m., and there will be three races tomorrow.

The Sears cup committee, including Commodore John G. Guerin, chairman; Commodore C. D. R. Mulder, Commodore David C. Zimmerman, Fred Porter, Commodore Hunter Robbins, Jack Timewell, Norman Norse, and John Waring Jr., judged the races from the Pirie-Bowman cruiser Chance.

The Columbia Yacht club will act as hosts to the boy sailors tonight after the races at 8 o'clock, when a Sears cup banquet will be held in the clubhouse at the foot of Randolph street.

WESTERN JUNIOR AMATEUR GOLF TO OPEN TODAY

Birmingham, Mich., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Ninety-one youngsters will begin play tomorrow in the western junior amateur golf tournament at Oakland Hills Country club. There will be an 18 hole qualifying round tomorrow, followed by match play Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

Fred Haas Jr., New Orleans, who won the title at Hinsdale, Ill., last year, and Robert Carpenter Jones, 1934 runnerup, lead the list of entrants. Haas has indicated he likes the Oakland Hills course by shooting a 70 in a practice round.

The western junior will see the first introduction to championship golf of Walter Hagen Jr., 17 year old son of the famous professional.

The tournament is open to boys who have passed their sixteenth birthday and not yet reached their twentieth. The low 32 will qualify for championship match play.

GRANT DECIDES TO REJECT PRO TENNIS OFFER

Newport, R. I., Aug. 12.—Whatever chance Promoter Bill O'Brien had of luring Bryan Grant into his professional pack vanished today when the tiny Atlanta star paid a return visit to Newport Casino, shrine of American tennis.

Grant, holder of the national clay court title and yesterday's eastern grass court victor at Rye, N. Y., was mulling over O'Brien's offer of a $7,500 bonus and a $200 weekly salary for a nine months' tour when he stepped on this turf, where the first national championship was decided 54 years ago.

He was so impressed by the Casino, it was said, that he decided to reject O'Brien's offer and continue in amateur tennis for another year at least.

Iowa Promoter Signs Deans, Martin for Tour

Muscatine, Ia., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Ray L. Doan, Muscatine sports promoter, today announced he again had signed the famous Cardinal pitchers, Dizzy and Daffy Dean, and Pepper Martin, St. Louis third baseman, for an exhibition tour of the east and middle west after the close of the major league season.

It Takes a Lot to Stir Up Fish These Hot Days

BY BOB BECKER.

Still, hot days that come in August while there is a blazing sun in the sky, apparently call for all kinds of strategy in order to get fish in the northern lakes. When we were fishing several lakes in Flambeau chain near the Indian village of Lac du Flambeau a few days ago, we found anglers using just about everything in the way of a lure from live bait to metal, wabbling fish-foolers that traveled deep over the weed bars.

Fishermen from Chicago, Evanston, La Crosse, Wis., and various other points in the middle west were seeking out the deep rock bars for small mouthed bass and wall-eyed pike and also tossing lures to catch muskies. Facing the prospect of a blazing hot day with no wind to ripple the surface of the lakes, one Chicago angler started out on the Flambeau chain of lakes the other morning with a milk can in his boat. We were heading for Fence lake to play with the wall-eyed pike at the same time, so we peeked into the tall, shining milk can to see what was in it. Splashing around in the water were a half dozen big suckers which were going to be tossed at the muskies! This live bait stunt worked all right because two muskies [one fairly good sized] fell for the offerings and were hooked.

One method of fooling wall-eyed pike that we never had seen used before worked on Fence lake the day we were drifting over the weed bars. It was a very hot morning. The wind had died down so that the lake was as still as a mill pond. Naturally, the pike and the bass were pretty indifferent to anything you could offer them.

Looking over at a nearby boat from which Nate Pumpian and Reed Myers of Chicago were fishing, we saw the former curled up in the stern of the boat sound asleep. Suddenly everybody in the boat, including Frank Wildcat, the Indian guide handling the oars, was in action. A 4¼ pound wall-eye had taken the sleeping fisherman's lure and was cutting up all kinds of capers. After it was landed the decision was made that the way to fool the wall-eyes on such a hot morning when they were slow to strike was to feign complete indifference by taking a nap in the boat.

How weather and wind affect fishing was illustrated on this day. First came extreme heat and no wind in the morning. Then a severe thunderstorm and a brisk wind followed. As soon as the north wind began to blow the fish took a new lease on life and began to strike.

18 RACE DRIVERS SIGN UP FOR ROBY PROGRAM SUNDAY

Two thousand dollars in prize money has its allure to automobile race pilots if the entries listed for the inaugural program of the new Roby speedway is any indication. Eighteen pilots have been signed for the opening program next Sunday and it is expected that at least forty will make the battle for positions in the 50 mile feature event through the medium of 10 mile qualifying heats.

Babe Stapp, diminutive Los Angeles driver who has been an annual contender for the national championship for the last ten years, entered yesterday. Stapp, along with Wild Bill Cummings and Chester Gardner, both of whom are to race at Roby Sunday, is a member of the Hundred Miles per Hour club, an organization of fourteen pilots. To be eligible for membership a driver must have driven 500 miles at an average of 100 miles an hour or better.

Other entries received yesterday were those of Frank Briscoe, Henry Banks, Eddie Beaver, Lyle Christie, Bill Devore, Bumpy Bumbarger, Fred Tigtmeier, and Eddie Elden.

New York, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Dwight F. Davis, donor of the international tennis trophy that bears his name, returned from Europe today convinced the United States will have a good chance to lift the cup next year.

Davis said the 1935 American team made a much better showing than indicated by the record. "All of the sets were close," he said.

"Prospects for next year are good," he said. "We have a number of players coming on. Among these is Donald Budge, who did splendidly in the matches this year. He has demontsrated himself one of the important players of the future."

COLISEUM SKATE DERBY WILL OPEN AT NOON TODAY

A 3,000 mile roller skating derby will open at noon today when 50 skaters begin the long grind inside the main hall of the Coliseum, 16th and Wabash avenue. A fast banked track, composed of pressed wood, has been instaled in the air conditioned building.

Sprints will be held every afternoon and evening at intervals. Special awards will be given for sprints. One member of the team must be on the track at all times and failure to do so will eliminate this particular couple from the race. [Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 12.—Strength in second grade railroad issues and selected Public Utility liens feateured trading in bonds on the New York Stock exchange today. The market for strictly high grade investments remained dull and uninteresting as prices continued to display a firm undertone. Transactions amounted to $11,161,000, compared with $14,114,000 last Friday.

Publication by the treasury department of the details of the sale of an additional block of $100,000,000 2 7-8 per cent bonds revealed nothing new to government bond dealers.

Federal Bonds Are Weak.

Moderate declines predominated thoughout the federal list, closing prices showing losses of 1-32 to 7-32, and advances of 1-32 to 3-32. The treasury 2⅞ were most active and eased to 101.6 at one time, but closed at 101.7, off 1-32 on the day.

The better outlook for increased trafic for several of the leading railroads continues to exert a favorable influence on the market for the more speculative carrier issues. Missouri, Kansas, and Texas bonds were in good demand at prices showing advances of one to two points over the previous finals. New Haven issues also were well taken, while fractioinal gains ruled over a broad list of rail bonds.

Utilities Irregularly Higher.

Public Utility bonds worked irregularly higher with a gain of over 3 points in International Hydro Electric convertible 6s standing out as the highlight in that section. Amusement bonds showed a firmer undertone and closed with good sized advances. Industrial bonds held within a narrow trading range in light trading.

Foreign dollar bonds, as a group, were generally better.

Ludlum Steel.

Investors' Guide: Will you give information on Ludlum Steel?—L. S. C.

Answer: Ludlum Steel company was originally established in 1854. Its plant is located near Albany, N. Y. It produces a special alloy steel, about 60 per cent of which goes into the automobile trade and the remainder into general industry, mainly tools, chemical and oil refining plants, and the beer industry.

Earnings for the first quarter of 1935 equaled 78 cents per common share, against 49 cents in the corresponding 1934 period. For the second quarter of 1935 earnings were $147,000, against $228,000 for the second quarter of 1934.

It should be remembered that steel company earnings generally were unusually good in the second quarter of 1934. Purchasers stocked up heavily in anticipation of third quarter price increases. No such abnormal situation existed in the second quarter of this year. Operations were conducted to fill normal orders and, consequently, it is expected that the third quarter of this year will show a substantial improvement over the 1934 third quarter.

	Net sales.	Net income.	Inc. per com. shr.
1933	3,262,000	$442,000	$0.78
1932	2,044,000	161,000	*.68
1931	3,204,000	*474,000	*3.90

*Loss.

Current position at the close of 1934 was strong. Current assets were more than eight times total current liabilities. There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 44,290 shares of $6.50 dividend no par preferred, on which dividends have been paid regularly, and 202,155 shares of $1 par common, on which nothing has been paid for five years.

The preferred deserves a fairly good rating. The common is speculative.

National Rubber Products.

Investors' Guide: If not too much trouble is there any way I can find out when the following investment became nil—National Rubber Products corporation? This stock was dated 1918. The company was incorporated in Delaware.—P. M. H.

Answer: National Rubber Products corporation had a plant in Pottstown, Pa. The company was placed in receivership by the receivers of Hydro-United Tire company of the same town. The companies were interrelated. There was some adverse publicity concerning the projects at the time. The shares, we are informed, are absolutely worthless. Although we do not have the exact date on which they became so, it was probably in 1921.

STOCK TRADING HEAVIEST SINCE JULY LAST YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 12.—The share market hummed busily today as the carrier section of the list, low priced miscellaneous issues and a batch of specialties moved forward in impressive manner despite profit taking that weighed down the steels and the motors. The ticker tape was taxed to its capacity as orders poured into the market, indicating the public is becoming more inclined to buy stocks. The tickers were recording transactions more than a minute behind floor operations at one time during the session as 2,434,630 shares changed hands. Not since July 26, 193[illegible] has the market been so active.

New 1935 high marks were attained by 136 issues. Traders were cheered by the excellent performance of the carriers and by the way old-line stocks absorbed realizing sales. Volume in individual shares was substantial.

Business News Main Influence.

Business news again played the leading rôle in determining the trend. The rank and file paid scant attention to doings at Washington and the tax problem confronting the nation's legislators. Interest centered chiefly in reports of increasing operations in major industries, the growth of corporate profits and the outlook for additional betterment in the fall.

Bullishness for rail shares developed in the face of indications that car loadings are due for another tumble and the absence of anything special to talk about outside of the signing of the highways regulation bill. It was felt, however, that if industry in general is going to be prosperous the rails will get a share of the activity. Union Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Pere Marquette, and Gulf Mobile gained a point or more, while Central of New Jersey closed at 56, a gain of 5 points for a new high.

An outstanding bright spot in the list was American Telephone, which bounded up 2⅜ points to 137¾, a new high for the year. Radio common was another issue well thought of by the speculative fraternity with over 129,000 shares being turned over during the session.

Realizing Hurts Motors, Steels.

Motors and steels were hurt by the profit-taking. Bethlehem and United States Steel were forced to take fractional losses, the latter issue after going past its high price for the year. Chrysler and General Motors gave up major fractions.

Associated Dry Goods preferred closing at 85½ and General Realty preferred at 28½ chalked up gains of 4½ and 3½ points, respectively, to hit new high marks for the year.

Stocks to lose over a point were McKeesport, Beech Nut, Continental Can, U. S. Steel preferred, and United Fruit. Case, Caterpillar, and Deere among the farm implements were fractionally lower.

The copper group moved forward around noon and some of the issues gained a point or so. General Electric made a new top, closing fractionally higher at 31. Western Union reached 50¾, a new high price, but weakened to close slightly under Saturday's final quotation at the close.

CANADIAN CROP REPORT REVEALS DAMAGE IN JULY

OTTAWA, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Crops in Canada were damaged during July, according to the crop report issued today by the dominion bureau of statistics. A deterioration of 16 per cent, however, occurred in the spring wheat, rust, hail, and drouth taking a serious toll in the prairie provinces. Oats and barley also declined in condition due to the rust and drouth in the west, while drouth took some toll of the flaxseed and rye crops.

There is still hope for a moderate increase over the 1934 wheat production of 263.8 million bushels. Other grains have not been so seriously affected and are still quite promising. Fall wheat shows a considerable increase over the 1934 returns, being estimated at 13,267,000 bushels, compared with the low production of 6,724,000 bushels in 1934.

Rise in Stocks Outruns Gain in Earnings

BY HOWARD WOOD.

As stock prices steadily continue to push to higher levels the big question in La Salle street is: Are stocks too high in relation to earnings?

For weeks market experts have been watching for the "technical reaction" that they have believed would occur. But the stock market has a way of doing just the opposite of what the experts think it will do. The "reaction" has not yet occurred. Most of the figure boys, however, are still expecting it to happen. A few have changed their tune and are optimistically looking for a "ride." The latter are still in the minority.

It isn't that the "street" is pessimistic. Far from it. With the volume of stock transactions increasing the cash registers are ringing in brokers' offices and when the cash registers are ringing the statisticians are usually optimistic in their interpretations.

* *

Most experienced market watchers, however, believe that although business activity has quickened and corporation profits are improving stock prices have more than kept pace with this improvement and have already discounted business betterment a long way down the road.

The thing that complicates their figuring is the fact that a large part of the buying has been of the nonprofessional and nonspeculative type. Brokers here and in other cities report that a big percentage of stock purchases is for cash by investors who take shares in well known companies and put them away in their safe deposit boxes.

Such holders are much less likely to come back quickly to sell and take their profits than are the speculators who buy on margin and sell when they have a few points to the good.

* *

That there has been heavy buying of the "investments" variety is to be readily deduced by comparing the total volume of sales on the big exchanges with the changes in the volume of brokers' loans in New York. When speculators are buying brokers' loans go up, because the speculators buy on margin, borrowing bank funds to carry them.

During the last few weeks the volume of sales has been increasing and stock prices have been rising but brokers' loans have changed little.

Even this type of buying, however, cannot hold stock prices at current levels unless the public is really infected with an old time "boom" psychology. To date indications that the public is so infected have not been apparent.

The situation, therefore, has La Salle street puzzled. Managements of investment companies, too, have their doubts. They have felt that a rise in stock prices was in order, but many of them believe that it has overleapt itself a little.

* *

Leading stocks on the New York Stock exchange have been pushed up to levels at which they are selling all the way from 20 to 50 times their 1934 earnings. Even though corporate profits are better this year than last, prices are still far above what is generally considered the normal price earnings ratio.

General Electric common yesterday closed at $31 per share, 51 times its 1934 earnings of 59 cents per share, and 38 times its earnings for the first six months of 1935.

Last year Continental Can enjoyed the highest earnings in its history. Its common stock closed yesterday at $85.50 per share, 29 times its 1934 earnings of $2.87 per share, and 21 times its earnings of $3.93 for the twelve months ended June 30.

American Telephone and Telegraph common at $137.75 per share is 23 times its 1934 earnings of $5.96. Du Pont at $110.50 is 30 times its 1934 earnings; Eastman Kodak at $147.50 is 21 1times 1934 earnings; Firestone Tire at $15.87 is 22 times; General Motors at $44.75 is 22 times; Procter & Gamble at $53 is 24 times; Standard Oil [New Jersey] at $47 is 27 times; Sears Roebuck at $58.62 is 25 times.

* *

Before the boom of the late twenties most financial experts figured that a stock should sell for 10 to 15 times the company's annual per share earnings. The 15 to 1 ratio applied only to the "blue chip" stocks. During the "New Era" when optimism was rampant the dopesters slid the scale upward, figuring that stocks should sell for 20 to 25 times earnings.

There can be, of course, no rigid standard by which stock prices can be measured by earnings. When money rates are easy, as they are at present, and investors, discouraged by low rates of return on bonds turn to stocks and are content with comparatively small dividend returns the price-earnings ratio naturally becomes larger.

Just how much larger it should be is the question that is puzzling the experts right now. Many of them have become a little uneasy.

July's Store Sales 14 Pct. Above 1934

Department store sales in July showed the usual seasonal decline from June but were 14 per cent above last year, the federal reserve board announced yesterday in a survey covering 522 stores in 256 cities. The percentage gain over a year ago in July was considerably larger than that of the first seven months over 1934, this increase amounting to 3 per cent.

Greatest improvement during July over last year was shown in the Atlanta and San Francisco reserve districts, each gaining 18 per cent. Next in order was the St. Louis area with an increase of 17 per cent over 1934. Three cities—Chicago, Minneapolis, and Richmond—were tied for the third largest gain, each reporting trade 16 per cent higher.

Dallas Has 15 Per Cent Upturn.

Dallas reported a rise of 15 per cent over July, 1934, and sales in Kansas City and Cleveland gained 14 per cent, New York and Philadelphia, 10 per cent, and Boston, 8 per cent.

The dollar volume of sales during the first seven months of this year, compared with the corresponding period of last year, did not measure up to the gains shown during July over 1934 in any district. Two districts out of the twelve still show a decline for the seven months, compared with a year ago while another reported no change.

San Francisco Leads.

Leading other areas in improvement during the seven months' period was the San Francisco district with a gain of 10 per cent. Chicago, Dallas, and Richmond showed the next largest gain, rising 6 per cent each. Minneapolis and Kansas City recorded sales increases of 5 per cent each over the first seven months in 1934.

Atlanta had a gain of 4 per cent, Cleveland 2 per cent, and St. Louis 1 per cent. In the Philadelphia district there was no change from a year ago, while Boston showed a decline of 2 per cent and New York a loss of 1 per cent.

HEAR PRESIDENT OPPOSES BANKS FLOATING ISSUES

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Wall street heard today that President Roosevelt has definitly put his foot down on permitting commercial banks to engage in any underwriting activities.

While the President's stand has never been in doubt, it has been felt in banking circles that he would permit the underwriting section to remain in the banking bill with the added safeguards proposed by Senator Fletcher.

However, bankers state they understand Roosevelt sent word to the senate committee that he is against any opening of the bank underwriting privileges, and that the committee may be expected to follow his bidding in this respect.

GEN. ELECTRIC HEAD PREDICTS EVEN HIGHER STANDARD OF LIVING

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—"The use of electrical power has passed the peak of 1929, and a very definite improvement in business has been noted," Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric company, told 10,000 employés of the company from all parts of the country, gathered here today for the opening of the annual merchandise conference of the company.

"A return to our former and to an even higher standard of living is before us," Swope told the delegates. "With expansion of electrical consumption there is ample room for expansion of our business, giving steady employment at good earnings to the thousands of people here assembled.

"This improvement in business is making itself manifest in other lines, so that believing in the great natural wealth of this country, the reserve power and resiliency and ingenuity of its people, we think this improvement in business, and a return to our former and an even higher standard of living, is before us."

GEORGIA LOSES LEGAL FIGHT TO CUT RAIL RATES

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 12.—(AP)—The Georgia Public Service commission today lost its fight before a three-judge Federal court to prevent the interstate commerce commission from putting into effect railroad freight rates higher than those prescribed by the Georgia commission.

Under the reduced scale of rate authorized by the Georgia Public Service commission, freight on classes 1 to 12, covering high class merchandise comprising 10 to 15 per cent of total haulings, was affected sharply. The rate on these classes was reduced by the Georgia commission to a point approximately 17 per cent lower than corresponding rates in other states, about 10 per cent higher than Georgia trucking rates and about 15 per cent higher than railway freight rates in "official territory."

Claiming "discrimination," and pointing out that because of Georgia's lower interstate rate, Georgia had an unfair advantage over adjoining freight regions, the commerce commission attacked the state commission's scale.

MANDEL BROS. ASKS TO ACT AS FHA LOAN AGENT

Mandel Brothers department store has applied to the Federal Housing administration to act as authorized agent for FHA loans, the first local department store to take such action. This was announced yesterday by Sidney J. Natkin of Mandel Brothers at the opening session of the women's housing show in the store, under auspices of the Chicago association of better housing committees of the FHA.

Representatives of Chicago's important women's clubs and civic groups attended the opening. Percy Wilson, retiring regional director of the FHA, and Mrs. Wilson were guests of honor. Wilson, Miss Harriett Vittum, chairman of the women's committee of the association, and Joseph Stewart spoke. The housing show will continue until Oct. 1.

Trade Upturn Spreads Over Most of World

New York, Aug. 12.—(AP)—An almost general improvement in business conditions throughout the world during the last few months is shown in current surveys.

Each country has contended with special problems. There have been spurs to industrial production and international trade within one country that have placed it higher in the scale than other nations not benefited by special circumstances.

Activities which some authorities class under the heading of national defense preparation have boosted production and speeded general activities in some nations.

Gold Nations Hampered.

Other nations—such as the gold bloc group—have been hampered to some extent by currency difficulties. Three countries outstanding in the gold bloc—France, Holland, and Switzerland—have suffered decreased production in June, while world production as a whole advanced during that month.

As an indication of expanding activity in heavy industry, the United States department of commerce reported exports of scrap iron and steel for the first six months of this year were higher than the first half of 1934 and larger than any other entire year since the world war. Italy and Japan were the best customers.

Tourists Help Britain.

Advices to Business Week indicate England is taking a renewed interest in tourist trade with findings there that tourists in 1934 accounted for an income nearly as large as the export balance in the woolen industry and the coal trade. The present year, with jubilee visitors, is expected to establish even more gratifying results.

The French, however, in recent days have had increasing difficulties in carrying out the economy measures instituted as a means for saving the franc from devaluation and revising internal economy ,it was reported.

CANADIAN HOG RAISERS PROFIT BY U. S. PRICES

Ship Swine as New Peak Is Reached.

Canadian hog raisers yesterday joined the long procession of foreign farmers who are benefiting by the high level of prices prevailing for live stock and grain in the American markets. The first Canadian hogs to come over the border in some time were on the Buffalo market yesterday as prices at most of the markets in this country soared to new nine year highs.

Despite a tarif of $2 on live hogs, and the fact that packers also must pay the $2.25 per hundredweight processing tax on imported hogs, the recent sensational advances in American markets have made it possible for the Canadian farmers to ship hogs into this country.

Movement Is Not Large.

The margin is not wide, however, and the movement of live hogs as yet is small. Top grades of hogs on the leading Canadian markets lately have been bringing about $10, which means they must be worth $14.25 on this side the border to break even for the packer.

Yesterday's peak in Buffalo was $14.60, and top sales in Chicago were made at $14.40, processing tax included, the price here being a new high since September, 1926, and only 60 cents under the highest price paid by packers since October, 1920.

Packers entered the Chicago hog market with unlimited orders for hogs yesterday as supplies fell. Buyers paid 10 to 25 cents advance for the bulk of the crop, with many closing sales showing more than 25 cents advance. Offerings were far below requirements of the trade.

Crop News Disheartening.

Men sent out several days ago by packers and Chicago commission firms to some of the best hog raising country of the corn belt returned yesterday with disheartening crop news. They reported few of the hogs on farms are ready for market and the crop of growing pigs is much smaller than the trade had expected.

Local packers were particularly eager for numbers, outbidding most of the representatives of eastern houses. The average for the session at $13.30 also set a new high for Chicago.

A two way market developed for cattle yesterday, grain fed steers and yearlings, as well as some of the best hefers, selling 15 to 25 cents higher, while grassy kinds and some of the medium quality stock that scored the sharpest advances last week gave ground under pressure from packers and closed off 25 to 50 cents in most instances.

Lamb prices yesterday were under pressure of the heaviest receipts since April 15 and broke 25 to 35 cents, with spots off 50 cents, after a steady opening.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES TO 48.1% OF PLANT CAPACITY

New York, Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Steel plant operations rose to 48.1 per cent of capacity today, according to the American Iron and Steel institute's estimate for the current week.

This compares with 46 per cent of capacity last week, 39.9 per cent a month ago, and 22.3 per cent a year ago. This operating rate is the highest since March 4.

76 Million Bond Issue Is Quickly Sold

The $76,000,000 issue of 2½ per cent Dominion of Canada bonds which was placed on the market yesterday was reported at the Chicago office of the First Boston corporation, which headed the offering syndicate, to have been oversold, both wholesale and retail.

During the day the bonds, which were offered at 97¾ and accrued interest, reached 97⅞ bid, 98⅛ offered and closed at 97⅝ bid to 98.

First Canadian Deal Recently.

Yesterday's offering was the first Canadian government financing to be placed in the American market since the passage of the securities act. It also was a reversal of the recent Canadian practice of going to London for financing. For a number of years after the war Canada had done a considerable part of its financing in the United States.

The reception accorded the issue immediately after the books were opened for public subscription by thirty-nine American and Canadian banking houses sent the bid price up to a premium.

Pay Promissory Notes.

The bonds are due Aug. 15, 1945. Net proceeds of the offering, together with cash from the dominion treasury, will be used to pay $50,000,000 of 2 per cent promissory notes, due Sept. 1, and to redeem $26,000,000 of 4½ per cent Canadian National Railway company bonds to be called for payment on Sept. 15.

Pertinent facts regarding the financial position of Canada, its economic production and foreign trade balance are contained in the prospectus issued by the bankers.

URGES ADVISORY BOARD TO JUDGE INDUSTRY LOANS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—(AP)—A presidentially appointed board to advise the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the federal reserve board regarding loans to industry was proposed today by Representative Kopplemann [Dem., Conn.]. Introducing a bill to create such a group, he said:

"Since it is an improbability that we will secure the enactment of my bill setting up an intermediate credit corporation during this session, I feel that the creation of the advisory board is a satisfactory temporary expedient."

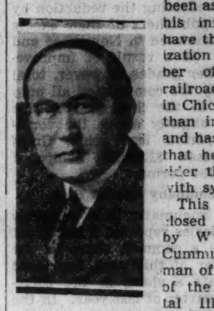
The proposed advisory board would investigate and review applications for industrial loans.

RFC MAY MAKE CHICAGO CENTER OF RAIL FINANCE

Reorganizations Can Be Handled Here.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, has been asked to use his influence to have the reorganization of a number of Chicago railroads handled in Chicago rather than in the east and has indicated that he will consider the request with sympathy.



W. J. CUMMINGS.

This was disclosed yesterday by Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. Cummings explained he had a visit with Jones last week and urged upon the RFC chieftain the desirability of having Chicago reorganizations handled on the spot rather than in New York.

Reports Jones Impressed.

Cummings said Jones was much impressed by the arguments advanced for this course and said he would not be surprised to see reorganization work turned over to Chicagoans.

There are now six important Chicago railroads that are seeking relief from their financial difficulties under the provisions of section 77 of the amended bankruptcy act. They are the Rock Island, Milwaukee road, North Western, Chicago and Eastern Illinois, Chicago Great Western, and the Monon.

It was pointed out that in the reorganizations the RFC will hold the whip hand as any money required to carry out the plans doubtless will have to come from that agency. Such work will mean considerable to banks, attorneys, and others in cities where it is done. In the case of the banks there are important fees for registration of securities and for trusteeships.

There has been a growing demand

INTL. PAPER CUTS LOSS IN QUARTER; SALES INCREASE

Other Companies Issue Profit Statements.

International Paper and Power company and subsidiaries reported yesterday a net loss of $1,068,996 for the first quarter of 1935, compared with a loss of $1,218,543 for the 1934 period on a comparative basis. The company now excludes International Hydro-Electric system and its subsidiaries from its consolidated returns.

Newsprint tonnage declined 10 per cent, compared with the first quarter of 1934, Archibald R. Graustein, president, said, reflecting the reduction by newspaper publishers of their excess stocks accumulated in November and December. As a result of improvement in other grades, however, total deliveries by the company of all pulp and paper in the first quarter this year were slightly above the corresponding period last year. Gross sales increased $1,623,691 compared with the 1934 period.

Tool Company Profits Rise.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool company and subsidiaries reported a net profit of 14 cents a common share in the June quarter of this year, compared with 4 cents a share in the corresponding quarter of last year. In the first six months of this year the company's profit was equal to 18 cents a common share, while a year ago a deficit equal to 61 cents a share on the common stock was reported.

Boeing Airplane company and subsidiaries had a net loss of $224,558 in the June quarter, compared with a net loss of $213,262 in the preceding quarter. There are no comparable figures for a year ago. During the first six months the company reported a consolidated net loss of $437,820. Unfilled orders on June 30 were valued at $2,084,918.

G. Heileman Brewing company announced for the first half of the year profits of $127,359 after all charges, equivalent to 42 cents a share on capital stock, compared with $83,141, or 28 cents a share, in the 1934 period.

Briggs Manufacturing company reported earnings for the three months ended with June of $3,298,317 after depreciation and all other charges, equal to $1.70 a share, on 1,940,250 shares of stock outstanding. In the first quarter of the year earnings were $3,247,141, equal to $1.67 a share. The total for the first half year is equal to $3.37 a share on the stock, against $1.87 a share in the first half of 1934.

Chesapeake corporation yesterday reported net income for the June quarter of $1,814,152, after all charges, but excluding $394 profit on bond conversion. In the preceding quarter net profit totaled $1,810,209, and a year ago net earnings were $1,868,745. Net income for the first six months amounted to $3,624,361, after all charges for the period but including profit of $591 from bond conversion, against $3,740,361, after charges, but excluding $39,514 bond discount profit and $98,912 profit from the sales of securities in the 1934 period.

Berghoff Brewing corporation had net profit for the six months of $60,587 after all charges, including $59,411 for depreciation. This was equivalent to 22 cents a share on the 270,000 shares of capital stock outstanding and compared with a net profit of $33,673, or 12 cents a share, in the corresponding period of last year.

GRAINS BREAK; HEDGING SALES MAIN INFLUENCE

Storms and Rust Damage Wheat Further.

Hedging pressure, coupled with extremely apathetic speculative interest, carried grain prices sharply lower here yesterday. Wheat lost 1 to 2 cents a bushel, corn gave up as much as 3¼ cents, and oats and rye moved about a cent lower each. All oats and rye, December and May corn, went to new lows for the crop.

The decline occurred in the face of continued bullish news from American and Canadian northwest wheat fields. Destructive thunderstorms, reaching cyclonic proportions at times, caused heavy damage in parts of Canada and were reported to have destroyed thousands of acres of grain. In other sections, particularly in Manitoba, wheat fields are being burned because the crop has become so heavily infested with black rust that harvesting would be useless.

Hedging Sales Throughout Day.

Hedge selling made its appearance at the start of trading and continued intermittently throughout the day. With speculative interest at extremely low ebb the pressure proved too heavy a burden.

New crop deliveries of corn—December and May contracts—bore the brunt of liquidation in that pit. May corn, which sold at a premium of 2 cents a bushel over December a short time ago, narrowed its advantage to ⅞ cent at one time, while the September-December spread widened to 18¼ cents, the greatest difference on the crop. Most of the buying which entered the market was supplied by traders who have either been short the December delivery or short December and long September.

Closing quotations of principal September deliveries, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .87⅞	$ .89⅝	$ .92
Corn	.74¾	.75⅛	.77⅛
Oats	.27⅞	.29	.31
Rye	.41⅞	.42⅞	.44⅝

Wheat Breaks in Minneapolis.

Wheat in Minneapolis was weak after an opening burst of strength and sold off 3½ cents at one time. Winnipeg broke nearly 2 cents, while Kansas City mirrored activity here. Liverpool refused to follow Chicago's break in prices Saturday and eased only ⅝ to ⅞ cent.

Visible supplies of wheat increased 8,365,000 bushels last week, the largest weekly gain during the current crop period. A week earlier the total mounted 5,525,000 bushels, while in the same week of 1934 a gain of less than a million bushels was recorded. Corn presented a totally different picture, increasing only 131,000 bushels last week, against an upturn of 5,407,000 last year.

Eastern millers are importing small amounts of wheat. Purchases of old crop Canadian grades are expected to increase further.

A cargo of Canadian wheat was reported to have arrived at Milwaukee yesterday, selling at $1.29¼ a bushel, including duty and charges, which is approximately 42 cents above the price of September wheat here.

Pork Supply Decreases to New Low Mark, 370 Million Pound

Despite packers' efforts of the last few weeks to rebuild the depleted stocks of pork in storage, the nation's reserve supply Aug. 1 touched a new all time low, the department of agriculture revealed yesterday.

Cold storage houses in the United States held only 369,792,000 pounds of pork on that date, compared with 445,307,000 pounds on July 1, 687,563,000 pounds on Jan. 1, and 643,566,000 pounds a year ago. The five year average for Aug. 1 is 601,639,000 pounds.

Packers managed to freeze only 23,237,000 pounds during July because of the extremely light receipts of live hogs resulting from the drouth of 1934 and AAA restrictions on production the last two years. A year ago packers froze 61,936,000 pounds of pork during July.

Total Down Sharply.

Packers also placed in dry salt and in pickle a total of only 133,461,000 pounds during the month, against 214,865,000 pounds in July last year, the report showed.

Other meats also showed a decrease. Beef in store the first of the month totaled 49,663,000 pounds, compared with 55,653,000 July 1, 140,940,000 pounds on Jan. 1, 61,545,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 47,147,000 pounds.

Beef frozen during July amounted to 14,159,000 pounds, compared with 27,311,000 pounds a year ago. The total placed in cure aggregated 4,148,000 pounds, against 6,181,000 pounds a year ago.

Lamb Stocks Lower.

Lamb and mutton in store the first of the month totaled 2,126,000 pounds, compared with 2,376,000 pounds July 1, 4,560,000 pounds Jan. 1, and 1,518,000 pounds a year ago. Miscellaneous meats totaled 43,585,000 pounds Aug. 1, against 52,697,000 July 1, 126,033,000 pounds Jan. 1, 78,266,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 72,803,000 pounds.

Lard stocks dropped to 68,815,000 pounds, against 84,680,000 July 1, 209,497,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 158,131,000 pounds.

Frozen poultry also declined. On the first of the month the country had 41,177,000 pounds of frozen poultry, against 47,051,000 pounds July 1, 44,904,000 pounds a year ago, and a five year average of 40,259,000 pounds.

WALLACE DENIES PIG SLAUGHTER BOOSTED PRICES

Assails Packers for Tax "Propaganda."

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—If the 1933 hog slaughter under AAA auspices had not taken place, consumers would now be paying higher prices for pork than they are, Secretary Wallace said today in a retort to what he termed packers' propaganda against processing taxes.

The supply of pork is limited by the supply of feed, Wallace pointed out, adding that if the market had been further glutted last year there would have been insufficient corn to feed the hogs for marketing in 1935 because of the 1934 drouth.

Charges Figure Exaggerated.

Wallace said that only 222,149 sows were purchased and slaughtered by the government in 1933, instead of 6,000,000, as alleged by Chicago meat authorities.

Further, he said, these sows were not "destroyed," but their flesh was processed and distributed to the extent of 100,000,000 pounds to the needy through the operations of the Federal Surplus Relief corporation.

Wallace's statement expressed curiosity as to whether the meat authorities quoted were the same "packers who are suing in court for recovery of processing taxes already paid or sequestered in court on the theory that the packers pay these taxes while at the same time spreading anonymous propaganda to persuade consumers that the tax is borne by the consumers."

Assails Packers' "Propaganda."

"Consumers should be warned that a nation-wide effort is being made by the packers and other processors to undermine the farmers' programs by spreading malicious and untrue propaganda of all kinds about the effects and purposes of the adjustment programs upon the consumers of the country," he said.

In outlining reasons why the slaughter of sows in 1933 had nothing to do with the present price of pork, Wallace said:

"The true story is that the government, with its 1933 pig purchases, reduced by less than 8,000,000 pigs [including the possible million pigs not littered by the 222,149 purchased sows] the number of marketings in 1934, when nearly 68,000,000 were slaughtered. The need for the 1933 reduction is shown by the fact that even after the reduction was made the 1934 slaughter was comparable to the 1933 total slaughter of 73,000,000 for farm and commercial use, and the 1932 slaughter of slightly less than 71,000,000."

Illinois Is Urged to Speed All Requests for PWA Money

BY AL CHASE.

Illinois' share in the four billion dollar federal work relief fund, so far as the Public Works administration is concerned, depends on the speed with which this state and its various communities ask Washington for a share of the handout and also on the merit of the requests. There is no limit, theoretically, to the amount Illinois can get as no specific sum has been allocated to the various states.

Col. Horatio B. Hackett, deputy administrator of the PWA, in a flying visit to Chicago yesterday, announced the foregoing facts.

He also called attention to the confusing lack of imagination of the Washington christeners who named the latest national spending body the Works Progress administration, popularly known as the WPA. This has nothing to do with the PWA, Hackett pointed out. The PWA is headed by Ickes. The WPA is under Harry Hopkins.

Urges Borrowers to Speed Up.

Hackett, who has just completed an air voyage to twenty-three western states to inspect PWA activities, urged speed by would-be borrowers under the new 45-55 PWA plan. The old 30-70 program, whereby Washington made an outright gift of 30 per cent for any approved project if the city or state would supply the remaining 70 per cent has been changed. Now Uncle Sam hands over 45 per cent of the cost of any project as a direct grant if the recipient supplies the remaining 55 per cent.

At the rate applications are being received by the PWA for a share in the 45-55 disbursement program, every dollar available will be used up within from six weeks to two months, Col. Hackett predicted.

"If any community thinks well enough of a project to put up 55 per cent of the cost to qualify under the PWA plan it should get it in as soon as possible," said Col. Hackett.

Sanitary District Asks More.

The largest application under the 45-55 program is for an expenditure of $16,000,000 for the sanitary district. This is in addition to $42,000,000 PWA millions being spent for the district on a 30-70 basis.

Altogether 160 applicants for PWA cash under the 45-55 plan have been filed in Illinois. Of these 125 have been forwarded to Washington. Ickes has approved twenty-six and the money has been alloted.

Three Washington heads of PWA legal, finance, and engineering departments are accompanying Hackett on his around-the-country flight. They will leave for Detroit this morning.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT OFFICIAL PREDICTS UPWARD PRICE TREND

A belief that the price trend for merchandise will be upward was expressed yesterday by Frederick H. Scott, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott Co. He explained that he does not expect this movement will be rapid nor extreme. Scott said the situation is due to the fact that short supplies of merchandise are on the retailers' shelves as the fall nears, while the consumer demand is increasing.

"The next ninety days should be the most productive of any period in any normal year and in this year particularly should be more than unusually productive," Scott said. "In the last few months there have been many changes, nearly all favorable, in general conditions."

Scott said ten weeks have elapsed since NRA was killed and yet goods are firmer in price today than they were before the Supreme court decision.

BUTTER STOCKS ARE REPORTED MUCH LARGER

Cold storage holdings of butter in the United States were the third largest on record for Aug. 1 and eggs the second lowest for that date since 1931, the bureau of agricultural economics reported yesterday.

Butter holdings aggregated 149,464,000 pounds—40,716,000 more than a year ago and 23,442,000 more than the five year average for Aug. 1. The only years to show a greater supply on this date are 1929, with 151,600,000 pounds, and 1933, with 150,934,000. During July 53,000,000 pounds moved into storage—14,000,000 more than last year and 18,000,000 more than the five year average.

Egg stocks amounted to 7,940,000 cases—1,021,000 less than a year ago and 1,180,000 less than the Aug. 1 average.

COUNTRY BANKS DRAW DEPOSITS FROM BIG CITIES

51 Millions Taken from Chicago and New York.

Money moved from New York and Chicago banks to interior institutions last week, banking statistics issued yesterday revealed. While gross deposits in the two cities fell 41 and 10 million dollars, respectively, banks in the other 89 institutions covered by the report showed a gain of 48 millions dollars.

Individual deposits dropped 22 millions in the eastern financial capital, advanced 4 millions here and 29 millions elsewhere, a net upturn of 11 millions.

Government Withdraws Money.

The government withdrew 25 millions of its war loan account from the 89 cities and bolstered its total in New York 28 millions. Interbank deposits declined 17 millions through losses of 47 millions in New York, 14 millions in Chicago and an advance of 44 millions elsewhere.

Except for a previously reported liquidation of 71 millions in holdings of direct government obligations by New York institutions, changes were unimportant in loans and investments.

SEPTEMBER LARD AT NEW HIGH; OTHER FUTURES UP

Short covering and buying credited to cash interests advanced September lard to a new high for the season yesterday and the nearby deliveries closed at the top with gains of 5 to 20 cents. The upturn in hogs to a new high for the season attracted considerable attention, as supplies of cured product in cold storage are said to be steadily decreasing.

There was some pressure on the distant deliveries of lard in sympathy with the weakness in corn and they closed unchanged. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed 12½ cents higher and in new ground since 1926. Spot lard in Liverpool was 6 pence per 112 pounds higher with the price around 17 cents per pound in American funds. Spot lard closed at $16.10; loose, $15.97; leaf, $16.12, and bellies at $19.50 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

OCTOBER EGGS UP 1 CENT; NOVEMBER BUTTER STEADY

Speculative interest in butter and egg futures yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange was light with November butter closing unchanged at 24¾ cents per pound, while October eggs were ¼ cent higher at 25¼ cents per dozen.

An advance of ½ to ¾ cent per dozen in fresh eggs resulted in fears of checking consumption which has been holding up well of late. Withdrawals of eggs from cold storage at the four leading markets were 2,700 cases, compared with 10,000 cases during the corresponding period last year. The into storage movement of butter continues to run well in excess of last year. Trading was restricted to a considerable extent by the fact the government report on cold storage stocks was to be issued later in the day. Sales of butter were 14 cars and eggs 17 cars.
